Business Slump On Upswing

WASHINGTON (UPI)— A government index billed as a barometer of future economic activity increased sharply last month, indicating the winter and spring business slump is giving way to a fall upturn, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

Harold C. Passer, assistant Commerce secretary for economic affairs, hailed the 1.6 per cent advance in the composite index of leading indicators as "solid support for the expectation that business activity is resuming its advance."

Passer said the same index tipped off economists to the latest business slump by starting a decline last October.

RECENT UPTURN

"In view of the short lead time often shown by this series when economic growth resumed in the past, the recent upturn in this index is fully consistent with the strength in business activity suggested by other data," Passer said.

The index is a statistical composite of eight business reports that usually point the way to future changes in the economy.

Each of the eight indicators was reported separately earlier but the composite index is closely watched by economists because it is weighted to give a clearer picture of overall activity.

It was the second cheering report for Nixon administration economic strategists in as many days. The labor department said Wednesday the index of wholesale prices declined this month for the first time in two years, indicating a decrease in some consumer prices would soon follow.

Taken together, the two reports indicate inflation is finally beginning to ease and the near-recession that started last November or December has about run its course.

But the nation still faces some economic troubles. Administration economists have declined to predict, so far, when unemployment will begin to decline from its five-year high of 5 per cent of the work force.

In addition, the prices paid by the average consumer have not yet shown the dramatic improvement exhibited by wholesale prices. The cost of living index rose a little more slowly last month but it still continued to rise.

SIX INDICATORS

Six of the eight leading indicators advanced last month while two declined.

The index includes the average workweek in manufacturing, up 0.3 per cent; average weekly claims for unemployment insurance, actually down but inverted to show a 12.5 per cent improvement in economic conditions; new orders for durable goods, up 6.1 per cent; orders for plant and equipment, up 4.3 per cent; building permits for private housing, down 3.1 per cent; prices for industrial materials down 2.2 per cent; stock prices, up 0.1 per cent, and the ratio of price to unit labor cost in manufacturing, up 0.8 per cent.

The department's index of coincident indicators, those that usually move at the same pace as the overall economy, was unchanged last month while the index of lagging indicators declined 0.2 per cent.

Water Board Asks Ship Holding Tanks

Quality Control Directors Urge Sewage-Dumping Ban

HAYWARD (UPI) — The Regional Water Quality Control Board said today ships and boats are dumping 88 million gallons of raw sewage into San Francisco Bay every year.

The board, over the objections of the Ports of San Francisco and Oakland, unanimously adopted a recommendation to prohibit the practice on a "tight but reasonable time schedule."

The resolution called on the State Water Resources Control Board to ask the Legislature to require waste holding tanks on all vessels in the bay with sanitary facilities.

Ships and boats would be required to maintain shoreside connections to pump the sewage out to treatment facilities.

The board recommended the recommendations be implemented on "a tight yet reasonable time schedule."

There were some objections by yacht clubs shipping associations and the two large ports, who said the action was premature because waste discharges from ships and boats are a national problem and the federal government should establish uniform regulations.

But board members said it would take from three to seven years for federal regulations to go into force.

A research report to the meeting estimated there were 90,000 pleasure craft on San Francisco Bay alone, and vessels of all kinds were pouring 88 million gallons of wastes into the bay annually.

The board, at its regular meeting at the Hayward City Council chambers, also was to consider formal enforcement proceedings against the city of Palo Alto.

Reports were scheduled on progress toward compliance with board orders from Los Altos, Mountain View, the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, Berkeley Acquatic Park Lagoon and Contra Costa County Sanitation District No. 3.

Red Gunners Down U.S. Copter; 32 Feared Dead

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners shot down a big helicopter flying U.S. troops to a remote combat base in South Vietnam Wednesday and 32 Americans were feared killed.

The helicopter crash darkened a report today from U.S. headquarters which said 52 Americans were killed in the Vietnam War last week, lowest toll for any seven-day period in more than 3 1-2 years.

Headquarters said two Americans were killed, seven injured and 30 officially listed as missing in the downing of the CH47 helicopter Wednesday afternoon at Artillery Base Judy 31 miles southwest of Tab Ky and 30 miles northeast of Saigon. It was hit by rocket grenades.

The known death toll was expected to rise as additional bodies were identified.

It was the worst helicopter crash involving Americans since Jan. 8, 1968, when a Marine CH53 crashed into the side of a hill near the far northern town of Dong Ha, killing 41 men.

Ground action across Vietnam was mostly light and scattered but the South Vietnamese Command said government troops killed 42 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in a clash Wednesday two miles southeast of combat base O'Reilly, 12 miles east of the Laotian border. Military sources said three South Vietnamese troops were killed and nine wounded.

American B52 bombers carried out two missions today near O'Reilly and Artillery Base Barnett nearby and two raids 15 miles east of the Laotian border in the A Shau Valley.

Military sources said the Chinook was hit by a rocket grenade 100 yards from the base, manned by the Army's 196th Light Infantry Brigade in mountainous countryside. Two of the known dead were killed on the ground and five were injured when debris from the disintegrating helicopter struck them.

Helicopters, which normally fly at slow speeds, are extremely vulnerable to ground fire. One of the worst crashes of the war occurred on May 6, 1969, when a CH47 crashed 75 miles northeast of Saigon, killing 40 American and South Vietnamese troops and wounding 43.

U.S. military spokesmen also reported four Americans killed when an Army UH1 Huey helicopter gunship was shot down 12 miles southeast of Can Tho, 87 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta. It was hit by rocket grenade fire.

MOBILITY IS THE KEY

Juvenile Hall: New Look

By MARY LEYDECKER

A man who believes that "youngsters, like bicycles, need mobility to maintain equilibrium," has brought a fresh outlook and a new atmosphere to Marin's Juvenile Hall.

Although Erick F. Yarchin has been superintendent at the hall for only a year and disclaims credit, saying changes are "due to the staff and kids," an unmistakable and encouraging new feeling is present in the old buildings.

Although the buildings are for the most part still inadequate and poorly designed either for security or cheerfulness, Yarchin has led his staff, which was without a superintendent for two years, to a new way of dealing with old problems.

The charges are both major and minor — and become apparent very quickly to anyone who has toured the institution in the past.

A year ago, youngsters complained to a reporter that "there's nothing to do here but lie around and watch television."

Although some of this activity still takes place, Yachin has instituted a variety of programs to combat boredom.

Each youngster entering the hall must attend the school the following day — and this includes summertime. Gone is the long summer vacation for school — this year there were

Marin County's Basic Tax Rate Could Soar As High As $2.60

Marin County's basic tax rate, predicted to jump from last year's $2.395 to $2.50, may soar even higher and approach $2.60 per $100 assessed valuation.

This prediction came today from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, who is computing the basic county rate for approval by the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday. Mitchell will also present tax rates for school districts and other special districts on Tuesday, the deadline for setting of tax rates.

The new basic county tax rate of nearly $2.60 does not include the rate for the county school superintendent's office, which this year will be set separately by the Marin County Board of Education. If the county schools tax rate of 13.5 cents is added, the total basic county rate would be close to $2.735, an increase of 34 cents over last year's $2.395.

The big jump is due largely to increased requirements for law enforcement, courts, district attorney, public defender and welfare, said Mitchell.

The upward trend in tax rates is even more pronounced in other Bay Area counties, where the average increase is 55 cents, Mitchell reported. "All I can say is that Marin's increase is considerably below the Bay Area average," said Mitchell. "It's no consolation, but it's a fact."

The auditor-controller completed the tax rate computation for various school districts. Two thirds of the school districts will have tax rate increases, and one-third will have decreases.

Lagunitas School District tax rate will go up by $1.025, Fairfax School District by 97.5 cents, and Dixie School District by 82.5 cents.

Nicasio School District will have the biggest (17 cents) drop in tax rate, followed by Ross School District with a 12.5-cent

Counterfeiter Gets 25 Years

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Thomas E. Amato, 25, of San Leandro has been sentenced to 25 years in federal prison on charges of passing counterfeit $20 bills.

Sentence was imposed by U. S. District judge Sherrill Halbert Wednesday after Amato was convicted of seven counts of passing phony money.

Assistant U. S. Attorney William Shubb said Amato left a trail of counterfeit bills from Vallejo to Sacramento before the Secret Service caught up with him last December.

Bomb Threat Clears Out Hall Of Justice

A bomb threat in the Hall of Justice this morning at 11:45 a.m. caused the evacuation of all employees in both wings of the Civic Center.

All accesses to Civic Center were blocked off, but no prisoners at the hall were evacuated, according to a report.

Mideast Foes Say Cease-Fire Broken

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel and Egypt charged each other today with violating the Middle East cease-fire agreement but for the second day in succession there were no reports of fighting in the area.

The charges came as London diplomatic sources reported that the Soviet Union was sending an "almost continuous stream" of heavy weapons, including long range artillery, to Egypt. In New York, the Middle East peace talks under United Nations mediator Gunnar V. Jarring marked time.

An Israeli army spokesman said that Israel has reported to the U.N. truce supervision organization in Jerusalem that there have been "grave" Egyptian violations of the Aug. 7 cease-fire.

The complaint alleged that construction and preparation of surface-to-air missile sites is still underway inside the standstill zone 19 miles west of the Suez Canal. The cease-fire bans installation of new weapons in a 31-mile wide zone along either side of the waterway.

Egypt also charged cease-fire violations—on the part of Israel. The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram (The Pyramid) printed the charges and documents on them were submitted to both the United States and the United Nations.

Denying the Egyptian charges, an Israeli military spokesman said: "All Israeli military activity in the area has complied with the terms of the cease-fire agreement."

London diplomatic sources said that while the Soviet Union continued to build up Egypt's military strength with new supplies, this did not violate the cease-fire terms.

Authoritative White House sources have said that the United States would be prepared to join the Soviet Union in providing a peace-keeping force in the Middle East once a settlement is reached.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Corn Crop Survey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Farmers Home Administration has begun a survey of corn crop damage from the blight disease and soon will recommend authorization of emergency loans to farmers in some of the hardest hit areas, it was learned today.

Sources in FHA, an Agriculture Department agency, said field officials were checking southern corn leaf blight damage in parts of Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

Telephone checks also were being made from Washington to keep track of damage reports in parts of southern Illinois and Indiana, spokesmen said. Field surveys may be made later in the midwest states.

Oil Slick Fine

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Chevron Oil Co. was fined $1 million Wednesday because of an offshore oil well fire February that resulted in a giant oil slick in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Department of Interior discovered the Chevron wells were not equipped with safety storm chokes as required by law.

A grand jury indicted Chevron May 5 on 900 counts of failure to properly equip its offshore wells. U.S. District Judge Alvin Rubin dropped 400 of the counts after the company pleaded no contest to the other 500.

U.S. Attorney Gerland Gallinghouse, who prosecuted the case, told the court he was told by the Interior Department that Chevron wells now were in compliance with government regulations requiring storm chokes on all wells capable of producing oil.

Riots Continue

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Youths fought police with stones and Molotov cocktails for three hours Wednesday night, the third day of rioting in the Dutch capital.

The youths were protesting a ban on sleeping in Amsterdam's Dam Square — a favorite gathering spot for young people — and police efforts to enforce it.

A New Warhead?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tests just completed by the Soviet Union and disclosed by the Pentagon indicate Moscow may be planning to add a new multiple warhead weapon to its intercontinental ballistic missile arsenal.

In test flights launched Friday, the Soviets hurled two SS11 missiles 5,750 miles to a target area in the Pacific. For the first time, each of there missiles was tipped with three "objects" that re-entered the atmosphere and hit the target.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in revealing the tests to newsmen Wednesday, declined to speculate whether the triple re-entry vehicles in this latest pair of tests were multiple warheads. A U.S. ship watched the re-entry, Laird said, and the results still are under study.

Skyjack Attempt

WARSAW (UPI) — A 27-year-old man with a bomb attempted to hijack a Polish LOT airliner Wednesday and force it to Vienna, but the explosive went off in his hands, the Polish news agency PAP said today.

The hijacker, Rudolf Olm, was injured along with 10 of the 27 passengers abroad the turboprop airliner, the report said. The pilot managed to land the plane without incident.

PAP said the AN27 Soviet-built airliner ha just taken off of a flight to Katowice to Warsaw late Wednesday afternoon when Olm approached a stewardess and showed her the bomb, demanding that the plane land in Vienna.

Hit Drug Users

MONTREAL (UPI) — Two major life insurance firms operating in Canada are refusing to issue policies to marijuana users, and a third plans to question applicants about drug use.

The two companies now refusing policies to users are the Occidental Life Insurance Company of California and the Metropolitan Insurance Company. The Sun Insurance Company soon will reintroduce a question about drug use in its applications.

Occidental Life was the first to announce it was adding two questions pertaining to drug use to its new application forms.

Paul Nichols of Toronto, manager of Occidental's underwriting department in Canada, said "We justify our new policy in refusing to insure pot smokers by our own research."

School Bus Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top government safety official has called for tougher bus construction standards, contending the lack of structural strength in school buses has contributed to "injury and fatality and is an implied threat in future school bus crashes."

"There is no question that school buses are less safe than intercity buses," John Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said Wednesday.

Reed urged the school bus industry and the National Education Association to require more metal fasteners and rivets in school buses which haul about 18 million children a day.

More than 20,000 women marched yesterday in New York during the nationwide protest day. Giant Heroin Ring Smashed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Close cooperation between police here and abroad has smashed a drug ring believed to have smuggled an estimated $2.5 billion worth of heroin into the United States in the past five years, federal authorities announced Wednesday.

At a news conference in the federal courthouse in Brooklyn, U. S. Attorney Edward R. Neaher said two of the three leaders of the ring were in custody in Europe.

Neaher said Luis Stepenberg, 42, New York, had been picked up this week by French authorities and Jack Grosby, 44, formerly of Manhattan, had been arrested in Geneva, Switzerland.

A third suspect, Eduardo Posta, 36, is still at large and is believed to be in Argentina.

All three were named in an indictment charging them with smuggling 60 pounds of heroin into the country between June 1969, and February 1970. That amount of heroin is worth an estimated $18 million on the illegal drug market.

Queens District Attorney Thomas J. Mackell said two men and a woman suspected of being minor members of the ring were under indictment in Queens and the men were in custody.

Mackell said the ring smuggled an estimated 1,900 pounds of heroin—worth more than $500 million "on the street"—into the country in the past year. He estimated the same amount had been brought in by the ring in the five years it has been in operation.

'Pig' Scrawl Identified— Tate Blood

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharon Tate's killers splattered her blood in puddles across the living room and used it to scrawl the word "pig" on the front door of her luxurious home, a police crime expert testified Wednesday.

Joseph Granado also said police found a bare footprint on the front porch of the home which later was identified as having been made by the blood of the blonde actress. Miss Tate was repeatedly stabbed, then hanged while she was still alive.

The testimony came in the trial of Charles Manson and three members of his hippie "family" charged with murdering Miss Tate and three others Aug. 8, 1969, and grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife Rosemary the following night.

A kitchen fork found plunged into LaBianca's chest was introduced into evidence Wednesday and Mrs. LaBianca's teenage con told how he found LaBianca's hold in the living room of the home.

Frank Struthers, 16, said he returned home from a holiday at a lake and was unable to get into the house. He summoned his older sister, Susan, and her boyfriend, and they entered the kitchen.

"We went into the living room and we saw Leno crouching there," Struthers said.

He said they summoned police, who found the butchered body of Mrs. LaBianca in a bedroom.

Mrs. LaBianca's partner in a dress shop business, Mrs. Ruth Sivick, testified she had visited the LaBianca home the night before the bodies were found.

"Is this the refrigerator you Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron opened?" Stovitz asked, showing her a color photograph.

"Yes," she replied.

"When you saw it, were these letters written on it in blood—H-E-A-L-T-E-R S-K-E-L-T-E-R" he asked.

She said they were not.

It was the first indication the message left in blood at the LaBianca residence was misspelled. The prosecution has contended that the motive for the seven slayings was inspired by the Beatles' song "Helter Skelter" and was intended to provoke racial violence.

Demo Rival Levels Kickback Charges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Milton G. Gordon, Democratic candidate for state treasurer, today accused incumbent Ivy Baker Priest of soliciting contributions from California bankers as "kickbacks into her campaign."

Mrs. Priest categorically denied the charge.

Gordon, state real estate commissioner during former Gov. Edmund G. Brown's administration, referred to a letter mailed by the Northern California Committee to re-elect Ivy Baker Priest state treasurer. The letter asks for campaign contributions.

"The state treasurer," charged Gordon, "is using a formula to assess California banks that are holding state reserve funds. It adds up to kickbacks into her campaign."

"Oh, no, no, I should say not," replied Mrs. Priest, former U.S. treasurer during the Eisenhower administration. The Republican was elected state treasurer in 1966.

California normally keeps about $225 million in time deposits (similar to savings accounts) in state banks and keeps about $40 million in demand deposits (checking accounts). The deposits are spread through about 115 California banks.

The campaign letter was signed by Arthur J. Dolan Jr., a San Francisco investment bank executive who is Mrs. Priest's Northern California finance chairman.

Dolan said the Aug. 3 letter was mailed to about 200 potential contributors from all walks of life, including bankers. He declined to say how many were bankers, or who they were.

Dolan said the letter represented a second effort to raise funds from individuals who had contributed to Mrs. Priest's 1966 camgaign. An earlier letter had been sent in July.

The second letter read:

"We have received very few responses to our letter of July 6 in connection with th Ivy Baker Priest campaign for state treasurer.

"The executive committee has met and has determined that the minimum budget for Northern California which will help assure Mrs. Priest's election is $75,000.

Gordon said "the subtle implication in the letter is that those that fail to kickback will lose their deposits and those who respond generously might receive more.

"I dont think this could be considered a kickback in any way," responded Mrs. Priest.

"Bankers contributed very little when I was running before," she said of her 1966 campaign.

She said Dolan had "compiled a long list of potential contributors through the years.

"We're merely asking people for money who have helped her in the past," he said. "On the money side, she (Mrs. Priest) doesn't even know one thing that's going on.

The Statue of Liberty was the work of French sculptor Frederic Auguste Bartholdi.

LEGISLATIVE ANALYST

A Paradox In Government Where Partisanship Flares

By DAVID DIETZ

A. ALAN POST
Nonpartisan economist

SACRAMENTO — In an atmosphere highly charged with partisanship, A. Alan Post is a paradox — he stands by necessity, apart from the struggles of Capitol politics.

As legislative analyst, the soft-spoken Post, 55, is often thrust into the middle of wars between Democrats and Republicans. But while his recommendations and observations often provoke criticism, Post has never been accused of playing politics.

"I feel we run the office in a dispassionate, objective and factual way," he said. "We can't be concerned with whose toes we step on. We hit Democrats as hard as we hit Republicans on issues."

Post's office was established by the Legislature 29 years ago — first of its kind in the nation — to provide an independent view of state operations often subject to the influence of the governor's office. A major function is to analyze the governor's annual budget, giving recommendations to the legislators on what can be cut and where funds can be added.

Prior to formation of his office, Post said, "the Legislature didn't know when agencies were telling the truth. Now it has an oversight of the administration. it doesn't have to depend on the ministers of his majesty."

Post and his staff of 45 — which includes economists, political scientists, accountants, lawyers, an engineer and an architect —research every item in the state's vast spending program and couple recommendations on appropriations with suggestions on improving efficiency in various departments.

1 The analysis of Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1970-71 fiscal budget covered 1,167 pages.

Post's staff also reviews all proposed legislation that involves cost to the state — this year totaling upward of 3,000 bills — and also responds to a continuing flood of requests from the 121 senators and assemblymen for opinions and reports. Post estimated there were about 5,000 such requests this past session.

Past estimates have placed the annual saving to state taxpayers as a resul, of his office's recommendations at several million dollars, not including economy effects on the budget and state operations.

Despite budget disagreements, Post said he can recall being publicly criticized by a governor — Edmund G. Brown — only once since taking the fiscal adviser's post in 1949. That was over the benefits of a proposed state park in Santa oMnica, he said.

Post said that while not recommending a vote against Reagan's ill-fated tax shift program, he did express major reservations about some provisions in the package, but was unaware of any public criticism from Reagan over his stand.

Post said the Legislature accepts as high as 75 per cent of his office's recommendations, in whole or part, and that substantial reductions have been made to Reagan's budgets in the years he has been the state's chief executive.

Concerned about rising costs, particularly in personal services provided by the state, such as medical and welfare, Post said he sees no reversal in the trend unless labor-saving devices can be employed and the job of processing people who seek services from the state can be simplified.

He also raised the possibility of shifting some public services into private hands.

But, he added, "We're kind of swimming against the tide."

Post noted his office had won from the Legislature instructions to higher education to obtain 50 per cent more use out of facilities but said specific recommendations for year-round use of educational plants and longer class days have not been accepted.

When away from his post, which pays $35,000 a year, Post spends his spare time as an artist, working in oils and water colors. In fact, while attending Occidental College, where he earned Phi Beta Kappa honors, he was for a time undecided whether to become an economist or an artist.

Post often exhibits at Sacramento area galleries and shows, sometimes with his wife, Helen, a sculptress.

"It's relief, but I don't do it for that," he said.

After undergraduate work, Post earned a doctorate at Princeton University and went to work as an economics instructor at Occidental. He first joined the legislative analyst's office in 1942 as a summer employee, refjoining the agency in 1946 as chief assistant to the late Roland Vandergrift after World War II service.

When Vandergrift died, Post was named his successor.

Dead Hiker Identified As A Sonoma State Collegian

A hiker who fell to his death at the Sierra National Forest near Clovis during the weekend has been identified as Daniel Joseph Butler, 26, a Sonoma State College student.

Butler had been hiking with Boy Scouts and had gone ahead of the group Saturday afternoon. His body was found Sunday in Thomas Edison Lake.

Butler reportedly suffered a broken neck when he fell down an embankment while trying to get a drink of water. Identification was delayed pending notification of next of kin.

Butler graduated from Sonoma State in 1969 with a physical education major and had enrolled for the fall semester for graduate work.

A native of Oakland, Butler was a resident of Davis and was reportedly a member of the Sierra Club and an experienced hiker.

He was a member of the Cycling Club of America and had twice been a member of the U.S. team in the 2,000-mile tour of Mexico and had been with the U.S. bicycling team at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clement W. Butler of Davis; a brother, Clement W. Butler Jr. of Dublin, Alameda County; and three sisters, Diane Feldbrugge of Lafayette, Mary Margaret Butler and Roberta Rose Butler of Davis.

Requiem Mass was offered today at Davis with burial at Davis Catholic Cemetery.

Bombers Attack TV Station

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)—Bombs thrown at communications centers Wednesday night injured a television cameraman and blew out doors and windows.

The bombers who attacked Channel 10 television station, Radio Carve and the Catholic newspaper B.P. Color escaped despite security precautions by hunters of two kidnaped foreigners, police said.

Police said the attackers were apparently students but not members of the leftist Tupamaro terrorist organization that is holding U.S. farm consultant Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo., and Brazilian consul Aloysio Dias Gomide, 41.

A Sharp Rise In Patronage Of New Ferry

A sharp rise in patronage aboard the Golden Gate Bridge District's new ferry between Sausalito and San Francisco was reported last night, with a total of 4,023 riders counted for the 21 departures on the second full day of weekday service.

The first day's total was 3,779.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said that some afternoon departures were five to six minutes behind schedule, but that most runs were on time. About 225 commuters used the service, the same number as on Tuesday.

The tourist traffic was predominantly from San Francisco, Luehring said, but he added that "we're getting an awful lot from both ways."

Reporter To Sue In Kopechne Case

BOSTON (UPI) — The court reporter at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car has filed a $150,000 suit against the state of Massachusetts over the distribution of the documents.

A hearing was set for Sept. 8. The briefs were filed Wednesday.

Sidney R. Lipman, the reporter, said his livelihood was affected when copies of the transcript were made available to newsmen by Superior Court Clerk Edward V. Keating at a cost of $75 apiece. Lipman, who said he was given distribution rights and spent $6,000 on preparing copies, would have charged nearly $800 a copy.

More Acts Of Vandalism By Inmates At Quentin

More toilet and wash basin smashing was reported last night in the segregation unit of San Quentin, although not on the scale of Tuesday night.

Irving Ritter, prison business manager, said up to 10 toilets and basins were broken by inmates apparently acting in support of 800 convicts who staged a sit-down protest on Tuesday to support demands for prison reforms.

Ritter reported no injury last night and said no effort was made to halt the vandalism.

Tuesday night, 73 toilets, 47 wash basins, four beds, 13 lights and three mattresses were destroyed.

No disciplinary action has been announced.

Meanwhile, all but about 600 men in the main cell blocks of the prison were back at work today, Ritter said. Those still locked in cells are to be questioned about their participation in the sit-down protest.

Among the inmates' demands were for naming of a black warden and granting of political asylum in Communist countries to condemned prisoners.

The temperature on an average summer day at the South Pole is about 20 degrees below zero, compared with 113 below in winter.

Outside, (center) Woford shouts for a resuscitator and then administers aid. Firemen said the boy told them he was alone in his apartment when fire broke out in the building shortly before 9 a.m., his parents having gone to San Francisco. Cause of the blaze, its origin and damage were undetermined this morning.

Jackson School Leader Resigns

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Dr. John A. Martin, superintendent of Mississippi's largest school district, resigned today in the wake of massive desegregation orders.

Sausalito Foundation In Drug Test Fight

SAUSALITO (UPI) — The head of the McNaughton Foundation of Sausalito said today the Food and Drug Administration has withdrawn its permission for testing of McNaughton's controversial anti-cancer drug Iaetrile.

Andrew McNaughton refused to elaborate on the reasons given by the FDA except to say he did not consider them valid.

The FDA last April 25 gave the Sausalito foundation permission to test the drug, derived from apricot pits, on humans. McNaughton said the permit was abruptly withdrawn two days later.

"We're fighting this in the Senate and the Congress—the reasons given by the FDA are not valid," McNaughton said. "Having established that this drug is non-toxic and has efficacy we would like to go ahead with tests."

McNaughton said he expects a Congressional hearing on the drug by the latter part of September.

Laetrile, chemically known as amygdalin, has been labeled "dangerous" by the Canadian government and "unproved" by the American Cancer Society.

"We do not consider that the use of the word 'cure' is justified. But it certainly is our hope that it may turn out to be a useful drug in the prevention and treatment of cancer," McNaughton said last April.

Although the drug has been used privately, McNaughton's tests would have been the first clinical tests with government approval.

In 1966 the American Cancer Society said it had found "no evidence that treatment with Laetrile results in any objective benefit in the treamnt of cancer in human beings." It termed laetrile an "unproved method of cancer treatment."

Earlier, the Food and Drug Directorate of Canada moved to stop distribution of the drug, contending it "was dangerous and did not meet the requirements of the new drug act."

According to McNaughton, the drug acts to break down cancerous tumors by releasing cyanide and other chemicals "which destroy the malignant cells without harming normal cells."

The drug has been known to medical science for over a century.

'Be Responsive,' States Urged

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—State government must become more responsive to the needs of the citizens in the 1970s, according to a panel of state and local leaders at the National Legislative Conference.

Gov. Calvin L. Rempton welcomed the members of state legislatures and legislative staff members from throughout the nation Wednesday to the first plenary session of the weeklong 23rd Annual Conference.

The Utah Democrat said most states are wisely reorganizing state governments to make them more powerful in relation to Washington. But, he added, that most focus on "increasing the power and control of the governor and not the legislature."

"It is essential that the power of the state legislature be increased to continue as an effective check on the executive office," he stated.

RETIRING ELECTRICIAN

Original Member Of Bridge Team

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

George R. Pimlott of San Anselmo has been on the Golden Gate Bridge for 35 years — not stuck in a traffic jam, but working as an electrician.

Next Monday, one day before his 65th birthday, he will retire from the job he has held for more than half of his life. That will leave only one other man from the original bridge construction crew still working, maintenance superintendent R. E. Mullins of Corte Madera.

Mathematicians with a bent for history may wonder how Pimlott managed to work since 1935 on a bridge that opened on May 27, 1937, but like many of the original bridge district crew he also worked on the construction of the bridge.

Pimlott worked for about a year and a half for John Roebeling, the spinner of the mammoth cables that support the roadway, before he went to work for the district just two days before the grand opening. Mullins started one day earlier.

Pimlott recalled the high moments of his long career, including uncounted rescues of desperate persons trying to jump to their deaths and throwing the switches to black out the bridge on Dec. 7, 1941.

"We got the order from the commanding general at the Presidio, and boy, did I black her out," he said. Pimlott added that he probably blacked out the first big facility in the nation that night after Pearl Harbor.

"Oh, we had some pips out here." He conceded it took his wife, Norah, a long time to get used to having others ask if his job merely involved changing light bulbs on the span.

Light bulbs were the least of the problems, Pimlott said, but he added that they had a way of burning out at night during winter storms.

The topmost light is 746 feet off the water. "And that wind would come off the Sierras and hit you just like someone slapped your face with a wet towel."

The first question always asked of prospective bridge workers, he said, was, "Are you afraid of heights?"

"It certainly isn't a monotonous job," Pimlott said, especially for an electrician having to deal with lighting, toll registry equipment, fog horns, elevators, traveling scaffolds and intercom systems. "We've got practically every electrical thing you can get" he noted.

He was especially proud of the electrical maintenance department's ability to make virtually any part needed on the bridge, from switches for toll equipment long out of production to an ingenious device to pick up static electricity from vehicles entering the toll gates.

The original system used wires in fixed bases, and every one had to be replaced almost as soon as the bridge opened. So Pimlott and his fellow crewmen devised a unique system using piano wire with a pivoting weight below the surface so the wire can roll with the motion of passing vehicles.

Even the district's entry into the computer age last year took a monumental job of hand wiring the old toll equipment so it was compatible with the computer.

"If we haven't got it, we'll make it," Pimlott declared.

The most dangerous job, he acknowledged, was working on the roadway — a job that used to fall to electricians back when lane dividers had lights in them. The danger was from motorists, some of whom occasionally managed to run smack into maintenance equipment — and sometimes into bridge workers.

"I always preferred working up on the cable — at least no seagull was going to knock me off," he said.

The only time he did not like being out on the bridge was on the night of Dec. 1, 1951, when high winds forced its closing for two hours while the roadway swayed in the storm. "I started across in a pickup, took one look at that roadway, and made a u-turn right back."

The incident led the district to put in a $3.5-million bottom lateral bracing that made the roadway far more rigid.

The biggest change on the bridge, Pimlott said, was the growth of the maintenance crew from 11 to almost 100 men. The original crew, of course, had no painters since the structure had a new coat. Now it has 37 painters.

Pimlott was born in San Francisco, seven months before the 1906 earthquake drove his family to Mill Valley. He lived there for 40 years before moving to San Anselmo where he resides at 12 Hampton Avenue.

He remembers Mill Valley then as a place "where I practically knew everybody by first name and where we played marbles in the town square." He also remembers painting his name high on a rafter of the Old Mill as a child. "I guess it's still there," he said.

His father, an electrician, went into the real estate business, and gave his name to Mill Valley's Pimlott Lane. The young Pimlott went to Summit and Old Mill schools, and was graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1926.

He and his father then went into the electrical contracting business in Mill Valley, and one of their big jobs was wiring the hospital at what was then called Hamilton Field. "Little did we think it would grow as it did," he said of today's huge military installation.

Being in on construction of the bridge also wasn't dull, he said. He recalled the day in February 1937 when the life net below the roadway broke and spilled 10 men to their deaths. "I was on a cable just above the net when it let go, and helped pull up a guy hanging onto a girder with just his fingers."

Pimlott noted he would not be compelled to retire for another five years, "but what's the use of working for 35 years and not having some time for fun?"

He and his wife are members of an international trailer club, and travel and fishing are their plans for the future. Marin's booming population, he said, "just doesn't leave room to stretch anymore. I have to go to Oregon to get some freedom to stretch."

The Pimlotts also are looking forward to the birth of their first grandchild. Their only child, Norah Jean Laffan, lives in Corte Madera.

"During the Depression," he said, "I had lots of time but no money. Now I'll have some of both."

A FINAL CHECK — Golden Gate Bridge District electrician George R. Pimlott checks switch gear in the district substation as he heads for retirement after 35 years on the bridge. A resident of San Anselmo, he concedes he is happy to be dropping out of the commuter race set off by the bridge's opening those many years ago.

Hotel Had Been On Hazard List

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Grand Central Hotel, where two persons perished in a night time blaze, had been listed as a potential firetrap, city officials said Wednesday.

Fire Chief William Murray said a cigarette may have touched off the fire that injured an additional 13 persons and caused damage estimated at $100,000 Tuesday night.

One victim was identified as Mrs. Margaret Green and the other as a "Joe Dod," both in their 50s.

The building was constructed as an office building shortly after the 1906 earthquake and city records show condemnation action was pending concerning code violations.

He later worked for the Educational Programs Division of NASA as a space science lecturer and planned and carried out teacher training programs.

Warning For Hikers: Beware Of The Wasp

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Here's a warning for hikers, picnickers, campers and barbecue artisans in Northern California:

Beware of the wasp.

The state Agriculture Department reported today that swarms of the yellow marauders have been inflicting their "instant sting" in the past few days. Complaints have poured in to the department, a spokesman said.

The pests appear to be particularly vicious in the Sierra foothills where they are swooping down on unsuspecting vacationers.

"Meat wasps live mostly on meat and blood but will attack any human or animal that is injured," Department Entomologist Ron Hawthorne said. "A vicious insect, they deliver an 'instant sting' while on the fly.

"The first sting is loaded with venom, but they will continue to sting you, and the only compensation is that the more stings from the same wasp, the less venom per sting."

Hawthorne said wasps are attracted to pet foods left out of doors. "A swarm of them can consume a whole can of cat food in a half hour," he said.

The only way to get rid of the pests, the entomologist said, is to find their nests in the ground and destroy them.

Hawthorne said a new pesticide which scientists hope can control the wasps has not yet received official government approval but it should be available by next year.

Judge Rules Out Charge At Stokes

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A suit filed in 1967 charging Mayor Carl B. Stokes with malfeasance was dismissed in Cuyahoga County probate court Wednesday.

The suit, filed by Roy F. Richards, vice chairman of the Citizens Committee for Law Enforcement, charged Stokes with giving "Cleveland Now" funds to black militant groups.

"Cleveland Now" is a program aimed at physical and social rehabilitation of the city, particularly the ghetto areas.

Visiting Judge Holland Gary dismissed the suit on grounds Stokes was re-elected and the charges constituted a moot question.

THE PUEBLO SKIPPER

Bucher Hopes To Stay In Navy Despite Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty months after being released from captivity in North Korea, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the spy ship Pueblo, has become an author, regained the weight he lost in prison and developed a paunch.

His growing bay window is not unexpected for a man of 43. The book is something else again.

In it, the officer who hopes he still has a career in the Navy, argues that it was Navy bungling that led to the capture of the USS Pueblo on Jan. 23, 1968.

"Bucher: My Story" was published this month by Doubleday. To promote it Bucher took leave and came to Washington where he spent two hours in the Pentagon book store one day autographing copies for long lines of the curious.

He was unable to resist the temptation to inscribe "Go Navy!" in copies bought by uniformed Army and Air Force officers.

In an interview with UPI, Bucher said a combination of incompetant naval officers and a bureaucracy that would not bend led to the capture of the Pueblo and its 83 officers and men.

Although the military currently is under fire for overspending, Bucher said one problem with the spy ship program was that it was run on a shoestring.

The graying commander said some unknown person floated the initial idea for dispatching ships weighed down with intricate electronic gear to listen in on Soviet radio and radar frequencies.

Then a staff study was made and the plan approved at the highest level. The plan was rated a "minimum risk operation" since the ships always would remain in international waters and the Soviets respected the freedom of the seas,

Even more important was the fact that the Russians operated similar electronic spy ships off the American coasts. The U.S. planners reasoned that the Soviets would never touch an American spy ship because unarmed Russian counterparts would be susceptible to retaliation.

Later the spy ship mission was changed to include nosing around off the Chinese and North Korean coasts. This created risks which had not been envisioned in the original staff study.

"But no one reworked the staff study," Bucher said. "It was assumed that since approval came from high up in the Joint Chiefs of Staff that they knew what they were doing."

Bucher said that when he was given command of the Pueblo he asked that the "minimum risk" evaluation be changed and that protective measures be taken, including installation of equipment to destroy classified documents quickly, and a reduction in the tremendous volume of secret papers carried aboard ship.

"Every recommendation I made was put into effect after our capture," Bucher said. "It was the old closing-the-barn-door routine."

Bucher lost a lot of weight in a North Korean prison, and returned home a gaunt shadow of the man who played football in his days at Boys Town, Neb.

But in the 20 months since his release he has regained the lost poundage and then some.

"That's my fault," said his wife, Rose, pointing to the paunch.

"That's a lotta beer," said the commander.

At the Pentagon book store, managers counted more than 1,200 people entering the store in the first hour. Some 30,000 people work in the Pentagon.

Hundreds of people just stood and gawked at the once obscure naval commander now turned celebrity. Many brought over books to be autographed, shook Bucher's hand and wished him good luck.

"I was with you all the way," said one woman.

"I liked the way you handled the situation," said a man.

But all was not sweetness and light. One bystander asked her companion, "Shall we buy a book?"

"No, no," was the other woman's reply. "He's a traitor."

Bucher still believes the United States made a mistake in not retaliating against the North Koreans immediately after they seized the lightly armed Pueblo.

He said servicemen expect the government to back them up when they are in trouble and U.S. failure to act in the Pueblo case was a tremendous blow to morale.

He said he knew of "a number of aviators who turned in their wings and made it clear they were thoroughly disgusaed — and that doesn't mean they were spoiling for a fight."

Bucher has rapidly become proficient at the autograph business, signing "best wishes" and "warmest regards" to books held out by smiling strangers.

It is a far cry from the grim months in a small Korean prison when Bucher and his men used the "Hawaiian Good Luck Sign."

In his book, Bucher tells the story of the "Hawaiian good luck sign" — an upraised fist with the middle finger extended. This familiar U.S. gesture of defiance and derision was unknown in North Korea and the Pueblo crewmen told their captors it meant "good luck" in Hawaiian.

A famous picture released by the North Koreans showed a number of sailors with their middle fingers extended to give the lie to the happy smiles they were ordered by their captors to display.

At one mass meeting, Bucher relates, he asked his men to show their chief jailer their respect by giving him the "Hawaiian good luck sign," whereupon they raised their fists with outstretched middle fingers at the officer.

"The crew showed remarkable control in maintaining solemnly penitent expressions," Bucher said.

However, shortly before their release, a copy of Time magazine with the picture and a caption saying the finger sign proved the photo to be other than what the North Koreans claimed, made its way to their captors.

For a week the officers and crew got the roughest beatings and kickings they were to suffer in their entire captivity. That ended the "Hawaiian good luck sign" game.

Bucher is now assigned to the naval post graduate school taking a management course that will earn him a master's degree. However, in March he was put on limited duty for six months by a medical board as a result of the malnutrition, beatings and strain of his ordeal.

He will soon go before the medical board again. How he fares there may determine the course of his naval career. He could be given disability retirement.

Asked if he still has a career in the Navy in the wake of the Pueblo case and his own criticism of the Navy heirarchy, Bucher said, "I hope so. I'm still a highly qualified naval officer."

Beating Case Trial Is Set

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court trial has been set for Tuesday for Lloyd J. Hartman of San Francisco accused of the beating of a Mill Valley cocktail waitress the morning of July 18.

According to police Hartman attacked Patty Noland, 32, of 31 Millay Place as she left Roland's Cocktail Lounge in the Marina district shortly after 2 a.m. that morning.

Arraigned yesterday, Hartman will be tried for assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said Hartman, 39, had asked bartenders to call taxis for him but sent them away when they arrived. After being ejected from the tavern he waited for Miss Roland and clubbed her with a tire iron, officers said.

The Dead Sea is about 25 per cent salt.

Court Delays On Drydocks Ruling

Marin County's effort to get rid of the four wooden drydocks bogged down in Richardson Bay through court action was continued today to Sept. 10 to give the board of supervisors a chance to solve the problem.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court ordered the continuance because supervisors are expected to discuss a solution with owner J. Christopher Roberts of Mill Valley Tuesday.

The drydocks have been the subject of court action since the late Delmar D. Wise of Diesel Engineering and Maintenance Co. brought them to Sausalito four years ago.

The present owner has plans to move the docks closer to Sausalito and refit them for a lotus-shaped cultural center, but the supervisors passed an emergency ordinance in July that forbids moving drydocks without a permit.

Lt. Leland L. Brown, a civil division chief, acting for Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, as receiver in the case, submitted a supplemental report yesterday stating that he had been unable to obtain cost estimates from anyone interested in dismantling the dry docks.

However, Brown added, he had discussed removal or burning the docks with the Coast Guard and the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. The Coast Guard has no restrictions barring either removal or destruction, he said, and the pollution control district said that a burning variance permit could be obtained for $25.

As receiver, the sheriff is empowered to marshall the assets of the owner for removal of the docks.

Carl B. Shapiro, Roberts' attorney, also submitted a letter asking six months grace period for development of the "project Atlantis" cultural center and saying his client would be willing to pay rent for that period.

Shapiro said that shipyard and harbor owner, D. J. Arques, had said that he would give docking space to the drydocks if local government legal conditions were met.

U.S. Calling For Mideast Arms Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department, noting that Soviet arms were continuing to flow into Egypt as they had before the cease-fire, made a new bid Thursday for a big power arms limitation in the Middle East.

Department spokesman John King, told reporters, "As far as I can tell there hasn't been any suspension in the flow of Soviet arms to Egypt in recent months.

Summer Jobs May Lead To Careers

By LARRY MOWELL

Neighborhood Youth Corps summer jobs are no more than a means to earn a little money for some young people, but for others they are rewarding first glimpses at a future career.

Both attitudes towards the government-financed job program were found among seven youth corps girls and a former one working at Marin General Hospital this summer.

Mona Wilson, 16, of 273 Drake Avenue, Marin City, works in the pharmacy, bottling medicine and getting excited about a nursing career.

The shy Tamalpais High School sophomore said she enjoys being able to observe the nurses in action during her rounds and wants to become one.

More immediately, she hopes to follow in the footsteps of her friend, Gloria McMichael, 17, of 245 Drake Avenue who recommended that she get a job at the hospital through the youth corps.

Miss McMichael, now a high school senior started at the hospital last summer as a youth corps worker and was hired as an after-school employee when the summer ended.

She has been working this summer for $2.25 per hour compared to the $1.55 pocketed by youth corps workers.

As a transportation aide who wheels patients around the hospital, she said she has ample opportunity to view the hospital operations and is more convinced than ever that she wants to become a nurse.

One of her co-workers, Tye Rasmusen, 16, of 79 Twin Oaks Avenue, San Rafael, is aiming higher; she hopes eventually to become a surgeon.

Because she missed spring semester, she is in the out-of-school program which pays an extra five cents an hour, but plans to return to San Rafael High School next month for her senior year.

She worked last summer as a nurse's aide in a Ukiah convalescent hospital that both depressed her and made her determined to become a doctor.

"I also want to be an Egyptologist, but I decided this would be a little more practical than that," said Miss Rasmusen.

However, Nellie Thompson, 16, of 71 Hatzic Court, Larkspur, and Barbara Lapic, 17, of 476 Cane Street also in Larkspur, said the work had no application to their futures.

Miss Lapic, who lives in a group home run by the Marin Foundation, was required to work during the summer so she sought a job in kitchen work, because she had experience as a waitress.

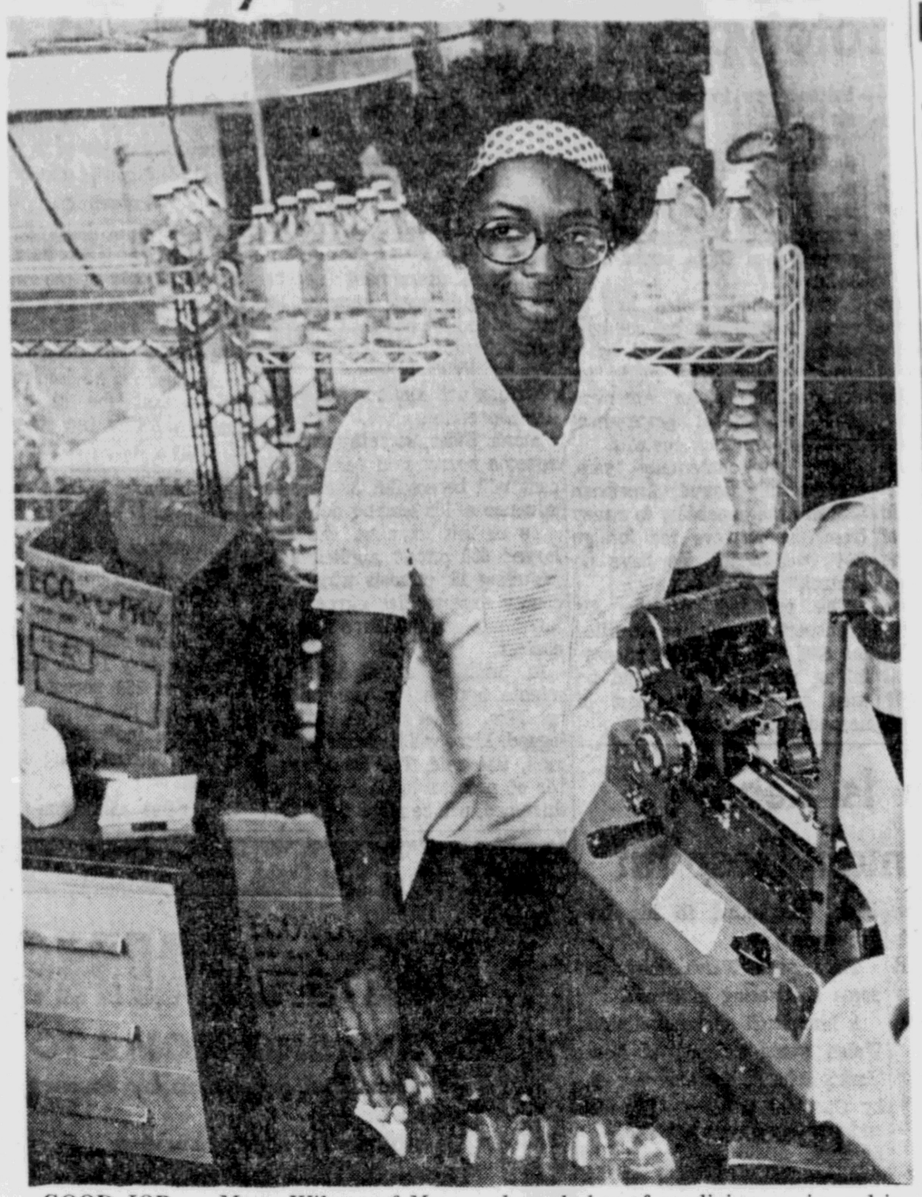
Working in the hospital kitchen is enjoyable work, she said, "the only thing I didn't like was I was only getting $1.55 an hour."

She said she will take business courses in her senior year at Redwood High School in an effort to get a better paying job because she has to move out of the home next summer.

Miss Thompson divides her time between the hospital employee's credit union and the library.

She said she had experience at the library at Sir Francis Drake High School and asked for an accounting job. She got a mixture of both.

However, she plans to study math and retail buying at College of Marin for a career in retaining so the summer job has not helped towards a career, she said.



GOOD JOB — Mona Wilson of Marin City labels bottles at Marin General Hospital. She plans to use the knowledge of medicine gained in the pharmacy as a steppingstone to a career in medicine.

(Independent-Journal photo)

The hospital, of course, didn't quibble over whether the young people plan medical careers. The salaries for the seven workers are paid by federal and county funds so the hospital gets free help.

"It helps the hospital and it helps the young people," summarized one hospital spokesman.

Attorney For Brocato Hits I-J Article

A news report published July 27 in the Independent-Journal has been described as "grossly libelous" by Santa Rosa attorney Robert M. Bell.

Bell is the attorney for James R. Brocato, 31, former print shop chapel chairman at the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat and San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 delegate to the Sonoma County Labor Council who was one of three men arrested June 3 and awaiting trial on charges of conspiring to break windows of I-J advertisers in San Rafael and Novato.

The July 27 report, said Bell, was "grossly libelous to Mr. Brocato in that the last paragraph thereof implies that Mr. Brocato is in some way responsible for the vandalism to the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat as alleged earlier in the article. Demand is hereby made that the same be corrected or retracted . . ."

The I-J has NOT accused Brocato of involvement in the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat vandalism incidents referred to, nor has the I-J implied or intended to imply any such accusation.

Argentines Raid Police Station

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —Armed raiders took over a police station in suburban Ferreyra Wednesday and made off with a quantity of arms after immobilizing the occupants.

Eyewitnesses said about 20 raiders struck the police station near this central Argentine city, disarmed 10 policemen and bound them with chains and handcuffs. The group included two young women and two young men dressed in police uniforms, they said.

Place Order First, Hoover Tells Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says the responsibility for peace and order in the college campuses this fall "rests squarely with college administrators."

Hoover, in the September issue of the FBI law enforcement bulletin, said student radicals "know well that their success in part is dependent upon weak administrators". College administrators, he added, "must unite in placing order on their individual campuses as the top priority item."

Six Named To Tam Park, Rec Panel

Three new and three carryover members have been appointed to the Tamalpais Parks and Recreation Commission by the Tamalpais Community Services District board.

New commissioners appointed Tuesday were Ward L. Patterson, John E. McRee and Nancy DuFrame. Reappointed were Janet Walker, Floyd Cramer and Asa Hanamoto. Director Ralph P. Kellogg was appointed to take the place of Glenn Lambacher as board representative to the commission.

Lambacher said the commission will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club, to discuss a tot lot planned at the new Marin View subdivision.

Community services district directors also discussed garbage collection rates in Tamalpais Valley and set a public hearing Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the district office to consider possible changes.

Lambacher said the district's contract with Henry's Service of Stinson Beach expires Sept. 30 and the firm wants to raise the rates from $2.10 for each can. The board will further negotiate with the company at its regular meeting Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the district office.

Hub Man In Charge On Credit Card Count

LeRoy Raymond Wiley, 39, of San Anselmo, was to appear again in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon for plea entry on a felony charge of forging another person's name to a credit card slip.

Municipal Court Judge Robert N. Connors yesterday appointed the public defender to represent Wiley, who said in court that he had been released only eight days ago after a year in county jail on another charge. On the present offense, he was arrested Sunday on a Sonoma County traffic warrant, then held for the credit card charge, after renting a car from a San Rafael service station last Friday, allegedly by using a lost credit card.

Juvenile Court Refused Weed Case

Juvenile court has refused to accept the case of Daniel Martin Klopf, 18, of Tamalpais Valley. He was arrested July 22 at Cascade Reservoir and charged with felony possession of marijuana and a misdemeanor count of being a marijuana user.

Municipal Court Judge Robert N. Connors yesterday set preliminary hearing for Tuesday.

MAN INJURED IN BICYCLE-AUTO ACCIDENT

Hugh Everett, 21, of San Anselmo, is lifted onto a stretcher by attendants after riding his bicycle into a car at 8:53 a.m. today at West End Avenue at Sentinel Court, San Rafael. Everett of 25 Buena Vista, was eastbound on the Miracle Mile when he cut across to West End Avenue, running the stop sign at Sentinel Court, police reported. His bicycle hit the right front of a car driven by Donna Myrtle Thomas, 25, of 153 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo. Everett hit the windshield, breaking it, bounced on top of the car and fell to the street. He was taken to the emergency room at Marin General Hospital with a broken right wrist, cuts on the right leg and multiple bruises and scrapes.

Volpe Sees A Need For SST Prototype

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said today President Nixon is convinced that development of a supersonic transport (SST) is essential to the nation's vital interest.

Volpe sent a letter to a Senate Appropriations subcommittee amid reports that the administration was reviewing its stand on the SST because of increasing opposition in Congress.

"I have talked with President Nixon on the SST issues confronting us in the administration," Volpe wrote, and said Nixon still felt construction of an SST prototype was the propey way to decide the controversy over the SST noise and pollution problem.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., testified that the federal government could keep the SST from becoming a polluter by helping pay for the controversial aircraft.

There will be an SST whether the United States builds one or not, Jackson told the committee. He pointed out that Britain France and the Soviet Union already had flight tested their SSTs.

The United States has no voice in pollution control over other SSTs, Jackson said, but if Congress approves funds for construction of an American SST the federal government could impose such controls.

"An environmentally safe, economically sound, American SST has the capability to sweep from the airways the foreign SST over which we have no control," he said.

The president of the Air Transport Association testified the SST was a possible money-faking machine that could be used to defray the cost of needed social reforms.

China Bishop Is Ready To Leave Roman Hospital

ROME (UPI) — American Bishop James E. Walsh is ready to leave the hospital and will return to the United States Monday, Salvador Mundi Hospital sources said today.

They said he would go straight to the headquarters of the Maryknoll order to which he belongs, at Ossining, N.Y.

The Communist Chinese released Walsh from a 20-year sentence for alleged spying and put him across the border into Hong Kong July 10.

Hospital sources said his recovery has accelerated since he came to Rome Monday. They said Rome's drier air and Walsh's high spirits after a moving private audience with Pope Paul VI Tuesday may have contributed to his improvement.

They said Walsh may do some sightseeing in Rome.

A Maryknoll spokesman said Walsh would be met at New York's John F. Kennedy airport by Cardinal Terence J. Cooke and possibly by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The spokesman said there was a tentatively scheduled Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, for Sept. 13 that would be jointly celebrated by Cooke and Walsh.

More than a half-million acres of California land are devoted to growing crops for canning.

Residents Will Protest Assessments

More than 800 Marin taxpayers filed protests on their 1970-71 property tax assessments by last night's filing deadline.

This is the biggest number of protests since 1967, when 1,424 were filed.

Marin's assessment appeals board will begin hearing the protests in the board of supervisors' chambers in the Civic Center on Friday, Sept. 25. The hearings will continue each Friday thereafter.

Mona Elder, secretary of the appeals board, said each applicant will be notified 30 days in advance of his hearing date.

As of this morning, she had logged 690 protest applications, including 152 protests which the county assessor has agreed are legitimate and therefore will not contest.

In addition, about 150 last minute applications were piled on Mrs. Elder's desk to be logged. More will be arriving by mail, she said. The total number of protests to be acted on, therefore, will be more than 800.

Bridge District Nixes Bid To Halt Notices

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors today reluctantly rejected a proposal to discontinue public notice of committee meetings.

The origin of the proposal was not clear, but it has been sitting on the agenda of the rules and policy committee for some months.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, advised the committee that the state's anti-secret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown act, did not require giving public notice of committee meetings, except for the committee of the whole.

The district General Manager, Dale W. Luehring, recommended continuing the present practice of mailing the notices to all persons who request them. District secretary Helen Jack said that about 130 persons are on the mailing list for the notices. Most have indicated that they want to continue being notified, she said.

Committee chairman Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County termed the practice "a waste of a lot of money, I think 90 per cent of them go in the waste basket."

The committee voted 5-1 to continue mailing the public notices. Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County cast the only no vote.

The committee also recommended that bids be opened in advance of board meetings, instead of the present practice of opening them and acting upon them at board meetings.

Novato Boy, 10, Dies In Pipe Accident

A 10-year-old Novato boy died yesterday after he was struck by a pipe he was helping load into a pickup truck in a field near his home, Novato police reported today.

Russell Dean Antonio, of 305 Deer Island Lane, and his 14-year-old brother and father were loading the pipe as an 18-year-old brother, Walter Jr., was backing the truck, according to the report.

The accelerator stuck causing the truck to lurch back, and the boy was struck in the face by the pipe, then run over by the truck, according to the report.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital at 3:10 p.m.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Redwood Chapel, Novato.

New Findings From Rats Taking LSD

PALO ALTO (UPI) — LSD causes "important and sinister" biochemical changes in the offspring of pregnant rats, according to a University of Chicago pharmacologist.

However he found no changes in the chromosomes of the baby rats, as has been reported by other researchers, Dr. Velayudhan Nair said.

The chemical seems to suppress seritonin, chemical associated with such disorders in behavior as unusual sleeping habits and hypersexuality.

Dr. Nair said the conclusions of his study could not be applied to humans. "Functional implications of these findings related to such factors as behavior, drug action and toxicity remain to be studied" in humans, he said.

In another study Dr. Nair fed chlorpromazinea—a drug which has been found to block LSD's effects—to rats and obtained the same results he did when he used LSD.

"Most important and sinister are the subtle impairments in the development of biochemical systems in brain and liver noted in these animals," Dr. Nair said.

"Biochemical changes are not readily evident and may be revealed only by specific tests," unlike the gross abnormalities of chromosomal changes, he said.

Senate Refuses To Halt Use Of Viet Crop-Killing Sprays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate refused today to vote a halt in use of crop-killing sprays in South Vietnam. The vote was 48 to 33.

Chemicals have been employed by the allies to kill crops —mostly rice used as a food source for the Viet Cong. Legislation was proposed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to bar future spraying.

Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., said during debate that the United States had embraced a new and odious form of warfare by starvation. Opponents of the amendment argued that a hungry enemy would be forced to spend time looking for food that it might otherwise use to kill American soldiers.

"The lack of food is one of the primary factors with which the enemy must contend," said Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H. "If we allow the enemy to obtain food too easily, it will enable him to carry out increasing military attacks."

[illegible] and Nelson contended that the United States has [illegible] chemicals on hand—enough to blight half a billion acres of food. They said this suggested the administration was planning a major increase in anticrop warfare in Southeast Asia.

Nelson, on a 62 to 22 vote, failed to persuade the Senate Wednesday to prohibit the military use of herbicides for any purpose. He contended the 100 million pounds of chemicals the United States has sprayed over the Vietnamese countryside in the last eight years was creating a potential environmental disaster.

But a majority of the Senate accepted the Pentagon's argument herbicides save American lives by denying the cover of jungles and forests.

Nelson contended the destruction of enemy crops amounted to "starvation warfare" and if it is sanctioned by the United States, it will quickly become a cheap and efficient way for underdeveloped countries to eradicate future enemies.

He suggested the goal of the program was to create refugees out of peasants living in Communist-dominated areas, forcing them to move into cities and other secure areas when their crops yellow and die.

But Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, defended the program.

He said the destruction of crops had reduced rations to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, forcing them to spend time looking for food rather than killing Americans.

Couple Splits; Not Political

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (UPI)— A married couple opposing each other for mayor of this historical city have announced a separation.

At the same time, Jim Guthrie said he was withdrawing from the mayoral race. He was seeking the Republican nomination for mayor while his wife, Judy, was seeking the Democratic nomination. Both said the separation was caused by domestic strife, not political.

The couple had used their Allen Street tavern, with a white line painted on the floor to divide Republican and Democratic sympathizers, as the campaign headquarters for both.

Neighborhood-Type School Plan Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William B. Spong, D-Va., proposed to a Senate subcommittee today a new national school desegregation policy keyed to the concept of preserving neighborhood schools.

Spong testified that the plan was aimed at providing public schools "based not on guesswork, social experimentation and rhetoric but on sound educational principles."

He and other supporters said they wanted to preserve rights of individuals to select the schools their children would attend while seeking to avoid "confusion and turmoil" over unequal desegregation enforcement around the nation.

Chairman Claiborne Pell, D-R. I., of the Senate educaiton subcommittee said an NAACP official had warned against any "complicated stratagems and compromise" in enforcing school desegregation.

The Spong group said their proposal did not fall in that category and was aimed at achieving equal educational opportunites nation-wide.

Spong's bill, and an almost identical bill, introduced in the House would:

—Outlaw any form of segregation defined as a deliberate attempt by law or administrative effort to separate children by race, and require equal facilities in all schools of a system.

—Assign all pupils to schools nearest their homes, but allow any student to transfer voluntarily at public expense from a school in which his race was in the majority to a school where his race was in the minority.

—Allow local school officials, if deemed to be acting in good faith, to realign school zones voluntarily to attain better racial balance or even to prevent a complete balance where it is feared it might cause whites to flee and bring about "resegregation."

Thanks Due Marin Boards For Playing Fair On Debts

Governing boards of Marin County and its cities, past and present, are due the thanks of the county's taxpayers for playing fair in accruing public debts.

We say this because of a recent report by the California Taxpayers' Association showing that Marin is one of a minority of counties in which there is no outstanding lease-purchase or joint-powers debt of cities or county.

STATEWIDE, according to figures drawn by the taxpayers group from those filed with the state government (for the first time, under a reporting law enacted three years ago), lease-purchase obligations of cities and counties as of June 30 totaled $840,313,745. Debts under joint-powers agreements totalled $182,121,798. This made the total under both of these methods — neither of which requires voter approval— about $1.2 billion. The total debt of cities and counties incurred through voter-approved general obligation bonds was $276,855,258 — or less than a fourth that which had been put upon the taxpayers without their authorization.

The public debts of Marin County and its cities were listed as totaling $4,054,194. But all of this was in general obligation bonds.

Of 26 counties whose debts were listed by the taxpayer association, only eight had no obligation incurred without voter approval. In all but one of the others, such debts exceeded those which the voters had authorized.

Some of the figures are startling.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY and its cities, with over half the total debt of all cities and counties in California, owed $424,217,966 on lease-purchase contracts, $82,261,798 incurred under joint-powers agreements, and only $13,895,953 in bond issues authorized by the voters.

Among the counties where the "escape route" of lease-purchase deals has been taken to avoid voter turndowns of bond issues is Sonoma County. As of June 30, it and its cities owed $6,623,540 under such arrangements and only $819,354 in voter-approved bonds, the tabulation showed.

LEASE-PURCHASE is the familiar installment buying plan applied to governments. Since a governing body cannot incur debt upon its successors without voter approval, it arranges for a "non-profit corporation" to build or buy what it wants, then leases back the facility with the lease payments applying to the purchase price. Financing costs are much higher than for bond issues.

Under a joint-powers agreement, two or more public agencies enter into a joint arrangement to build or buy, with payment to be made through revenue bonds — with the revenue often coming from taxes. Again, costs are higher than for general obligation bonds.

SAN ANSELMO is one city in Marin that has used the lease-purchase system. It did so to build a second firehouse and to acquire the Sorich Park acreage. But both of these have been paid off — through taxes.

Except for that lapse, Marin's city councils and its county board of supervisors have played fair with the taxpayers, avoiding debts which add to the tax rate without asking the voters to authorize a bond issue.

All of us should be grateful that they have done so.

Day To Honor Wrong Man

Among the inanities of this year's session of the California Legislature must be included passage of a bill declaring March 5 as "Black American Day."

There is nothing wrong with having a day to honor black Americans. It's a good idea. The inanity is in the choice of the date.

The bill, as introduced by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would have designated Jan. 15, Rev. Martin Luther King's birthday, as "Black American Day." The Senate finance committee objected that King was a "controversial figure," and picked March 5 — because it was (or may have been) the birthday of Crispus Attucks, "the first black man to die in the Revolutionary War."

Crispus Attucks did not die in the Revolutionary War. He was killed in the so-called Boston Massacre five years before the Revolution started. As to being a hero, he was an 18th century version of today's name-calling rioters. In fact, that's just what he was up to when he was shot.

Our legislators should brush up on their American history.

Jurisdictional Dispute Makes Pawns Of Agricultural Workers

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Once again, the farm labor situation in California is charged with dynamite, due to the jurisdictional battle between the United Farm Workers Union and the Teamsters Union.

It has not been many years since the Teamsters Union attempted to organize farm workers in California and other states of the Union. However, it was given up on grounds the farm workers didn't want to be organized and were notoriously unavailable when it came time to pay dues.

Then came the United Farm Workers Orgainzing Committee under Cesar Chavez, and despite the fact that the grape workers in the San Joaquin Valley had no desire for participation in a union, Chavez has hung with it until he has been able to get some contracts with grape growers.

Not satisfied with his work among the grape pickers, he has branched out into the ranks of the lettuce workers, only to find that the Teamsters had this field fairly well under control. Whether the Teamsters Union had a little pushing by the growers, wdo don't want to see Chavez get a foothold in the Salinas Valley lettuce field, may be open to yuestion, but the face remains that organization of the farm workers is a deviation from recent policies of the Teamsters.

Assemblyman Victor Veysey, R-Imperial, an expert in farm legislation, is seeking legislation early in 1971 to deal with jurisdictional disputes, hoping to eliminate conflict between the two unions.

Veysey points out that with all the contract signing between growers and the two unions, the workers have had nothing to say, and no choice as to which, if any, union shall have jurisdiction over them.

The assemblyman says there is justification for a plan which would guarantee workers a fair, secret election to choose whether or not they want a union, and which union they prefer, and at the same time, would grant some protection to growers, and theconsuming public, which gets hurt the hardest in jurisdictional disputes.

Perishable crops may rot on the ground while unions quibble about who's going to collect the dues, and the public can't buy what it wants in the market place.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Event Should Horrify Nation

I write regarding a problem that I share, or should share, with every sane American. That problem being the total disregard of our system of justice and American way of life . . . I direct this letter to the recent unlawful and grossly insane tragedy at the Marin County Hall of Justice . . . This tragedy will probably be remembered for only a short period of time — by everyone except the immediate families involved. However, it is my desire that we citizens of this entire nation wake up to the realization of the disregard and total lack of respect that so many of us now have for our laws and the judicial system that administers them. Granted, it is not a perfect set of laws, or a perfect system, for they are laws of men and administered by men, and man is yet far from being perfect. Even in view of that fact, it is still the greatest system of laws and jurisprudence this world has ever known; and it can only continue so long as we keep it operational and accept the individual responsibility of this system, maintain complete obedience and change through lawful dissent only.

We, as a nation, should be horrified by this attempt to destroy our judicial system . . . and I believe that we are. I think this was demonstrated by the preventive actions of your local law enforcement officers, who, even at the risk of injury and death, refused to comply to the demands of these madmen. Your public servants are to be commended . . . I thank them, even from this far away location, for their devotion to their duty, for had these few butchers succeeded in their escape and their violation of a court of law, I fear many others, across our land, would try to follow their example . . .

Roaches Do Travel, Neighbor Insists

Roaches do travel. It's too bad that a few were not put in a jar and let loose in Mr. (Philip S.) Ehrlich's home so he wouldn't have to rely on Mr. (Neil B.) Little's misinformation. (I-J, Aug. 20, page 3.)

If Mr. Little was not representing a special interest group that runs our society, I am sure the decision would have been different. Mr. Little has a knack of having evidence growing stale or getting lost. The facts of this case concerning the roaches in federal leased house here in our neighborhood were denied by Mr. Little many times; even when he saw them with his own eyes he made excuses for the condition in this house. If you were to ask Mr. (John F.) McInnis, our supervisor, you may get the truth.

The true colors of this program has finally been brought to light for all of us to see. The facts were ignored and their client (federal housing) were given full priority. Where does moral integrity come in? It is plain to see they are not working for all the people.

When the citizens of this country realize where your tax dollars go, only then can you expect justice for all. Become aware, save your neighborhoods. Write your representative in Washington and let them know what this program is doing to your life. It could be a great program but without the proper supervision it is worthless. It takes guts to do this.

. . . We the neighbors feel Mrs. (Sydney F.) Alexander has gone thorugh a horrible nightmare with the tenants in that house. We are not sensitive neighbors, just average.

Cockroach Claim: Story Behind It

I am writing in reference to an article in the I-J Aug. 20, "Cockroach Invasion Charged; Claim Filed."

I would like to give the taxpayers of Marin the story behind this article.

Approximately 13 months ago I had a family move in next door to me at 854 Estancia Way, Santa Venetia. They were placed there by the federal leased housing program.

They did not have garbage service for the entire time they lived there except the first week.

Garbage piled up along the side of their house, which is just a few feet from my back door and kitchen. Although myself and other neighbors called the health department many times and informed them of the situation, nothing was done. Once in awhile they would burn a few sacks of garbage and although this too is against the law, again nothing was done.

When they finally did move out on July 2, they left the house in a filthy and destructive condition. This is the third home these people have been evicted from because of this.

Thousands of dollars have been spent on this one family, so I feel that the small sum of $27.50 to pay for the service to clear up a condition that was created by them is very little to ask.

How a family where both the husband and wife are working at a job paying an average salary can qualify for federal leased housing or another give-away program is beyond me.

Thanks For Support For Recreation

At its regular meeting of Aug. 12, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission requested that I officially thank you for your and the Independent-Journal's continued and invigorating support of our commission's efforts in providing adequate recreational outlets for Marin County citizens.

We are particularly appreciative of your recent coverage of the new facility at McNear's Beach and your support and suggestions concerning the enlargement and acquisition of such facilities as can still be acquired near this county's population centers and particularly on the Bay front.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

After a local election in a town near Shamrock, Ireland, McManus was asked how he had managed to eke out a victory. "'Twas like this," McManus readily explained. "I am aware that everybody who knew me voted for Sullivan, but on the other hand, everybody who knew Sullivan voted for me — and it turned out he knew nine more people than I did."

MARQUIS CHILDS

Much Rests On Gunnar Jarring As Middle East Talks Begin

NEW YORK — The long, difficult — perhaps impossible — process of unraveling the Middle East tangle begins here this week. Any of a thousand and one accidents can blow up the Israeli-Arab talks, and yet an undercurrent of hope is part of the atmosphere as the two sides prepare to meet.

It is hope if only because so much turns on this encounter. If a Middle East settlement is eventually achieved within the framework of the United Nations, the world organization will be greatly strengthened. If the talks fail, the sagging status of the U.N. as a peace-keeping agency will be dealt another blow. In the great glass hive on the East River, it will be hardly more than an international bureaucracy performing certain housekeeping chores on the periphery of the world scene.

ON ANOTHER and equally important level, the peace initiative launched by the Nixon administration is a test of the world climate. The belief has grown for some time that the Soviet Union wants to damp down the cold war and find a base for coexistence with the West. Motives are mixed, with the cloud of Red China and its 700 million people and the capacity to fire a rocket with an H-bomb warhead foremost.

Moscow's interest in coexistence may be an illusion. But officials both in Washington and the U.N. are convinced that the Russians want to avoid a confrontation in the Middle East that could lead to a showdown. Should the two super-powers, standing cautiously in the background, exert their influence for success in the talks, it will be taken as further evidence of the desire to ease tensions everywhere.

THE MAN in the middle of the seesaw in all this is a diplomat of great skill and essentials of caution and strict impartiality. As the United Nations mediator, Gunnar Jarring knows more about the Middle East dispute than most of the principals. He went through it once before, moving about the Middle East capitals as peace-maker with a persistence in the face of repeated rebuffs that brought him close to physical exhaustion.

It will take the patience of Job and the self-effacement of a saint. These are qualities Jarring has demonstrated again and again during his career.

ONE FACTOR western diplomats count solidly on the side of success. That is the conviction that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser wants peace. A strong motivation, according to informed sources, is Nasser's desire to get rid of the 10,000 or more Russian technicians and pilots in Egypt and, in effect, to regain his independence.

These same knowledgeable sources believe the interpretation widely put on Nasser's 19-day stay in Moscow just before Egyptian acceptance of the peace proposal was incorrect. He was reported to have had his arm twisted by his Russian partner determined to bring him to the peace table.

In any event, Nasser took the step that brought down the hostility of Syria, Iraq and commando units and their leaders so powerful in Jordan. This fierce hostility, growing out of the passion of the displaced Palestinians and the three wars in which Israel triumphed, poses a continuing threat that can shatter the talks even before they get off the ground.

ON THE OTHER side of the balance sheet is the quiet influence of the American who has had most to do with bringing about the Middle East talks. Sec. of State William P. Rogers gets the highest marks here for engineering the peace initiative. He achieved the seemingly impossible in persuading the Arabs of his sincerity. At the same time, beginning with his "even-handed" speech of last December, he has constantly tried to reassure Israel that there would be no change in the balance of military power.

'Women's Lib' Amendment Bitter Sauce For Goose?

(Reprinted from Vancouver (Wash.) Columbian)

What's sauce for the goose, runs an old saying, is sauce for the gander.

It could turn out to be a painful truth about the so-called women's rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution to which the House of Representatives has given what might be termed snap endorsement. The suspicion is dawning in many quarters that under the proposal the fair sex might gain equality and lose protection. They're not so sure that the net result of that is on the plus side.

The subject is a mighty touchy one for a mere male to expound upon, of course. He's probably biased to start with and bigoted to end with. But it does seem that Congress (if the Senate follows the House lead) is going on record in favor of a constitutional amendment without a very clear grasp of what it might mean.

IN ALL SERIOUSNESS, it seems to be by its very nature a sword that can cut both ways. If it extends to women such privileges as are accorded to men, one must not forget that it must extend to men the privileges accorded to women. Do we hear some bass-voiced huzzahs, for instance, on noting that wives might find themselves liable to pay alimony to a wronged husband? Or be held equally responsible for the support of children in a broken home?

How about the draft? May the courts not rule that she is subject equally with the man? There's ample modern precedent for that, of course, notably as in Israel. But is that what the gals really want out of the amendment?

BUT THESE are incidents. It must be recognized that there is a whole broad spectrum of possibilities. How would it affect the myriad laws among the states in such matters as child custody, family relationships, divorce, separation, age of consent, bastardy and so on.

Furthermore, the man, if present, traditionally has been head of the house and society has imposed upon him, and him alone, sole family responsibilities and public responsibilities of the most fundamental nature. How good is the gamble that the courts will not hold that the amendment, if it becomes law, releases him from this unique role? True, there may be major erosions already in some phases of public welfare, but they're not the national pattern.

A BIG THRUST of the amendment, it is recognized, is its aim of ending discrimination against women in employment. Whether this particular amendment is the best way to do that may be open to very serious thought.

Women of more militant temperament who have been pushing the amendment drive successfully so far claim that 30 million women now working desire equality more than protection, and this is the way to get it.

Maybe so. Maybe so. Few persons would deny that there has been assorted discrimination. But the gals are likely to find that they can't have their cake and eat it too.

WE WOULD HOPE that they, and the legislatures to which the proposal appears headed, will put in a lot more consideration than the amazing one hour of ordinary debate which the House used before (pardon the expression) passing the buck.

We are not saying that negative action should be taken. We are saying that much attention should be devoted to trying to see what the losses as well as the gains might be; and to exploring if there are alternate feasibilities with a higher yield ratio.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Training Session Might Help Marin EOC To Conduct Business

Since its inception five years ago, the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council — the county's official antipoverty agency — has struggled with operational woes.

Staff turnover has been high and policy and program guidance from EOC directors has been weak.

Coupled with these difficulties is a mind-boggling flow of revisions in federal programs and policies into the EOC office in San Rafael.

The result is chaos, and staff members quit in frustration over federal restrictions and over intra-office disputes and lack of coordination.

THE MOST outward sign of trouble, however, is the conduct of meetings of EOC directors. Because many of the members lack experience in parliamentary procedure and training in the goals and operations of the federal antipoverty effort, sessions bog down in technicalities and petty squabbling. Little is accomplished.

This has brought urgent calls from experienced members for a board training session such as held in previous years. Staff members would also attend.

If that's needed, so, too, is a review of EOC administrative procedures to provide better direction and coordination. W. Robert Lomax Jr., EOC executive director, may have taken a step in that direction by proposing at the last board meeting that the Marin City Target Area Board of the EOC be given autonomy.

Lomax disclosed that $30,000 was being spent annually for staff in Marin City, although no program was being operated from that office.

A LIGHT MOMENT in an otherwise rigorous session of the state legislature occurred when a resolution was introduced naming a freeway for President Richard M. Nixon.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, a San Jose Democrat, quickly urged an amendment that would name the first two offramps for Clement F. Haynesworth and G. Harrold Carswell.

Alquist said the designations would "maintain historical integrity."

Military Club Sets Membership

The Marvelous Marin Military Affairs Committee has been renamed, dropping the word "Marvelous" from the title.

In an executive boardmeeting last week the committee also set a membership limit of 100 civilians, approved charter member dues of $10 and decided to obtain a Post Office box at Hamilton Air Force Base for a permanent address.

The official address of the organization, a primarily social military-civilian group, is now P.O. Box 391, Hamilton AFB.

Current goals of the committee, which will accept charter memberships until Oct. 1, are to assist in hosting dignitaries visiting military bases in Marin, honoring arriving and departing commanders and developing special military affairs projects.

GI Charged With Plane Hijacking

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UPI)— A soldier with a psychiatric disorder was charged Wednesday with hijacking an airliner over Indiana Monday and forcing the pilot to fly to Cuba.

Charges of kidnaping and piracy aboard an aircraft were filed in federal District Court here against Pfc. Robert J. Labadie, 27, Nahma, Mich., who was on convalescent leave from an Army hospital in Pennsylvania.

The hijacker was taken into custody by Cuban officials at Havana. The other 79 passengers and the crew were allowed to fly back to Miami, Fla.

Lt. Col. Richardson Retires From Army

Army Lt. Col. Norval J. Richardson of Sausalito has retired after 24 years of service, serving last with the 40th Artillery Brigade in San Francisco.

Col. Richardson, of 202 South Street, has seen assignments in the Far East, Europe and Vietnam, since entering the service in 1946.

ART BUCHWALD

If Mr. Ford Will Answer Calls; Art's Willing To Sell That Land

(Art Buchwald took off for vacation before anyone could catch him. He left behind what he claims are some of his more memorable columns.)

Some years ago, Art Buchwald became a landowner in Florida. This is how it happened:

MIAMI — The magic word in Florida these days is "land." According to the exciting advertisements on the highways, and in newspapers and magazines, anyone who is willing to plunk $10 down and pay $10 a month can in no time at all become another William Zeckendorf or Conrad Hilton.

No matter who you are, the land fever grips you as soon as you get off the plane, and I must admit I was no exception. Not wanting to be left out of what is potentially the greatest "Growth investment in the United States" since fallout shelters, I swiped 10 bucks from my kid's toy bank and rushed out to the nearest real estate office (there are about two on every block).

THE OFFICE, located in a vacated store, was very plush. There were photos of beautiful homes on the wall. (I discovered later that they had nothing to do with the development, but gave the place a nice atmosphere.)

A gorgeous receptionist was typing up mortgages, but when she saw the $10 I was clutching in my hand, she immediately ushered me into the plush office of the managing director. The director, a jovial man in a Palm Beach suit, shook my hand vigorously and invited me to sit in one of his plush chairs. On his desk was a mock-up, in scale, of his latest development: an entire town. The mock-up showed three golf courses, five schools, a church, a yacht club and basin and 500 ranch-type houses.

I gasped when I looked at it.

"YOU'RE VERY lucky," he said. "We have only one house left."

"Could I go out and see it?" I asked excitedly.

"Why would you want to do that?" he asked. "Don't you believe what you see here on my desk?"

"Well, it is beautiful," I said. "But I thought it would be fun to go and see the place for myself, size up my neighbors and that sort of thing."

"IT'S A PRETTY long trip," he said. "You see, we built this town in the Everglades to get away from all those jet noises people are always complaining about. It's about a hundred miles inland, but you can only travel by day because of the alligators."

"Alligators?"

"Of course. You have to have alligators to eat the moccasin snakes, or they'd be all over the place."

"Snakes?"

"Only during the wet season," he said. "You hardly ever see them unless there's a wildcat around."

"Wildcats?"

"They won't give you any trouble unless you get caught in the quicksand."

"Quicksand?"

"Only in certain places. We have a couple of patches by the school, but the teacher usually keeps the kids away from them. Now if you'll just sign this paper . . ."

"WAIT A MINUTE," I said. "I'm not sure I want to live in the Everglades. Besides, are you sure the town exists as you have it there?"

"It's not completed yet, but we've already sprayed the malaria-mosquito ponds, and by next month we should have the wild-boar traps all dug. In a year it will look just like this mock-up."

"You mean the church isn't even built yet?"

"Well, no. But don't forget this is the church of your choice, and if it were already built it wouldn't be the church of your choice then, would it?"

I ADMITTED that was true. Just then the phone rang and he picked it up. I couldn't help overhearing the conversation.

"Yes sir, Mr. Ford. You'd like to build a factory on my tract? It's going to be difficult. I have a man in my office now and I've already promised him the last five acres. No, I can't give you his name. But perhaps he'll get in touch with you. Sorry. Goodby."

I plunked down the $10 and hurriedly signed the deed.

I've been trying to get in touch with Mr. Ford ever since, but he always seems to be out. Once I get him on the phone, though, and tell him about the land I own, he's really going to have to pay through the nose.

Kentfield Man Abducted, Beaten

A Kentfield man was abducted from in front of a San Anselmo service station by two men last night, then beaten and robbed of 75 cents, police said.

The victim, William E. Markey, 51, of 137 Hillside Avenue, escaped with facial and neck bruises and was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Markey told police he was kidnapped at about 11:30 p.m. while waiting for a friend in front of Gene's Chevron Station at 91 Red Hill Avenue. He said he was grabbed from behind and dragged into a blue sedan.

Driven to Marquard Avenue in San Rafael, Markey said, he was beaten on the head and shoulders and his empty billfold and 75 cents taken. Markey said the assailants then dumped him at Second Street and Marquard Avenue and he walked to Fourth Street and telephoned police.

One abductor was described as between 20 and 24 years old, about five feet, six inches, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black shirt and black and white bell bottom pants. The other assailant, Markey said, was about 19 or 20 years old, six feet, weighed 160 and wore a brown shirt, brown, pin-striped bell bottoms and had a moustache. Both had Afro hairstyles, he said.

China Camp Fence Brings Action For Removal Of It

A fence and "no trespassing" signs on private property long used by the public has resulted in a suit filed in Marin Superior Court to force their removal.

The suit brought by attorney Richard J. Werthimer of Kentfield and architect Stephen M. Heller of San Rafael asks the court to rule that the public has a right to access and issue temporary and permanent injunctions.

Named as defendants are New York-Cal Industrial Corp., owners of the land; Marin Title and Guaranty Co., American National Insurance Co., McNear Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Carin County, the City of San Rafael, Marin Municipal Water District and 50 others as yet unnamed.

Basis for the suit is the contention of the two, represented by San Francisco attorney Douglas P. Ferguson that "China Camp has from the early 1800s to the present time been used and is now being used by members of the general public . . .for varied recreational uses."

They maintain that the owners of the little point opposite Rat Rock have never hinreder public use of the land so, according to recent state supreme court decisions, they should not be allowed to hinder now.

The owners maintain the fences were put up at the request of the sheriff's department to prevent illegal activities and that the barrier is not intended to prevent legitimate public use.

No court date has been set for the suit filed Tuesday.

Legalized Marijuana Predicted In Canada

TORONTO (UPI) —Ontario supervising coroner Dr. H. B. Cotnam predicts marijuana will be sold legally in Canada in five years.

Cotnam said marijuana smoked in moderation is harmless to a majority of people. He said the "Saturday night booze party" is far worse than a "pot party."

Sewage Plant Work To Start

Preliminary work on a sewage treatment plant and sewer system for Bolinas and Stinson Beach will begin this week, according to Jane Boyer, clerk of the Bolinas Public Utility District.

Two San Rafael firms were hired last night by directors of the utility district, Mrs. Boyer reported. Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates, soil engineers will begin soil testing and drilling as soon as possible, she said; and surveying will be done by Hoffman and Albritton, civil engineers.

The treatment plant is being constructed in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water district, but each district will provide its own sewer lines, she said.

Marin women celebrated Suffrage Day yesterday along with women across the nation. At left, the Marin Civic Center was invaded by women from the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women who did informational picketing through the building during the noon hour. They handed out leaflets urging full equality for men and women in employment and education and demanding a resolution from the Board of Supervisors prohibiting sex discrimination in hiring county employees and integration of all county agencies. They also demanded a task force to investigate hiring practices in Marin. NOW members also did a "vote for the most beautiful supervisor" contest pointing up the absurdity of beauty contests judging women as objects. Michael Wornum won 10 votes, with Louis Baar second, 6 votes. "Voting was light," said a NOW spokesman. "Apparently the supervisors aren't well liked out here," she commented. At right, several hundred women spent the afternoon in the traditional women's pursuit of watching fashions paraded at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross in the closing show of the Northgate Group's summer series.

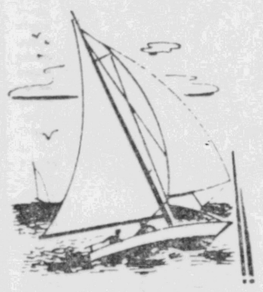
MOST COVETED TROPHY

Training For A 'Series Of Unknowns'

By PAT BALMES

Martha McDougle Martin of San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere will represent California in the Adams Cup Finals in Victaria, British Columbia, Canada, next week, Monday through Thursday.

Crewing for Martha, in her



sixth try for yachtswomen's most coveted trophy, will be 17-year-old Connie Stong of Tiburon, a freshman at University of California at Santa Barbara and teacher of junior sailing at SFYC and Anne Elder, 28, of San Francisco, a management analyst.

Martha, 32, decided to stay when she came to the SFYC in 1966 for the first time to represent Rochester, N.Y., Yacht Club in the Adams Cup Finals. She first met Tom Martin then a yacht broker whom she married on May 13, 1970, in his hometown of Oxford, Md. Their honeymoon was a two-week cruise to deliver a Pearson 43 to its new owner in Jackson, Fla.

"We took two other people on our honeymoon," Martha laughs, "the crew!

"SAILING ADDS to my life because it adds to me. It's good to go out and be with boats. I am very involved with people during the week. It's like opening up my head and letting some air blow through it," explains the Stanford student counsellor.

"But you have to keep sailing in balance with the rest of your life. Preparing for the Adams Cup had been a monumental effort because eliminations started in early spring," she says.

"In training for the Adams Cup the most helpful thing has been sailing my own boat. My crew watches the other boats.

MARTHA MARTIN, skipper of the San Francisco Yacht Club crew, won state-wide eliminations to represent California in the Adams Cup. This year's Adams Cup race will be Martha's sixth attempt to win the large silver Revere bowl, engraved with North America's top women sailor's names since 1924.

"BENDING ON the main" are Connie Stong, left, Ann Elder and Martha Martin. They are California's top woman sailors and will compete for the Adams Cup, the Women's North American Sailing Championship, at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club in British Columbia, Canada Aug. 31 through Sept. 3.

Advice Column Won't Change The Man Who Isn't Ready To Marry

DEAR HELEN:

Six months ago I met a beautiful, wonderful girl who, unlike most females, loved me for myself, not for money or gifts or fancy evenings on the town.

She put me on a pedestal and brought out all the good in me I didn't know I had. I started feeling warm and loving, but I interpreted this as being trapped. I considered it unmasculine to feel soft and tender about a girl. So I told her goodbye and resumed that vicious cycle of wine, women and song.

Now, six months later I realize I've been living a hollow, meaningless substitute for what I gave up. I know it was real love, the good, decent kind that can last a lifetime and bring me such happiness as I've never known.

Is it too late to tell this girl I love her and want only the shelter of her loving arms? — WISER NOW—JACK

DEAR WISER:

Nice try, honey, but your handwriting and your romantic wordage make me 99 per cent certain Jill, not Jack, wrote that letter.

And should you think this will shock him into coming back, forget it. If a man isn't ready to settle down, no amount of advice column reminders will change him: They might even help prove how lucky Jack was not to tumble when Jill fell. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I was at a card game with a few guys the other night when two girls dropped by the house. We broke up the game and were all sitting on the floor playing records, etc., and drinking. In fact, we got pretty boozed up.

One of the girls started talking to me and then she got friendlier.

My problem is that I am engaged to another girl, and I don't want to marry her with a guilty conscience. I feel I must tell her what happened, which wasn't much, but if the other guys mention it, she will think so.

How can I let her know there is nothing between me and this other girl? — GUILTY CONSCIENCE

DEAR G.C.:

If it "wasn't much" it's best forgotten — unless your guilty conscience is mainly fear that somebody has a big mouth.

In which case, tell your fiancee the whole truth, and hope she believes you. Is there any reason why she shouldn't? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Why is it girls don't thank you for anything? I'll take a girl to a movie or for something to eat, and you'd think she could at least show she enjoyed it, but evidently it embarrasses her to say "Thank you."

Am I supposed to thank her for the privilege of spending my money on her? — WHAT'S RIGHT?

DEAR W.R.:

"Thanks for a great evening" should be mutually expressed, though not necessarily in those words. (Sometimes "Hey, that was fun!" does just as well.)

A girl who won't let a boy know she enjoyed the date shouldn't expect a second invitation. — H.

Women Train For Sailing Race To Be Held In Canada

I assign Connie to watch so-and-so. It's everybody talking on our boat about what the other boats are doing. There is so much to watch when you want to win," says the skipper, who has been doing exercises to get into condition. The crew wears gloves on the foredeck to protect against calluses from the sheets. Martha has no trouble with seasickness, the motion of the boat does not effect her.

Uniform for the California crew is white levis. Martha will wear a magenta jacket and matching shell. Anne will be in pink and Connie in gold.

"Clothes are a means of identifying people during the Adams Cup race. And we had to have something that we can throw into the washing machine at night," says Captain Martha.

The eight crews will be housed in the homes of Canadian yacht club members and friends, who will act as their hosts.

"I am very hard about looking neat," says the trim blonde. "The racing starts (psychologically) on Sunday when we look at the boats and the other crews. We are watched constantly while we are there. We want them to think, "The Californians look fast."

THIS YEAR there will be no "tune-up" race on Sunday, the day before the series starts. "I don't like to show anybody how I can sail beforehand. Once they tried to make us go out on Sunday. Everybody just flopped around," she grins.

Eight Cal 20 yachts will be lent to the eight crews by the Royal Victoria Yacht Club members for the series.

"The boats must be kept ship-shape because they are borrowed. The Eastern judges run this thing with an iron hand, and they can tell you to get out of the race" acknowledges the captain. "Part of racing is knowing the rules; trying not to infringe on other's rights."

During the round-robin of eight races, her crew will sail all eight boats, some of which may have slightly different rigging. There will be three one-and-a-half hour races on Monday, three on Tuesday and two on Wednesday followed by the banquet.

THE CONCENTRATED period of time of the Adams Cup Finals keeps the yachtswomen at an "up" emotional pitch, according to the skipper. "In racing we are very agressive and not very polite."

Asked how weaker sex copes with a strong gale, Martha explains, "It's physical endurance tied in with skill applied to a physical situation." The women have to learn how to make the mechanical advantages work for them, like putting sheets on the winch.

Speaking of the exhilaration she feels at top boat speed "when the boat is on the 'right wave' and I can feel everything together: people, boat and water,", Martha says, "It's like body-surfing."

The drenchings and the bulky flotation coat, foulweather suit and boots are endured without complaint.

"I sail because I like it from a number of different viewpoints. I like the challenge of it. Taking the boat out and wondering, how am I going to meet this type of water, with this crew, in this weather? It's a series of unknowns. It's a total involvement in very practical matters, getting your boat over that next wave and to that next point of land," Martha explains.

"I ALSO like the esthetic side, nature. Learning about tides and currents. If you just sat on land, you wouldn't have to get so involved in it," says the sailor.

"And enjoy noncompetitive sailing, too. I like cruising with my husband down the East Coast and up the West Coast where I am not making the decision. It is a more dependent role. And I am pretty good at cooking at a 30 degree tilt!" says the yachtsman's bride.

At 10, Martha was sailing with her father and two sisters on Lake Erie.

"The fish were dying then. People just sat around and did nothing," she remembers.

She was a competitive swimmer with an AAU team and also did synchronized swimming in Pennsylvania.

League To Register Voters 50 Years After Women Got The Vote

Honoring Aug. 26, 1920, date of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution granting to women the right to vote, the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin started a voter registration drive. It will continue through Sept. 10, the final day to register for the November elections.

Tables staffed by registrars are set up Saturdays in the Strawberry Shopping Center, in the Big G supermarket in Sausalito, in downtown Tiburon and in Marin City.

New this year are the league's roving registrars, who will be in an easily identified van. It will be in Mill Valley, Marin City, Sausalito, Tiburon and Strawberry every weekday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Voters who have moved, changed name or are new to the state since the last election must re-register.

Women's achieving the right to vote followed 72 years of effort by many women, notably Susan B. Anthony and Carrie Chapman Catt, who the same year became honorary president of the newly formed League of Women Voters.

In honor of the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage a commemorative stamp has been issued by the United States Post Office. First day of sale will be in Adams, Mass., the birthplace of Susan B. Anthony. The league, also celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, sponsored the Aug. 26 ceremonies in Adams. The stamp is available publicly today.

ROSARIUM INSTITUTE 175 Young Ladies Institute, is sponsoring a mass and reception Sunday to honor grand second vice president, Miss Claire Skidmore, secretary to Rosarium, who was recently elected to this position in Portland at the annual convention.

Mass will be at noon with a reception following at St. Patrick's Center in Larkspur.

Chairmen will be Mmes. Edwin Albertoni and Leo Simon.

MARIN STAR Theta Rho 121 of San Rafael will hold a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday at the Odd Fellows Hall in San Rafael.

Sue Wright, president of the club, is chairman of the sale and will be assisted by members of Marin Star, advisers and assistant advisers and member of Golden Star Rebekah Lodge 112, according to Mrs. Sanford Mills of Novato.

A PATIO-garage sale is being held by the Novato Republican Women Federated from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, 20 Pillsbury Lane, in Novato.

ARTICLES ARE on display at the Sunny Hills Bargain Box, 607 Irwin Street, San Rafael, for the silent auction to be held Saturday at 2 p.m.

A few of the unusual items are an old hand operated sewing machine, a brass spittoon, a framed hand written letter from Sir Winston Churchill, a miniature pressed glass hat, a carved ivory box and a Cloisonne ink well.

NOVATO BUSINESS and Professional Women's Club members, Mmes. Dorothy G. Krieger, president, and Penny Kane, legislation chairman, who attended the state BPW legislation conference in Los Angeles this month have reported to their club on the meeting.

The state and national BPW legislation platform, assignments for legislative studies to local clubs and plans for the government in action conference in Sacramento in March 1971 were presented at the state conference.

Mrs. Kane discussed the equal rights amendment and the fair employment act (AB 22) in Sacramento. She said that "seeing equality of rights under the law for both men and women is the major legislative ambition and goal of BPW.

For Men Who Want To Look Young, Unkept And European

By JOHN WEITZ

Written for UPI

NEW YORK (UPI)—Men's fashion designers are doctors of the exterior. (As opposed to proctologists who are doctors of the posterior and analysts who are doctors of the inferior.) Without betraying any privacies, I thought I would report a recent interchange:

Me: Lie back. Relax. Say whatever is on your mind.

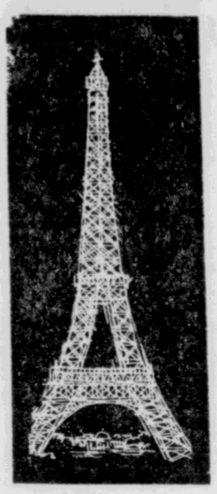
He: Mind?

M: Tip of the tongue, sorry.

H: That's better.

M: Good.

H: I'm lost, doctor. After all I'm forty-two.



M: Forty-two?

H: All right. Forty-seven.

M: And?

H: Well. . .it's also so confusing! Bell bottoms and curly long hair and Pancho Villa mustaches and orange patent leather boots. What am I to do, doctor?

M: Easy, now.

H: You tell me easy. What's easy when you feel (choke) square and you're in love with our Brooks suit?

M: In love?

H: Well, fond of. . .

M: That's better.

H: All my friends are shunning our barber. Mario, that's his name. He's suffering. . .

M: Going broke?

H: Broke? What're you talking about? Mario owns half of New Jersey. No. He's got no one to talk to, that's what's making him ill. Except me. I still go. But each time I tell him 'Cut less, Mario. Don't touch the sideburns!' And he's getting all shriveled and nasty.

M: What else?

H: Well, I love my Ivy suits with the slim look and the little slash in back. Now they tell me I have to wear those wide lapels and have two big slits in the back. And the ties . . .

M: What about the ties?

H: I just got me used to quiet slim ties and threw away all the old wide ones. Now they tell me wide ties with big loud patterns. Me, who just turned sincere and conservative. And what do I do with my button-down shirts? Doctor, my beautiful button downs. They're so executive, so. . .nonchalant and wealthy looking, like I was from Princeton.

M: Aren't you?

H: No.

M: Then why do you want to look like you were?

H: Because that's the great American dream: successful executive from Ivy League school!

M: But it's not anymore, you know.

H: No? What is?

M: The way to look is European and unkept and young.

H: But doctor, you don't look that way!

M: I know.

H: Why not?

M: I was brought up in Europe.

H: So?

M: In Euorpe, successful men don't look like they do on Third Avenue.

H: How do they look?

M: Like American executives from Ivy League schools.

H: With button downs?

M: With button downs.

H: And seersuckers? And poplins?

M: Yes.

H: So how come they're trying to make us look like Guards, Officers or French counts.

M: Search me.

H: Then I've got nothing to worry about? Then I'm all-right?

M: Not quite.

H: What's wrong?

M: You don't have to look unkept or European. But I mentioned young.

H: But I'm forty-two. Allright forty-seven. What can I do?

M: Go on a diet.

H: Oh?

M: When you're slim you'll feel young.

H: Then I'll feel more sure? Then I'll be secure?

M: Right. Young is better!

There's sequel. Four weeks later, there he was, twenty pounds lighter, trying on a brand new shaped suit with vast lapels and vents to the armpits. He also had a Pancho Villa mustache. . .MIT mutton-chop sideburns. He looked pretty unsure of himself.

'TO SLEEP, PERCHANCE TO DREAM'

Max Klein as Jeff Douglas just wants to sleep but Meg Brockie, played by Lynn Phillips, insists on talking. That problem is the least of many encountered by young lovers in the Marin Shakespeare Festival's offering of the musical "Brigadoon" in the Forest Meadows Theater at Dominican College, San Rafael. "Brigadoon" — a festival dividend in addition to "The Tempest," "Taming of the Shrew" and "Henry V" — will have final performances Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Argentina Labor-Leader Assassinated

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Assassins riding in an automobile today shot and killed Argentine labor leader Jose Alonso, the second major Peronist labor leader to be killed in 14 months.

Alonso, 57, was president of the Textile Worker's Union and a powerful advocate of the return to power to former Dictator Juan D. Peron.

Police said Alonso was shot to death by men in two automobiles who blocked his car on a residential street as he was being driven to work. While the men in one of the cars pistol-whipped his chauffeur, those in the other opened the rear door of Alonso's automobile and shot him twice in the head. The assassins escaped.

Another leading Peronist and labor figure, Augusto Vandor, was assassinated June 30, 1969, during the fact-finding visit of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Three men burst into Vandor's office here and shot him with machine guns.

Vandor was president of the Metal Workers Union and an executive of the General Labor Confederation (CGT), the Argentine equivalent of the AFL-CIO in the United States. His slaying has not been solved.

Alonso was a member of the Argentine Congress during the 10-year dictatorship of Peron, who was overthrown in 1955 and now lives in exile in Spain.

Secretary of Labor Juan Luca informed President Roberto M. Levingston of Alonso's death, and Gen. Jorge Caceres Monie, chief of federal police, made a personal investigation of the site of the assassination.

Nixon's Guards Capture Aliens

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—The Santa Fe Railroad tracks running in front of President Nixon's Pacific Ocean estate once were a fruitful underground trail for Mexican nationals sneaking into the United States.

Not anymore. The Secret Service's highly sophisticated electronic surveillance setup has led to the capture of numerous Mexicans attempting to slip over the border.

Six Mexican aliens were captured by presidential security forces earlier this week as they walked north on the beach near the Nixon villa. Agents shouted for them to halt and they scattered. Secret Service agents captured them and turned them over to the U.S Border Patrol.

Irish Sects Clash, 'Same Old Story'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Police and British troops broke up a stone-throwing clash early today between Roman Catholics and Protestants in Belfast's Old Park district.

"A crowd of about 100 Protestants met a crowd of 100 Catholics and they just started throwing stones at each other," an army spokesman said. "It was nothing more than the old, old story." He said no injuries were reported and no arrests made.

Venice Film Festival Lauds Sir Laurence

VENICE, Italy (UPI) — Sir Lawrence Olivier was the most lauded man at the Venice Film Festival today for his adaption of Anton Chekhov's "Three Sisters," considered the 19th Century Russian playwright's most profound drama.

Sir Laurence, who plays in the picture opposite his wife, Joan Plowright, was in the Balearic islands recovering from a recent collapse in Britain. He arrived there Wednesday, the same day the first film he has directed in 13 years was shown at the festival.

Critical acclaim for the 63-year-old Olivier was unreserved.

"Laurence Olivier is the greatest living actor of the English stage and one of the greatest in the entire history of the British theater," one critic said.

Critics agreed Olivier has progressed considerably from his first movies, where he tended simply to film stage versions of plays. He now has more flexibility, they said.

The only complaint they had was against the length of the film, nearly three hours.

Texas Road Expenses Amount To $8 Billion

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Nearly $8 billion has been spent in Texas for construction and maintenance of roads since the state highway department was created in 1917.

Construction has included 37,865 miles of farm and ranch roads, 25,809 miles of U.S. and state highways and 2,749 miles of interstate roadways.

Agnew In Saigon; Sees No Delay In Withdrawing Troops

SAIGON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in Saigon today and said there was no chance of a delay in U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.

"The Cambodian venture has made it possible to go forward with this and we will go forward with it," Agnew told newsmen aboard his plane as it flew to Saigon from Nationalist China.

Agnew was referring to the allied offfensive earlier this summer against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia, a nation he is expected to visit Friday.

Although he denied any plans for a trip to Cambodia, dispatches from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh today said all preparations had been made and that the vice president would have lunch with Premier Lon Nol and other officials.

Official sources said last minute security problems could force postponement of the Cambodian trip. A village nine miles north of Phnom Penh has been under Communist pressures for the past week.

Agnew landed at Bien Hoa air base 18 miles northwest of Saigon today and was flown in a helicopter to the presidential palace in downtown Saigon for talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu which began at 1:45 p.m. just as a monsoon rain drenched the South Vietnamese capital.

In his chat with newsmen aboard the plane, Agnew said U. S. officials such as Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who demanded early withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam are "dangerously w r o n g" and "must be disagreed with on very firm terms."

Agnew arrived in Saigon in the monsoon rainstorm on the third stop of his Asian tour, flying from Taiwan where he assured Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek the United States will stick by its treaty commitments to Nationalist China.

The government of South Korea, Agnew's first stop, today denied that President Park Chun-Hee gave Agnew his consent to a U.S. plan to withdraw 20,000 of the 64,000 American soldiers in Korea.

"Our basic position stands unchanged," said Information Minister Shin Bum-shik. "Measures to modernize the Korean armed forces should be agreed upon first before any U.S. troop cutback."

Agnew spent 9-1-2 hours with Park in intensive talks over the cutback.

Agnew said today in Saigon the only kind of coalition government the United States would stand for in Vietnam was one elected by the people.

"We're for free elections and whatever government comes out of free elections," he said. "We are against the idea of an imposed coalition government."

A coalition government to include the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is a basic demand of Communist delegates to the Paris talks.

Agnew said there was a diversity of opinion over U.S. policy in Southeast Asia, but that:

"I find myself in violent disagreement with people such as Senator Fulbright. I don't impute his motives or I don't think he's less patriotic for expresisng his convictions, but I think he's very, very wrong and dangerously wrong and since he is, he, in my opinion, is in a position where he must be disagreed with and on very firm terms."

Thuy Tired, Stays Away From Talks; Bruce Back

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam announced today its chief negotiator at the Paris talks, Xuan Thuy, would return to the conference table next week to end an eight-month boycott. A spokesman said Thuy was tired and unable to attend today's negotiating session.

U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, who stayed away from the talks last week to protest Thuy's absence, returned to the conference today for the 81st session. He declined comment on the possibility of secret talks with Thuy.

Thuy arrived back in Paris Wednesday after a long absence, raising hopes that he would attend the session today and move toward breaking the deadlocked negotiations. But a spokesman said Thuy was wearied by his journey from Hanoi via Peking and Moscow and was "taking a little rest."

"He will be present at the next session," the spokesman said.

Thuy has not attended the talks since Dec. 4, 1969. He walked out to protest President Nixon's failure to immediately appoint a successor when Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge resigned as chief negotiator. Bruce took over from Lodge earlier this month.

As he entered the session today Bruce told newsmen: "I am going to follow the same line that I have in previous meetings." Asked if he had any new proposals, Bruce replied: "I have not."

Nguyen Minh Vy, North Vietnam's deputy negotiator, repeated previous charges by Hanoi that the United States is not interested in Vietnam peace.

Bruce, in his statement today, urged the Communist side to "abandon the language of propaganda and begin the process of serious negotiation."

"I have spoken of the need to avoid propaganda, to avoid setting preconditions to serious discussion and to set aside demands for one-sided action," Bruce said in addressing Vy. "Unfortunately, your remarks today continue to offer little encouragement that you are prepared o do so."

The session lasted three hours, and Communist negotiators said "no progress" was made. The parties agreed to meet again next Thursday.

Time Running Out On Transfers

Some Sausalito Reviews Before Sept. 8 Openings

By PAT ANGLE and GEORGE NEVIN

With the first day of school only 10 days away, parents of more than 50 children in the Sausalito School District still don't know where their children will be attending fall classes.

For a variety of reasons — educational, political and personal — these parents have requested interdistrict transfers so their youngsters may attend schools in other districts.

But this year they are finding other Southern Marin Districts — which in the past have accomodated the annual summer departure of students from Sausalito — are either openly opposed to or at least wary of accepting transfer students in wholesale lots.

The two most geographically convenient districts, Mill Valley and Reed, are the choices of most would-be transfers. But in both districts the prospects are bleak for youngsters who want to enter for the first time. Most transfer renewals have been approved.

To date Sausalito parents have asked for 21 new transfers to the Mill Valley District; only two have been granted. The noose began tightening last month when the Mill Valley board decided to abandon its old "we'll-take-anyone" policy.

"We've always cooperated with Sausalito, but this kind of influx comes at the wrong time," said Mill Valley Supt. James A. Collins. "This places us in an embarrassing position, but we have to maintain programs for our own children.

"If we get 20 more kids, we'd have to pay $18,000 for another portable classroom and hire another teacher for $10,000," he said. As a result, he said, "We would have a serious dent in our educational program."

Collins thinks the ultimate solution is unification of Southern Marin School Districts. For the present, he doesn't know how to solve the problem.

In the Reed School District, the situation is similar. Although the district board will not adopt an official transfer policy until its Tuesday meeting, it is apparent the welcome mat will not be out for large groups of Sausalito students.

In the past, Reed, which already has approved two of three transfers from Sausalito, considered each application on an individual basis, according to interim Supt. Stanley H. Friese, but district trustees likely will do all they can to discourage immigrants from Sausalito.

Ironically, many parents who are leaving Sausalito say it is because they want better educational programs for their children, but Friese feels Reed's high academic standards may be too much for many of them.

The superintendent pointed out that Sausalito children score very low in state reading tests, while those at Reed make high scores. "Sausalito has special math and reading programs," Friese said, "But we don't have a single remedial program."

"Let's face it, the academic standards in our district are much higher — the change could be quite traumatic for a lot of children."

In another light, Friese said he feels Sausalito will not be helped if other districts accept all transfers. "I don't think we should continue to abet the problems," he said, "but instead should assist Sausalito — in any way we can — in providing the kind of educational program the parents want."

In Sausalito, trustees have agreed to abandon the district's current policy of allowing any student to go elsewhere without questioning the reasons.

The open-door policy was adopted earlier this year by the former board after the Marin County Board of Education overruled seven of the board's transfer denials.

Trustees voted Tuesday to take no action on 27 new requests until in-depth studies can be made on each case, a radical departure from the past year — and even from last month — when transfer requests were approved routinely.

The board, apparently receiving pressure from other districts and the Marin County schools office, took the action at the recommendation of interim Supt. Robert E. Spain.

In the past, Spain and trustee Delta Christ, who voted to withhold approval, have indicated they felt parents have the right to determine where their children should attend school.

But on Tuesday Spain said that by not making studies and recommendations on each transfer applicant, the district was creating problems for other districts and the county board.

Board president Nathaniel Johnson protested the policy change, saying he left the county board, in overruling Sausalito's decision last year, had taken on the responsibility for providing for those students Sausalito let loose.

Exactly how great the crush of transfer students will be by Sept. 8 (the first day of school) still is difficult to determine. To date this summer parents of 56 students have asked for transfers, but Spain said he feels the district can expect a "big upsurge" in requests before the opening day of classes.

However, he predicted that the loss of students will be nowhere near the 250-300 category predicted by some of the district's more gloomy forecasters. "I don't think we are going to lose even 110," he said.

The superintendent has not yet given up on even those parents who already have asked to remove their children from Sausalito. He plans to invite them and all district parents to a reception in honor of Armando Renzullo and Henry Hopkins, the two new principals hired last month.

"Come September we are going to have a well-coordinated, cohesive educational program, with additional emphasis on reading and math," he said. "I want these people to meet the principals and see what we have to offer."

Parents who are seeking transfers — especially those who already have appealed to the county board of education when other districts turned down their children — seem reluctant to talk about their plans or reasons for leaving.

One man spoke for most of them when he told the Independent-Journal, "I'll talk to you later, but right now I don't want to jeopardize my chances with the county board through publicity."

With time running out, the next step is up to the county board. The final decision about what to do in what essentially is a Southern Marin problem rests with that group, charged by law with ruling on appeals of transfer denials.

The county board will hold a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the county office to consider the appeals.

Two options are open to the board, according to Lyle Wright, acting director of administrative services — it can uphold or reject Mill Valley's denials of the transfers.

Wright said he thought the board's decision also will consider the larger question of how to handle such transfer disputes in the future without resorting to the time-consuming appeals route.

"I'm making no recommendation," he said, "and it's hard to say what the board will do." But he believed it might split on the appeals, granting some and denying others.

No matter what action the board takes, it certainly must consider one factor — the future of integration in the Sausalito school district.

Since September 1968 enrollment has dropped from 987 to its present 654 and the vast majority of students who have left have been white.

When the last school year ended, black children comprised about 55 per cent of the student population; this year the percentage will be even higher. Several parents (who refused to be identified) mentioned they did not want their children at Martin Luther King school "because it will be mostly black."

Clearly, the departure of white students, if allowed to continue unchecked, could destroy the noble experiment of "true" integration begun in the district in 1965.

Safety Employees Reject County Pay-Raise Offer

County safety employees, including sheriff's deputies, firemen and communications workers, yesterday turned down the county's latest proposal of a 7.5 per cent pay raise by a nearly 2-to-1 vote.

The emphatic rejection stalemates negotiations between the county and the safety employees and poses the possibility of a strike or work slowdown on next Tuesday, when the present work contract expires.

The county's offer was rejected 93 to 49. The bulk of the "no" votes are believed to be from the sheriff's deputies, who are holding out for a 12.5 per cent raise.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, which is bargaining for the safety employees, said he does not have a breakdown of the 142 votes cast.

Both Prevo and County Administrator Alan Bruce, who heads the county negotiating team, said they hope for further talks to break the deadlock. The safety employees' 1969 contract, which expired July 1, was extended for 60 days, and the extension period ends on midnight next Monday.

Wade R. Powell, spokesman for the sheriff's deputies, said the deputies will meet tomorrow night at the civic center to map a "Course of action." He said a strike or slowdown has not been ruled out.

Bruce said he will join Prevo in asking state conciliator James Marshall of San Francisco to try to break the deadlock.

"Our people have indicated they won't accept the offer (7.5 per cent)," said Prevo. "So if they (the county) are willing to make a different offer, we'll meet with them. Otherwise, there's no use meeting."

"We'll keep talking," said Bruce. "Certainly, we don't expect the safety employees to take actions that are illegal or irresponsible. We are making plans to face any situation that may develop."

Bruce said the offer rejected by the safety employees yesterday would have given sheriff's deputies, firemen and communications workers a 7.5 per cent raise as of Sept. 1, plus time-and-a-half for overtime work. The only exceptions would have been cooks and clerical workers, who would have received a 5 per cent raise.

Top pay now for sheriff's deputies is $892 per month, and for county firemen $829 per month. The 7.5 per cent raise would have upped the top pay to $960 for deputies and $892 for firemen.

This would have brought the pay of deputies above salaries of patrolmen in every city except Novato and San Rafael, said Bruce. Top pay for patrolmen in San Rafael is $976 and in Novato, $964. In other cities the top pay for patrolmen are as follows:

Belvedere, $950, Corte Madera, $927; Fairfax, $883 now and $905 as of next January; Mill Valley, $829; San Anselmo, $935; and Sausalito, $940.

If no agreement is reached by Sept. 1, the Marin County Board of Supervisors has authorized the county to raise the pay of all safety employees by 5 per cent, a raise which the safety employees have refused to accept.

In asking the safety employees to vote on the 7.5 per cent proposal, the county administrator attached an explanatory letter, including this observation:

"As is no doubt shown by all members of the unit, strikes, slowdowns or work stoppages by public employees in general and by emergency employees in particular are prohibited by California law. The county counsel is prepared at any time to take whatever steps may be necessary to see that the law is upheld. We are sure that this will not be necessary. It is inconceivable that unlawfulness would originate from those very public servants sworn to enforce the law."

Candidates' Coffee

Robert E. Fisher Jr. and Royce McLemore of Marin City, two of four candidates for two seats on the Sausalito School District board, will attend a coffee today at 8 p.m. at Margo Braymann home, 166 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

Sonoma State To Hold Picnic

Faculty and staff members of the Sonoma State College will gather for their annual picnic on Sept. 13 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Union Hotel picnic grounds, Occidental.

James C. Cox, staff council chairman, said the picnic is both a social and fund raising event. Proceeds will benefit the council's student emergency loan fund. The council has donated a total of $1,000 to the fund and has assisted 51 needy Sonoma State students.

The picnic will include live music and entertainment, dancing, contests, door prizes, volleyball and horseshoes.

Communications Set For Dipsea Race

The Marin Amateur Radio Club will again supply communications for the 60th annual Dipsea handicap foot race to be run from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Amateur radio equipment installed in automobiles will be stationed at the start and finish lines and intermediate points to relay information.

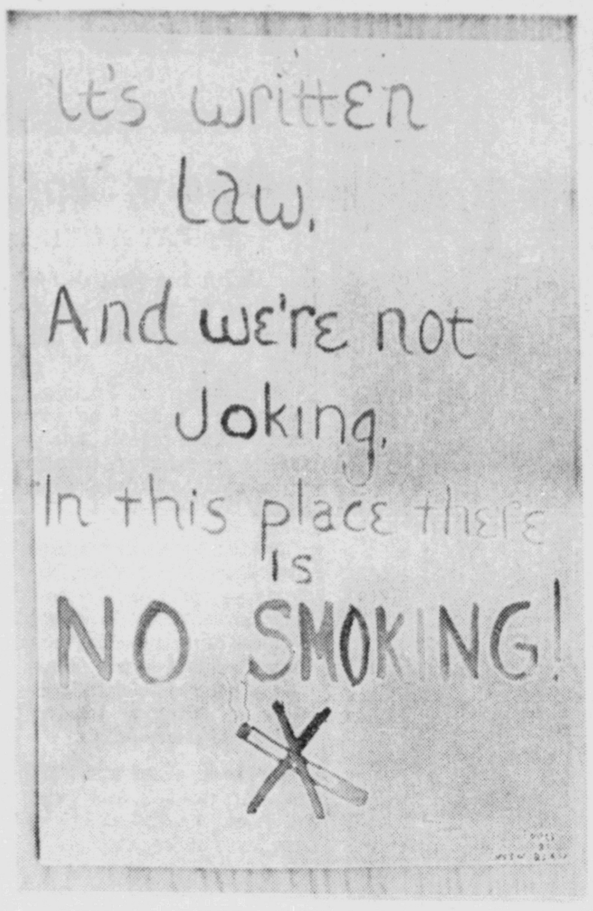
YOUNG POTTER — A boy at Marin Juvenile Hall creates with a potter's wheel in a new crafts program recently started there. Often the delinquent youngsters have not participated in this kind of activity before.

GIRLS' CLASS — Teacher Virginia Montoya guides a student at the hall in learning typing skills. Such classes are held throughout the year now with all youngsters attending school each weekday.



NO SMOKING — Cigarette smoking is now a "no-no" at Marin Juvenile Hall, where a "tightening up" has replaced former permissiveness. Youngsters at the hall have cooperated by making posters like this.

CLEAN CLOTHES — Housekeeper Anna McHugh (right) hands a stack of fresh socks to a juvenile hall girl inmate. All youngsters are provided with clean clothing when they arrive at the hall, and Mrs. McHugh keeps a close tab on it

New Atmosphere At Marin Juvenile Hall

three one-week breaks instead of a three-month hiatus.

The summer program includes half a morning of academic activities and the other half filled with crafts such as tie dying, pottery and jewelry-making.

"It's not much but it's something for kids who have never done anything like this before," Yarchin said while leading a tour of the crafts room.

Gone, too, is much of the permissiveness which marked Juvenile Hall in former years and shocked grand juries annually.

"No smoking" signs printed by the youngsters are in evidence everywhere — and are strictly enforced both for the youthful inmates and the staff, who are allowed breaks to smoke outside the presence of the youngsters.

"We got rid of the smoking gradually," Yarchin said. "First we quit buying cigarettes for the youngsters, then we stopped their being brought in and finally we forbid any smoking."

Why?

"For a very simple reason — it's against the law for persons under 18 to smoke," Yarchin said.

Although the furniture in the older buildings at the hall is still either in a state of disrepair or nonexistent (a budget request was denied this year), the rooms are clean.

"The youngsters do all the cleaning up here," Yarchin explained, and "they are now being held accountable for anything they break or destroy, a change from the past."

Juvenile hall inmates are supplied with clean clothing when they enter the hall, and under Yarchin's direction, a new outlook has taken place even on this subject.

"We just got a whole bunch of new tennis shoes and we're going to get the boots off the boys," he said. "They mark the floors and besides, they're a lethal weapon," he explained.

As for hygiene, the superintendent feels that that has to be taught in an unobtrusive manner, such as during sports programs.

He has just purchased a punching bag and body bag for the senior boys' unit with money received from the Juvenile Court Auxiliary and adds "I would give anything for a gymnasium or exercise room."

As for the girls, volunteers now help them with hair-do's and other volunteers teach such womanly arts as sewing and knitting.

Another innovation is a weekly religious program conducted on Thursday evenings by a Catholic priest and Protestant minister. Although attendance at the sessions which feature discussions and films is voluntary, Yarchin said "it has been good."

Outings at the hall are pretty much confined to field trips in connection with school classes or other activities and have included trips to see the Bay Model in Sausalito and to baseball games.

Purely "play outings," such as the one to the beach at which youngsters received drugs in 1969 prior to the death of a 16-year-old girl inmate are out now, Yarchin said.

As for drugs, he said that in the year he has been superintendent, there has been only one case of contraband being brought into the hall. He credits this with the 'sharing down" of youngsters whenever they return to the hall.

Staff members have been given instructions as to how to search for contraband, he said, and they also do not allow outside youngsters to hang around the hall fences. Visitors are confined to parents of the youngsters, Yarchin said.

Constanly searching for ways to improve the program without money to spend, Yarchin recently found a way to obtain bright, fresh magazines for the youngsters.

Knowing that post offices throw away undeliverable publications, he asked San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy for such throw-aways and now receives a large batch each week from the Civic Center branch.

Yarchin moves through the juvenile hall buildings, greeting youngsters by name and answering questions wherever he goes.

A youngster in the junior boys' unit found with his feet up on a couch was admonished to put them down. When he did not do so immediately, another boy said, "He said, get your feet down,"' and the first boy complied quickly.

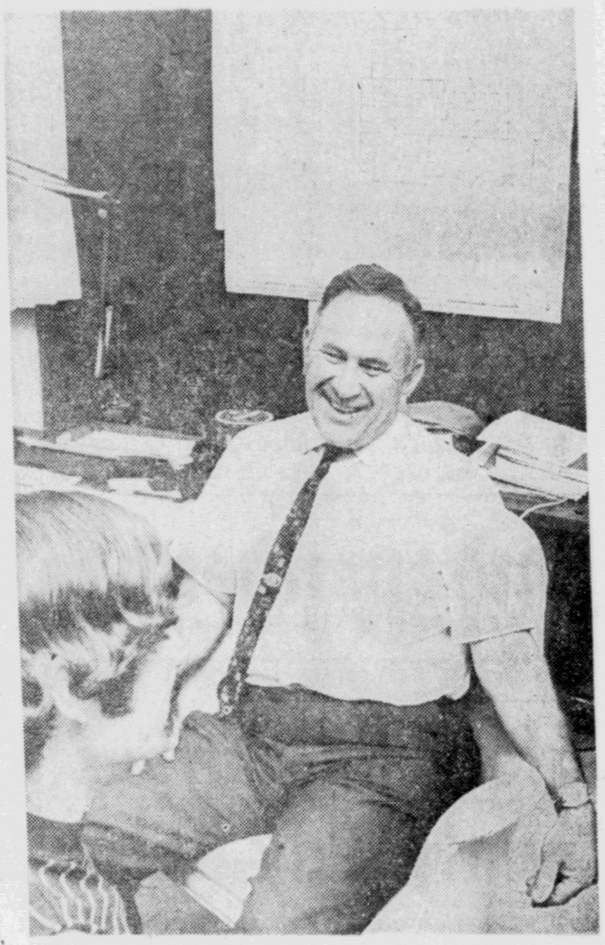
A girl who approached Yarchin with a list of toilet articles she said she was not allowed to have was told to settle it with the staff in her unit. Yarchin warned her, however, that "pressure cans are out."

He explained that they are dangerous as explosives and they can also be used for "sniffing."

Throughout all the innovations made by Yarchin, one senses his attitude both of concern for the youngsters but also that "We're running an institution for kids who cannot be free in the community."

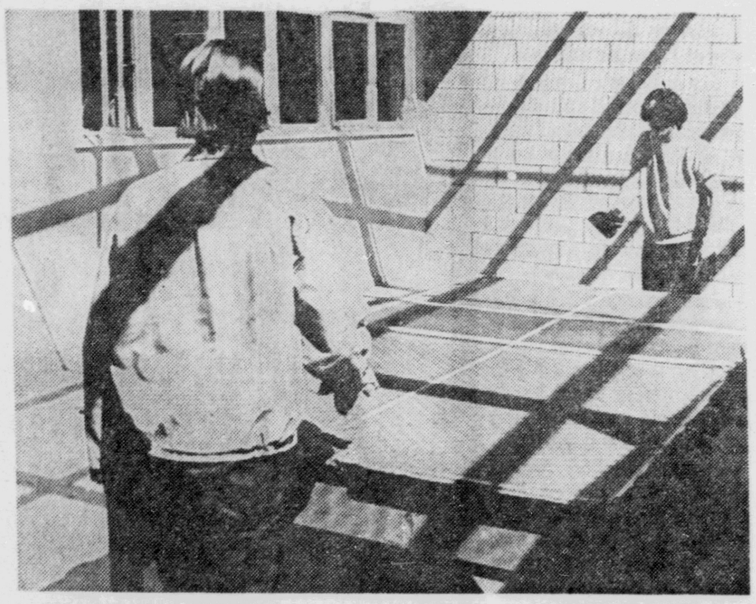
In the past, he said smilingly, "Marin County built a juvenile hall and put a lot of plants around it, hoping it was completely camouflaged and could be forgotten.

"Then Marin wouldn't have to admit that there were delinquent kids here. Only when some climbed the fence, did people notice the hall and blame the superintendent for letting them escape."



NEW CHIEF — Erick F. Yarchin, (right) who has been superintendent at Marin Juvenile Hall for the past year, shares a joke with counselor Michael Dicebo. Yarchin has brought a fresh approach to the hall, which was without a superintendent for two years.

BOOKING — A missing girl sought by authorities since she failed to show up for a juvenile court hearing is booked into Juvenile Hall by Mill Valley officers.



RECREATION — Two boys enjoy a game of Ping-Pong in an enclosed patio off the senior boys unit. Supt. Erick F. Yarchin wishes he had more equipment for the youngsters to use for physical exercise.

LIBRARY — Juvenile Hall Youngsters use a library aided by a counselor and volunteer librarian. Bright new magazines donated by the Civic Center post office attract the young people, who are often not good readers.

Unsecured Land Taxes Nearing

Taxes on unsecured property will become delinquent as of midnight next Monday, Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez announced today.

He explained that unsecured taxes are levied on pleasure boats, houseboats, business inventory and other equipment not attached to any real property.

Each year, unsecured property taxes are billed separately from the regular property taxes on land and improvements.

A penalty of 6 per cent will be added to all unsecured property taxes that are not paid by Sept. 1.

CHILDREN RIDE CAR TO POOLSIDE

A station wagon which took two San Rafael children on an unscheduled ride is towed out of the pool at an apartment house at 210 D Street, San Rafael. Drake Birkie, 2, and Wolfe Birkie, 6, were unhurt after their ride yesterday. Constance G. Birkie of 575 Fairhills Drive, left the children in the car and they apparently shifted the gear out of "park" position. The car backed down the driveway, damaging the building, fence and edge of the pool where it stopped. The car received damage to the left side and rear.

MIAMI (UPI)—A federal judge ordered a whites-only cemetery in Fort Pierce, Fla., today to permit the burial of a Negro soldier killed in Vietnam.

Friends of the family announced immediately that Spec. 4 Pondexter E. Williams will be buried with full military honors Saturday in Hillcrest Memorial Gardens, a cemetery previously reserved for white persons.

U.S. District Judge William O. Mehrtens said he was issuing a temporary injunction prohibiting Hillcrest from interfering with the interment of Williams.

The conflict arose when the soldier's mother, Mrs. Mary Campbell, answering a Hillcrest advertised offer of free burial for Vietnam combat victims, was turned down because he was black. A court suit, with the Justice Department joining in as a "friend of the court" ensued.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Schizophrenia Recovery Rate Low Even With Proper Care

Van Dellen

More than 300,00 people in mental hospitals have schizophrenia (skiz-o-fre-ne-ah). With or without treatment, one-third get well, one-third remain totally disabled, and one-third are released to their families. The latter are not sick enough to be institutionalized and not well enough to live healthy, happy lives. The recovery rate is not high, but there is hope, especially when the condition is treated early and the victim continues receiving psychiatric care after leaving the hospital.

The disease usually begins before the age of 30. Whatever the cause, the victim gradually fades out of reality and enters a world different from that of a normal person. Because the schizophrenic lives in a shell he is isolated from family and friends. Early symptoms include insomnia, headache, change in body odor, intense preoccupation with self, crying fits, fatigue, and deep depression for no apparent reason.

THE TRUE NATURE of schizophrenia becomes more evident when the man or woman begins to act strangely due to changes in preception, thought, and mood. He begins to act out or discuss experiences in his imaginary (but real to him) world.

He is hallucinating when he sees things, scenes, and people that others do not see. In addition, bothersome noises or voices tell him what to do or how to behave. There also may be changes in the senses of smell, touch, and taste.

DISTURANCES IN thought also are common. Memory may be impaired and recall is difficult. Schizophrenics also develop false beliefs (delusions) which grow out of their perceptive impairments. Many complain of being persecuted by the communists or "that man in the office."

Meanwhile, the depression deepens. Signs of severe inner tension also may ensue and the victim appears to be seething with anger or overwhelmed with fear. Some become violent but the majority are peaceful and harmless. Suicide, however, is always a possibility.

BAKING SODA AND INDIGESTION

L.N.T. writes: At least three times a week I get so uncomfortable after eating I have to take baking soda for relief. Is this practice harmful?

REPLY

No, but if your indigestion is coming from a serious ailment you are wasting valuable, if not lifesaving, time getting temporary relief with baking soda.

BREAK IT GENTLY

A reader writes: How can you tell a person he ought to see a psychiatrist without hurting his feelings?

REPLY

If you feel you must do so, tell him that 80 per cent of all patients who consult a psychiatrist have emotional or nervous disorders and are not insane. As a last resort, suggest that he see a "nerve doctor."

PARAKEET BITE

A.R.C. writes: What should a person do if he is bitten by a parakeet?

REPLY

Wash the injured area with soap and water. And let this bite teach you to keep your finger out of the cage.

SUNBATHING AND HEART

G.H. writes: Is it safe for a person who had a slight heart attack to sunbathe? His blood pressure is low.

REPLY

Yes. But he should avoid overexposure.

Salad Bowl Price Hike To Hit East

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)—Lettuce price increases, already felt in California, will spread eastward within days because of a Salinas Valley strike, a wholesaler predicts.

Wholesaler Joe Carcione made his forecast in San Francisco Wednesday. A carton of 24 heads of iceberg (head) lettuce now costs $6 in San Francisco, instead of the usual $3.

Growers said production in the Salinas Valley, "America's Salad Bowl," was about 45 per cent of usual on the third day of a jurisdictional walkout called by Cesar Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

Union men said that 5,000 of the valley's 7,000-person work force was on strike.

The valley produces at least 70 per cent of the nation's lettuce and the shortage already has been felt in Chicago where market experts said only small supplies are coming in from Colorado, Wisconsin, and Santa Maria, Calif. The strike also is in effect in Santa Maria.

Retail prices in San Francisco, 100 miles away, varied markedly. One large chain of groceries held to the price of two-heads for 39 cents it advertised before the strike started Monday.

Prices at other stores ranged from 39 cents for a single head, down to 29 cents.

Marin School Candidates Given More Time To File

Marin school board candidates have until Sept. 10 to declare their candidacy in the Nov. 3 election despite a new state law that makes that deadline forward to tomorrow.

Peter C. Meyer, head of the county elections department, said he had conferred with County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and decided to waive the provisions of the emergency legislation, SB-1421, thus giving school board candidates until Sept. 10 to file.

Meyer said he is willing to waive the new law for other special elections set for Nov. 3, but this will be up to the districts involved and their respective attorneys. Other elections on Nov. 3 are Marin General Hospital District, Strawberry Recreation District, and the Terra Linda Parks and Recreation District.

In the Terra Linda Parks and Recreation District, for example, the deadline under the old law was Sept. 4. Meyer said he is willing to hold the filing date open to Sept. 4, if the district so desires. However, if the district wants to cut off the filing on Aug. 28, it would be well within the new law, said Meyer. "That is the problem of each district, and I will go along with whatever they decide."

The bill became law on Aug. 6, and fixed the filing deadline for elections consolidated with the Nov. 3 election to 67 days before the election or Aug. 28. This was to give county clerks throughout the state more lead time in preparing for elections. However, under existing education code provisions, candidates for school boards have until 54 days before the election, or Sept. 10, to declare their candidacy.

The effect of the new law would be to shorten the filing time for candidates for the Tamalpais High School District, Fairfax School District and Ross School District governing boards. Those who had relied on published notices giving them until Sept. 10 to file may be prevented from doing so by the sudden reduction in filing time.

On the advice of the county counsel, Meyer said he decided to waive the new provisions and give Marin school board candidates until Sept. 10 to file.

Scholarships To Five Musicians

Five youthful Marin musicians have received $200 scholarships awarded by the Marin Music Chest in auditions held at San Domenico School for Girls.

Awarded scholarships were Michele Bergman, cellist, and violinists Carol Tomlinson, Mark Jordan, and Peter Maunu, all of San Rafael, and Charles Way, oboist, from Mill Valley.

The musicians will make their public debut during intermission of the closing concert of the Marin Music Chest Summer Series at 3 p.m. Sept. 13 in Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael.

TV REVIEW

Miss Colon Never Gets The Hero

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—A casting director ordered to look for someone to play the wife of an Anglo-Saxon Wall Street analyst would never think of Miriam Colon. And this strikes Miss Colon as wryly amusing since she is married to just such a man.

But she is also a Puerto Rican and Miss Colon says Puerto Ricans never get the Caucasian hero in television scripts, only in real life.

If you watch television you know Miss Colon's face even if her name has escaped you in the final blur of credits whizzing off the screen to make way for the commercials. She is one of the most seen actresses on the tube. The Defenders, Dr. Kildare, Alfred Hitchcock Presents, Ben Casey, Dick Van Dyke.

SOMETHING ELSE

You name it. She's been on it.

But always as a Mexican, an Indian, an Italian, a Greek, a Latin-American or even a Puerto Rican.

The other day she appeared at the CBS-TV offices for a preview of the "Gunsmoke" episode which opens the 16th season of that most successful of all western series on Sept. 14. There are estimates James Arness, as Matt Dillon, has himself earned some $30 million out of the show.

The episode is titled "Chato" and Miss Colon plays a co-starring role (as a Mexivan, of course) rated of such importance she was summoned back from a holiday in Greece to enact it. It is, she says, a part of great emotion, character and depth. There is however a penalty for all this—she dies.

The tendency of television to type-cast anyone who doesn't conform to certain stereotypes irks Miss Colon, who is founder of the Puerto Rican Travelling Theater which performs in New York slum areas.

NURSE OR WIFE

"The Mexican Girl is never a school teacher," she complained. "She's always the widow of a man who was killed, or the harlot in the bar. If she's a Mexican can't she ever be a nurse or a wife? Let's face it, there are scientists who are Latin-Americans. Yet although many nationalities make up the fabric of the country they won't admit them into the story line.

"I don't really blame the casting directors. They are handcuffed by the script. If the writer calls for a blue-eyed yellow-haired girl what can they do? If such a girl is demanded to make the story believable that's okay. I don't want to play a Swedish girl. That's not my point.

"But look at Los Angeles. How many men there are married to Latin-American girls and Puerto Ricans? How many Latin-American girls are teachers in Chicago or married to businessmen there?"

Otherwise Miss Colon is very happy with her career. She can sing and dance and do any number of dialects. She got good notices in her only Broadway show. There are plenty of roles for her this television season. Once the greasepaint is off and she gets back to her Manhattan apartment she becomes Mrs. George P. Edgar.

Why she asks, can't she be a Mrs. George P. Edgar on the television screen?

Man-Made Fire Above The Normal

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State Division of Forestry reported today that the number of man-caused fires this year is running 50 per cent above normal.

And the number one fire-starter is the careless child playing with matches, who accounts for 24 per cent of the blazes.

"It's mostly kids playing with matches, smoking behind a haystack or just playing out in the woods," said Robert Burns, a spokesman for the division.

Burns said the dry, hot summer has created a tinderbox in California's vast brushlands and forests. "The fire severity is higher this year than normal," he said.

Burns said the northeast section of the state is the most dangerous at present, but added the fire potential "seems to be creeping southwards."

"Everything is very critical and if we get winds on top of it, we're going to get large fires," he said. "We're geared and our fire crews are ready."

He said the division and U.S. Forest Service experts predict the critical fire season, which began in May, will last another six to eight weeks.

"We're getting into the critical time now," Burns said, "because of the continued hot, dry weather that sucks the moisture from plants and trees."

He said as the humidity drops and the temperature rises, the "ignition ability" of pine humus and forest litter—the initial fuel for fires—increases proportionately.

Burns said other sources for fires are machines, such as farm implements, welding torches, automobiles, railroad trains—"everything that has hot carbon or hot sparks."

Money Wanted From Frouge

Suits have been filed in Marin Superior Court by former Marin County Supervisor Vera Schultz and architect Edmund C. Heine Jr. for money they say is owed them be the Frouge Corp. and the estate of the late Thomas Frouge.

Mrs. Schultz said that she has not been paid $29,425 for public relations work which she did with the firm in connection with the controversial Marincello project.

Heine said that he is owed $11,065. Both want 7 per cent interest on the sums for the period since August 1968.

Marincello was to be a huge planned community in the Marin Headlands and a master plan was approved by the board of supervisors in 1965 but no building ever took place.

Frouge died in New York last year.

London Raid Nets Weapons

LONDON (UPI)—One of the largest coordinated police raids in Britain's history netted several submachine guns, rifles and a quantity of explosives and resulted in the arrest of several persons, police sources said today.

The raids on more than 100 locations, about half of them in the London area, were carried out Wednesday night in such secrecy even some local police agencies were unaware of them in advance, the sources said.

An initial statement from Scotland Yard said the raids were directed against the outlawed Irish Republican Army and other extremist groups. But later the Yard spokesman denied this, saying, "there was no political significance in the operation."

Casper Won Page In History Book

I have a feeling William Earl Casper won more than just the $32,000 Monday in the Avco Golf Classic in New England. I think he finally won his own page in the history book of Golf.

No longer does he have to eat the same food as a lion to get his name in the papers. No longer will his diet, his religion, his fishing skill, or even his putting be the most interesting thing about him.

WITH SARAZEN, JONES, HOGAN

He has climbed on a plateau with Sarazen, Jones, Hagen, even Hogan. He can play this game of golf as only about a dozen men in all the long history of the game could play it. He can do it in an era when the refinements of the game are such that you can't size up a field any more and realize privately that there are really only one or two — or three or four — out there that you have to beat. Everybody in an alpaca sweater in the field is a threat today.

In an era when great players have trouble winning ONE tournament a year, Billy Casper has now won FOUR. The last guy to win that many in a year was Casper. He took SIX in 1968. He has won 13 tournaments in three years. Some guys haven't made that many cuts.

Billy has been the stepchild of the game for too many years. He must feel like the guy they give a party for — and then Elizabeth Taylor shows up. Or Elizabeth the Queen. Or like the guy who plays a superb Hamlet — and the rave notices go to the gravedigger. He's like the kid who knocks himself out in school to get good grades, does the dishes for his mother, baby-sits and window-washes — and all she can talk about is the baby.

MORE WINS THAN BIG THREE

He's like the guy the frat brothers borrow money from but never ask along on the date. He goes to a big party and the society columns report "among those present were the Bill Cappers." He's been as unnoticed as the butler.

He beat Arnold Palmer for the U.S. Open and the headline said "Palmer Loses!" or "Arnie Blows Lead!" They interviewed Casper as if he was just an eyewitness to the tragedy.

Then, there was the "Big Three." Guess whowasnot one of them? A guy who has won more PGA tournaments and major tournaments 1966-1970 than the "Big Three" COMBINED! Who won the Vardon Trophy (best stroke-average per round) three times in five years? While two of the "Big Three" have NEVER won it, and Arnold Palmer won it four times but only once in the past five years.

In the past five years, the "Big Three" have managed to miss the cuts in one of the major U.S. championships. Casper didn't. He once went 100 straight tournaments in the money (i.e. not only finishing, but high enough to get paid).

TIME FOR RECOGNITION

So it's about time the golf world stopped asking, "Who's that out there beating Arnold Palmer?" or writing, "No Name Players in Leave-Bank Open" just because Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, and/or Gary Player didn't show up.

I won't go so far as to say the "Big Three" are the "Big Through." Casper, 39, may get run over by the rush of youth himself from now on. The Mets, the AFL, the Knicks have shown that youth may make Buffalo Billy as extinct as the species he dines on.

But, before that happens, someone should have the decency to train a set of binoculars on a golf gallery and say "Which one of the 'Big Three' is that playing with Billy Casper." Or they should throw a GGO, or some other tournament the "Big Three" give the big freeze to, the headline should read: "Big C in Tourney Opening Today — Record Crowds Foreseen."

Casper Sets Sights On Dow Jones Title

CLINTON, N.J. (UPI)—Billy Casper's sights are set on at least one more tournament victory this year. Practicality dictates his preference.

The year's top pro moneywinner, Casper—who already has four tournament titles and $139,585 in his pocket—figures the $60,000 first prize in the Dow Jones Open this weekend would be a perfect punctuation to one of his finest seasons.

"I'd like to win at least one more tournament before the year is over and the Dow Jones would certainly be a nice one," said Casper, winner of 47 tour events in his career.

The battle for the biggest jackpot in PGA history began today at Upper Montclair Country Club with Casper scheduled among the late starters. A total of $300,000 in prize money was on the line.

Casper this year has won the Los Angeles Open, Masters, Philadelphia Classic and AVCO Classic, last Monday at Sutton, Mass. He's approaching his best year, 1968, when he won six tournaments and a record $205,168.

"If I can play as well as I did Monday, I should do well here," Casper said. "I think my game is starting to come back to the point it was when I won the Masters."

The field of 150 included all of golf's biggest names — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Lee Trevino, Sam Snead, PGA champion Dave Stockton, U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin and Bob Murphy, who won the last of the four Thunderbird Classics held at Upper Montclair in 1968.

"I imagine this is as good a field as you can assemble," said Murphy, whose 1968 victory here was worth less than the runnerup will earn this weekend. "Most anybody who could get here is here."

Casper said he thought a 72-hole score of about 278, 10 under par over the 7,085-yard course, would win, while Palmer was more vague and said "between 275 and 280." Two years ago Murphy won with 277. Palmer shot a four-over-par 76 in Wednesday's pro-Am.

"I like this course, it's a good course, and if I like a course I usually play well on it," said Murphy, who also was a late starter today.

Of those who have played here before, Nicklaus has perhaps the most impressive record despite not winning. He averaged 69.87, more than two under par, for his 16 rounds in four Thunderbirds, but his best finishes were a pair of second places.

Nicklaus holds the course record of 65. Herb Hooper, a rabbit from Richmond, Va., came close to it Wednesday with a 66.

The $300,000 purse in the Dow Jones tournament exceeded the tour's previous high, the $250,000 at Westchester, by $50,000, but Palmer said he doesn't look for any more substantial increase in purses.

First McNally, Now Cuellar For Poor A's

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The sliding Oakland Athletics make their final appearance in Baltimore tonight but the Orioles aren't figuring on playing the role of a gracious host.

Although they lead the American League East by a whopping 11 1-2 games, the Orioles will throw another of their talented lefthanders against the A's. Shooting for his 20th win of the season will be Mike Cuellar. Three nights ago, Dave McNally became the major league's first 20-game winner when he stopped Oakland.

For the A's, it will be Chuck Dobson, who has a 15-11 record.

Baltimore downed Oakland, 5-1, last night to stretch the A's losing streak to five games. The A's are now 7½ games behind Minnesota in the Western Division scramble and four behind second place California.

Another probable 20-game winner for the Orioles, Jim Palmer, stopped Oakland on just six hits. In going the distance for the 16th time this year, Palmer upped his record to 18-7.

Oakland's only damaging blow was Felipe Alou's eighth homer of the season. It came in the fourth inning.

The Orioles, meanwhile, got to Oakland starter and loser Jim Hunter for a pair of runs in the third on Don Buford's home run. Hunter, now 15-12, gave up another run in the fourth before giving way to a string of four relievers.

Bob Locker gave up the other two Oriole runs in the seventh, one of which was unearned.

Giants Can't Do Anything Wrong; Try For Sweep Of Cardinals Today

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The worm apparently has turned for the San Francisco Giants.

Where they couldn't do anything right only a month ago, now, seemingly, they can't do anything wrong.

Yesterday afternoon San Francisco pitching gave up 12 hits, among them two homers, issued six walks, and hit a batter and in addition sow the Cardinals steal six bases, yet the Giants survived for an 8-7 victory over St. Louis.

"That's a pretty good lineup we are using now," said manager Charlie Fox. "I'll say this, if I was on the other side I wouldn't want to pitch against the Giants."

The Giants banged out 12 hits of their own, including homers by Willie Mays (23rd), Dick Dietz (21st) and Willie McCovey (33rd), and while the pitching was nothing to write home about four different throwers managed to make the key outs.

Mays' homer made him the fourth man in history to score 1,900 runs. Only Ty Cobb with 2,245, Babe Ruth with 2,174 and Stan Musial with 1,949 are ahead of him.

Jim Ray Hart, beginning to look more and more like the hitter he was a couple of years ago, won the game with a ninth inning single after a two-out double by Kenny Henderson. It was Hart's second hit of the game and he could have had a double had he run to second since the ball hit in front of the right centerfield fence and bounced over.

"I don't care about a double," Hart said gleefully. The only thing I cared about was seeing Henderson score."

This was a game in which the Giants kept coming from behind to win. The Cardinals reached starter Frank Reberger for three runs in the first and the Giants came back to tie it in the second.

St. Louis went ahead at 4-3 in the fifth and 6-3 in the sixth. Dietz' homer cut the deficit to 6-4 in the sixth and in the seventh the Giants went ahead for the first time at 7-6 as Bobby Bonds hit a triple, Mays singled and McCovey hit a line drive homer.

Reberger and his immediate reliever, Jerry Johnson, were gone by then and Don McMahon, the ace of the San Francisco bullpen, went out to protect the one-run lead in the eighth.

Lou Brock, who had the kind of days most players would like to duplicate, hit McMahon's first pitch for a homer to tie it at 7-7.

When McMahon gave up a single to Dal Maxwill with one out in the ninth, Mike Davison, a lefthander, came on to strike out Davilillo and Brock.

'I brought Vavison in because I didn't want them to steal another base," said Fox. "I was afraid with McMahon (a righthander in there they might try it since they had so much luck stealing earlier in the game.

Brock finished with two singles in addition to his homer, two walks, three runs scored and three stolen bases. Jose Cardenal, Joe Torre and Leron Lee stole the other bases.

The victory was the third in a row for the improve Giants and their ninth in the last 11 games.

"This is the most consistent we've been all year," said Fox.

"I don't say that just because we are winning. It's more a case of the team settling down to playing good ball. You can lose playing well if the breaks go against you.

"Fortunately, the breaks have been going our way lately. I hope it doesn't stop until the season ends."

The Giants try to wrap up the Cardinals, whom they now have beaten seven times in 11 games, today but it won't be easy because Bob Gibson (18-5) pitches for St. Louis. Gaylord Perry (17-12) goes for the Giants.

The Giants haven't beaten Gibson since September 1968 when Perry had to pitch a no-hitter to do it.

PRO FOOTBALL NOTES

49ers Recovering Well From Flu; Stabler Will Work Second Half

San Francisco Forty Niner coach Dick Nolan expects the eight flu victims on his team to be ready for Saturday's game with Denver at Eugene, Ore.

He also said that lineman Elmer Collett, who has had a back injury, and Stan Hindman, who underwent knee surgery last year, probably would see some action in the Broncos' tussle.

For the third straight day yesterday the Prospectors held scoring drills from between the 10 and 15 yard lines. Inability to punch the ball over from down close has cost the Forty Niners two consecutive pre-season setbacks.

Raiders

Kenny Stabler is expected to play the second half of Saturday's home game against tough Green Bay. The southpaw quarterback was a standout in two Raider contests, but then missed last week's battle with Los Angeles because of the death of his father.

Daryle Lamonica will work the first half against the Packers, as usual.

Backs Hewritt Dixon and Rod Sherman missed practice yesterday with injuries but will be in action Saturday. But tight end Ray Chester has a strained knee and will miss the Packer tussle.

Bengals

"Can't anybody here play this game?"

This poignant question was voiced by Casey Stengel upon the mirthful birth of his Mets in 1962. While Paul Brown, the head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals, is undoubtedly a better moulder of syntax than the inimitable Perfessor, he could very well be mulling over the same question as his quarterback problem deepens.

It all started when Greg Cook, the 6-foot-3, 212-pound starting quarterback, one of pro football's outstanding rookies last season, reinjured his chronic throwing arm in training and underwent surgery. Since then, veteran Sam Wyche and rookies Dave Lewis and Jim Del Gaizo have been given looks, and the impression is that Brown has come away dissatisfied.

The impression gained substantiation yesterday as the resourceful Bengals mentor announced the addition of veteran quarterbacks Virgil Carter and Bob Davis to the squad.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound Carter was obtained from the Buffalo Bills in exchange for an undisclosed 1971 draft choice.

Davis, 6-foot-2, 205 pounds, was picked up after being waived on Tuesday by the New York Giants. In this fourth year as a pro, Davis joined the Giants after serving for three seasons as the reserve quarterback for the Houston Oilers.

Cook, meanwhile, is chafing at the bit at not being able to serve the Bengal cause in the upcoming tussle with the Browns — or anyone else for that matter. Cook is through for the season. He is "completely optimistic," however, that the surgery was a success and he would be back next year, better than ever.

Other News

Two trades, a retirement, and the return of Willie Richardson highlighted the day's other pre-season activities.

Richardson, obtained by the Pittsburgh Steelers from the Colts last week in a trade for Roy Jefferson, returned to training camp after a brief holdout triggered by a contract dispute, and declared he had returned "to play football." Don Rooney, Steelers vice-president, indicated Richardson would receive no increase in pay.

Cincinnati's Big Red Machine Gets Help From Merritt's Hot Pitching

By NEIL HERSHBERG
By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Whoever said pitching was the "weakness" of the Cincinnati Reds?

Jim Merritt became the National League's first 20-game winner last night as Bernie Carbo's three-run homer in the sixth inning gave the Reds a 6-5 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Merritt joined Baltimore's Dave McNally in the exclusive 20-game winner's circle this season. McNally notched his 20th victory Tuesday night for the Orioles as he reached the mileseone for the third consecutive season.

POTENT HITTING

The Reds, always feared because of their potent hitting attack that has since been dubbed the "Big Red Machine," had never been able to get consistent pitching to complement their heavy bats. Failure to get respectable pitching performances was the only obstacle standing in the way of Cincinnnati and a possible pennant.

But Merritt answered critics of the Cincinnati mound staff by becoming the first Red southpay since Eppa Rixey in 1925 to win 20 games. Sammy Ellis was the last pitcher to win 20 games in a Red uniform, having finished the 1965 season with a 22-10 mark.

RELIEF HELP

Merritt, tagged for 14 hits in 6 2-3 innings, needed seventh inning relief help from Wayne Granger after the Phillies rallied for three runs, two of which came on a homer by Don Money.

"It was a struggling game for me," Merritt, a one-time Dodger clubhouse boy said. "The important thing is that Granger came in and picked me up and we won."

Merritt celebrated by popping a few bottles of champagne. "It's great winning 20," Merritt added. "I hope there is more to come."

MORE WINNERS

With Gary Nolan adding 15 victories, rookie sensation Wayne Simpson chipping in with 14 and ex-Angel Jim McGlothlin contributing 11 trjumps it's very unlikely that the Red pitching staff will be the object of much criticism in the near future.

In other National League action, Atlanta downed New York 9-7, San Diego edged Pittsburgh 2-1, San Francisco nipped St. Louis 8-7, Los Angeles defeated Chicago 8-5 and Houston shaded Montreal 5-4.

In American League competition, Baltimore trounced Oakland 5-1, Minnesota blanked Boston 7-0, New York downed Kansas City 3-0, California whipped Detroit 6-3, Cleveland defeated Milwaukee 7-2 and Chicago beat Washington 3-1.

AARON SLAM

Hank Aaron's 35th homer of the season paced the Braves to their come-from-behind win. Aaron belted his homer, the 589th of his career, off reliever Gary Gentry to put Atlanta ahead 8-7 in the ninth inning.

Ed Speizio slammed a two-run homer that gave the Padres their second straight triumph over the Pirates. Pat Dobson needed ninth inning relief help from Tom Dukes to get the win. Dukes struck out Roberto Clemente with the bases loaded.

Jim Lefebvre's three-run homer in the second inning was the big blow in the Dodger win. Wes Parker had opened the inning with an infield single and Andy Kosco followed with a double before Lefebvre delivered his third home run of the season as Claude Osteen won his 14th game.

Denis Menke hit a three-run homer in the ninth to give the Astros their victory over Montreal.

AMERICA'S CUP

Intrepid Wins Everything

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Intrepid, which has been winning almost all the trial races but has not yet been chosen to defend the America's Cup, met Valiant again today in the ninth race of the final U.S. trials while the international contenders, Gretel II of Australia and France, took the day off.

Intrepid, with Bill Ficker of Newport Beach, Calif. at the helm, beat Valiant, skippered by Bob McCullough of Riverside, Conn., by 2:08 yesterday, while Gretel beat France for the third straight time, this time by 2:24, in their best-of-seven series.

It was Intrepid's seventh victory in eight races in the final trials, which started with four 12-meter yachts and now has been cut to two. Valiant has lost three of eight, all to Intrepid. Intrepid has won both races since it has been reduced to a head-to-head competition.

NO FORMULA

However, there is no set formula for the U.S. trials — the yachts simply race until the New York Yacht Club sees fit to make a choice.

"The boats are close together in speed and time," said Ficker tactfully after Wednesday's victory. "But it's clear that we are winning the races — we think that we have demonstrated that we are capable of winning the cup."

The French syndicate, which has changed skippers twice, was changing masts today, and will possibly change skippers again.

The crew was busy exchanging masts with its trial boat, Chancegger, permissible under the rules since both masts are French made. "We will discuss the matter of skipper and crew and will announce a decision Thursday," said Bruno Bich, spokesman for the French syndicate headed by his father, Baron Marcel Bich. The French started with Louis Novarraz as skipper last Friday, but he was replaced by Pierre Delfour when he lost the race. Delfour was beaten Monday and Novarraz was reinstated.

NEW SKIPPER

Sources close to the France said they would not be surprised if Eric Tabarly, famed Trans-Ocean lone yachtsman, or the Baron himself were named helmsman for the fourth race tomorrow.

Australians Abound In U.S. Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — With five Australian men topping the list of 20 seeded men — and a sixth included in the 20 selected — and four Australian girls among the seeded eight women — the draw for the U.S. Open Tennis Championships began today.

Rod Laver, the defending champion in the Sept. 2-13 Forest Hills tournament, topped the list, and was followed in order by Wimbledon champion John Newcombe, Ken Rosewall, Tony Roche and Roy Emerson.

Laver, the winner at Wimbledon, France and Australia as well as in the U.S. last year for his second Grand Slam, was given the honor of the top seed despite his defeat in England in the fourth round this year. He did not defend his French or Australian titles, but in open and professional events this year has won more than $130,000, exceeding his entire earnings of 1969.

Mrs. Margaret Smith Court of Australia was certain of the top spot among the women. The

U.S. Teams Gain In Little League

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — A pair of no-hitters put Highland, Ind., and Wayne, N.J., into the semifinals today in the 24th annual Little League World Series.

Highland turned to Brian Paluga when the scheduled pitcher, Rick Domsic, complained of an ailing arm 10 minutes before game time yesterday and Paluga hurled a no-hitter over Wiesbaden, Germany, 2-0.

Steve O'Neil followed up for Wayne, hurling a no-hitter over Valleyfield, Quebec, 10-0.

Chinandega, Nicaragua, and Campbell, Calif., victors in Tuesday's opening round games, were the opponents for the other semifinal today.

Paluga, a slender right-hander, fanned 10 batters and walked one. The deepest penetration against him was when hit batsman Tim Lonsbury reached third on an error in the sixth inning.

Highland scored both runs in the third when Dale Bouchee walked with one out and moved to second on an infield hit by first baseman Domsic. Paluga hit a 200-foot smash to the right-field wall to score Bouchee and Domsic scored when the relay by David Gallegos was wide of the plate.

O'Neil, a righthander, faced only 20 batters and walked two.

Wayne scored seven runs in the second inning on six singles, a hit batsman, two errors and a solo homer by O'Neil on the first pitch by Daniel Lamadeleine in relief of loser Yvon Therrien.

Wayne collected 14 hits off the two pitchers, including a solo homer by shortstop Len Fruci and two singles and a double, good for three RBI's, by first baseman Mark Epstein.

Tough Assignment For Russian— Match Against Former Ball Boy

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Alexander Metreveli of the U.S.S.R. came to the United States for the first time in 1962.

The Russian, then a 17-year-old, was here to compete in the U.S. junior national tennis championships.

Eight years ago Russian players were under strict surveillance, and they had few moments for themselves. One of the luxuries Alex enjoyed was dinner at the home of the Richard Stocktons in Garden City, N.Y.

Metreveli also had some good practice sessions with Steve Stockton, a fine junior player, and 11-year-old Dickie Stockton was the ball boy.

In the ensuing eight years, Metreveli's star has been rising and he has become the Soviet Union's premier player. Metreveli, in his second visit to the U.S., reached the quarter-finals of the $25,000 Marlboro Open Tennis championship here at the Orange Lawn Tennis club by beating Ray Keldie, of Australia 7-6, 7-6 yesterday.

Today Metreveli draws another tough assignment — his opponent is Dickie Stockton.

The 19-year Trinity University star has really come alive at the Marlboro. A last-minute replacement for Ilie Nastase of Rumania, who withdrew, Stockton registered his second straight upset on beating Jim Osborne of Bountiful, Utah, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. The victory came on the heels of Tuesday's shocker over Aussie Dick Crealy.

Top-seeded Rod Laver, who faces Onny Parun of New Zealand in today's other quarterfinal, struggled a bit for a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Richard Russell of Jamaica, BWI. Russell, hoping to make the U.S. Open without qualifying, improved his stature a bit by dropping only one service to the pro ace.

Other third round winners advancing to the round-of-eight were sixth-seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain and Bos Carmichael of France, an upset winner over fifth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, 4-6, 7-6, 6-2.

Second-seeded Ken Rosewall beat Jean-Lou Royer, of France, 7-5, 6-2 and Gimeno won by the same over Jean Baptiste Chanfreau.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

AUG. 27, 1955
SANDY KOUFAX, BROOKLYN TEEN-AGER, PITCHED HIS FIRST MAJOR LEAGUE VICTORY WHEN HE BLANKED CINCINNATI, 7-0. THE DODGER LEFTY YIELDED TWO HITS AND FANNED 14.

Leonard, 7 Others Hit 170

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)— Seven cars bettered 170 miles an hour in practice laps at the new Ontario Motor Speedway yesterday as drivers familiarized themselves with the course over which the nation's top drivers will compete in the California 500 Sept. 6.

Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., for the second straight day turned in the fastest lap as he was clocked in 175.2 miles an hour in his turbocharged Ford. His time was nearly three miles an hour faster than he recorded Tuesday.

Mark Donohue, Media., Pa., had the second fastest time of 172.7. Others who bettered 170 miles an hour were Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., 172.5 mph; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M, 171.7; Jim Malloy, Denver, 17.7; Peter Revson, New York, 170.4 and Mike Mosley, 170.1.

For the second straight day the $25.5 million track was closed early because of blowing dust and sand which obscured the course.

Boston's Harbor— Deep In Debris

BOSTON (UPI)—The New England Division of the Army Corps of Engineers says Boston Harbor's 85-mile coastline is cluttered with three million cubic feet of debris.

"We estimate that removal of this mass of rubble would require a railroad train 19 miles long," Col. Frank P. Bane said Wednesday. "Disposal at sea would entail the use of a barge tow three miles long," he said.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL NOTES

Cougars Are Sharp

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)— The Washington State Cougars hold their first contact drill today after three days of workouts in shorts.

Coach Jim Sweeney said his quarterbacks are looking sharp and predicted an effective aerial game this season if the offensive line can provide protection.

But Sweeney said he doesn't know who his starting signal-caller will be. Sophs Ty Paine and Mike Mickas along with Jack Wigmore and Gary Gergan are all fighting for the job.

CALIFORNIA

BERKELEY (UPI)—Two ailing University of California gridders will be back in action at the Bears' first contact drill today, but a third one is out for the season.

Number one quarterback Dave Penhall and runner Tim Todd are back at drills, but fullback Steve Munson could not get a clearance from doctors to play. He suffered a head injury last season.

STANFORD

STANFORD (UPI) — The stanford Indians want a punter.

With Bob Reinhard gone, they looked for one yesterday with Jack Laater, Steve Murray and Ted Bleymaier all trying out their toes.

OREGON STATE

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)— Coach Dee Andros has made several position changes after Oregon State concluded three days of padless drills preparing for the fall season.

Fred Jaross, a sophomore just back after two years in the army, was moved from defensive guard to offensive center. Sophomore Jim Burris, Sacramento, Calif., was changed from defensive tackle to defensive guard, and defensive end Scott Woods was moved to defensive tackle.

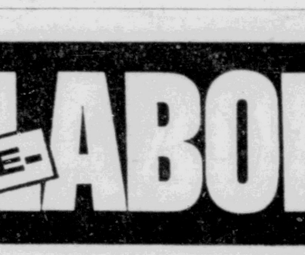
The team puts on pads for the first time today.

OREGON

Eugene, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon players put up a dummy offense as the defense yesterday stressed fundamentals and pass coverage.

Tommy Graham, All-America candidate and all-coast lineman, missed practice with the flu.

Coach Jerry Frei said that the team accomplished everyq thing in the first three days he wanted them to and he was looking forward to todays contact drills.



Because of the weight of the ball (which is located entirely on the right side of the body), many women will slant their approach that way. As a result the ball moves to the right of the target and, of course, causes misses. Periodically check your left foot position at the start and at the finish to be sure you've moved directly toward the foul line (see today's illustration).

No Complaint

No complaint has been filed in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court against George Washington Hogan, 69, of Petaluma, who was arrested Aug. 20 on suspicion of molesting a 6-year-oid girl.

Women's Liberation Take Note—Mann Meets Sanders

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) —The women's liberation movement receives a tough test Sunday when powerhitting Carol Mann meets Doug Sanders in a battle of golf pros.

Miss Mann, whose 6-3 frame towers over the 5 10-1-2 Sanders, is the all-time women's money winner with earnings of $203,000 in 10 years on the LPGA tour. Sanders ranks eighth among the men with winnings of over a half million dollars in 15 years of tourney play.

The confrontation at the Big G. links here is for $2,500 and could answer the question whether a brilliant woman golfer can beat a top male professional.

There isn't too much difference in the power swing of the two. Miss Mann averages 230 yards off the tee, about 15 or 20 yards less than Sanders. But she will have the advantage of swinging from the women's shorter tees.

"I hope that by beating Doug I will help to raise the level of women's golf purses and win some recognition on television for them," explained Miss Mann.

Honor Day For America At University Olympics

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — The United States swam into the first full day of competition at the sixth University Olympics today with nine medals already in its trophy bag.

America's men swimmers placed first and second in all four of finals already staged and the Girls managed to get two silver and a bronze in their two swimming events.

Swimming highlighted the first two days of the games—a sort of kid brother to the olympics—in which some 3,000 college athletes from 64 nations are competing in nine sports.

American distance swimmers Andy Strenk and Steve Genter capped an honor-filled day for the United States team by winning first and second in the 1,500 mens freestyle event, judged on times. Strenk took the event in 16:43.1. Wladislaw Wojtakajtis of Poland was third.

Russian swimmers made a strong showing in the first events, however, especially in the women's categories, and indicated a tough two-way battle between the two teams for the overall unofficial title.

John Ferris of Sacramento, Calif., grabbed the first American gold by edging Jerry Heidenreich of Dallas to win the 100-meter butterfly in 57.5. Japan's Yasuo Takada was third nearly two seconds back.

Frank Heckl and Dan Frawley, both of Los Angeles, also scored a one-two victory. They edged Russia's Leonid Ilychev in tme 100-meter freestyle.

The American girls had their problems, though, Galina Stepanova of Russia set a university Olympic record in winning the 200-meter breaststroke. Linday Kurtz of Castro Valley, Calif., fought from behind to take second place by a half a stroke from Russia's powerful Anna Grebennikova.

Miss Grebennikova had set a university olympics record during the preliminaries and her teammate, Miss Stepanova, bettered that, clocking 2:45.4.

In the 100-meter women's freestyle, two American girls followed Yugoslavia's Mirjana Sergrt all the way. Marcia McCuen of Fullerton, Calif., and Laura Fritz of Las Vegas placed second and third.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's Always Fun To Make Life Interesting For Foes

One of the most interesting things that can happen to you as a defender is to play the ace of trumps and find that your partner must play the king on the trick. It's equally interesting to step up with the king of trumps and find that your partner must play the ace. In today's hand, the key to success is to make life interesting for your opponents.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

TRY FINESSE

West leads the queen of clubs, and you win in dummy with the king. You try a finesse with the queen of spades since if that works you can limit the loss of two trumps and one club.

Unfortunately for you, West wins with the king of spades and returns to the attack by leading the jack of clubs. You win with the ace of clubs and lead the other spade to the ace. And then you lead the jack of spades. If all goes well, you will discard the low club from dummy.

Your misfortunes are not yet over. West ruffs with the four of trumps. You overruff in dummy, return to your hand with the ace of diamonds and lead a low spade. West discards a diamond, and you ruff in dummy again.

SPADE IS GOOD

By now your last spade is good. You return to your hand by ruffing a diamond and lead the laft spade. You discard the losing club from dummy, not caring who ruffs.

If either opponent must ruff with a high trump, you are satisfied because you will lose only two trumps and a spade. The club loser disappears.

LEAD A TRUMP

As it happens, East ruffs with the five of trumps. He returns a diamond, and you ruff again. Now you make life interesting for the opponents by leading a trump. Since each opponent has ruffed once with a low trump, the ace and king fall on the same trick, and you score your game contract.

If you can get away with it, murmur "careless!" as the high trumps fall together. Your opponents will enjoy this little touch of humor.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, you respond two diamonds, and he bids two hearts.

You hold:
♥ - A 4
♠ - K 6
♦ - K 8 7 5 2
♣ - Q J 10 8.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid 3-no-trumps.

Since you have 13 points in high cards opposite an opening bid, you must make sure of getting to the game. A bid of only 2-no-trump would not be forcing; and partner might drop you there if he had a minimum opening bid.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Elderly Should Avoid Uncertain Investment

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. At age 72, with moderate income, would it be advisable to withdraw $5,000 from a 6 per cent savings account to invest in Norfolk & Western? Shares yield 9 per cent with the likelihood of a small increment in value.—L.T.

A. Norfolk & Western reported lower earnings again in the second quarter. For the full six months, net was equal to $2.88 a share, down from $4.49 in the like 1969 period, despite a 5 per cent gain in gross revenues. While this is an efficiently run road, the company has not escaped general industry difficulties. Working capital has shrunk to less than half the 1964 level, and the company has been plowing back more into the business than it has been taking in, according to management. The recent dividend cut to $1.25 from $1.50 quarterly will reduce cash outflow by $10 million (annualized) and will help bolster working capital. The somewhat excessive 9 per cent yield availabe in these shares serves to underscore investors' ambivalence in assessing the outlook for the industry. Considering your age I would content myself with the less generous 6 per cent rate in the knowledge that my capital would be intact.

Q. I am interested in buying American Investors, a no-load mutual fund, but before doing so would like some information on it. — L.M.

A. It is refreshing to hear from someone who is willing to look before he leaps. Until 1969 American Investors was a strong performer. Its record in the last 20 months, although typical for a performance fund, shows a steady decline in net asset value. American Investors has a relatively modest portfolio turnover rate for its category and an average or below expense ratio. Recent portfolio changes have reduced commitments in the petroleum, real-estate development and building industries. The office equipment, insurance and drug and hospital supply fields were heavily represented in new purchases. There is no minimum amount required for either new or subsequent purchases.

Computer Privacy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A device using a private coded key to prevent unauthorized persons from spying on information being processed by a computer has been announced by Comperipherals, Inc. Only a person with the proper key can make the computer yield the stored information to the printout machine.

Stocks On Mixed Side Near Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned mixed in moderate volume today as trading swung into the final hour.

Shortly before 2:30 p.m. the Dow Jones Industrial Average eased 0.20 to 760.27. Advances led declines, 647 to 542, among the 1,516 issues crossing the tape.

The four-hour volume of 9,570,000 shares was well under the 11,480,000 shares traded in a comparable period yesterday.

News that leading business indicators rose in July touched off a brief rally at mid-session.

The commerce Department announced that the index of leading business indicators show the largest gain in July since the spring of 1969.

Harold C. Passer, Assistant Commerce Secretary for Economic Affairs, said the report "provides solid support for the expectation that business activity is resuming its advance."

However, there were signs of profit taking and analysts said the market, after seven consecutive advances, was ripe for some normal consolidation.

Eastern Air Lines, Celanese, Chrysler, and Uniroyal were actively traded issues.

Most major groups moved in fractions.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

MEMORIES ARE MADE OF THIS

Madeline Couture assembles what looks like a modernistic doll house, but is really a stack of integrated circuit core memories. The Honeywell Computer Control division in Framingham, Mass., produces the new ICM-161 memories. Each section of the stack can expand a computer's memory by 16,000 words. (UPI Telephoto)

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Fourth Street Will Acquire Two New Animal Hospitals

The first of two new San Rafael animal clinics at opposite ends of Fourth Street is scheduled to open between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1.

Dr. Tom Melhoff of San Francisco is having the former Rag Doll premises at 532 Fourth Street remodeled to contain modern surgical facilities, a veterinary clinic pathological laboratory, office, two examination rooms and a small X-ray unit. It will be called the East San Rafael Veterinary Clinic.

Now with the Mission Pet Hospital in San Francisco, Dr. Melhoff was previously associated with both the Monterey Veterinary Hospital and the Ocean Avenue eVterinary Hospital in that city. Eventually he hopes to broden his research work. He is a member of the American Society of Veterinary Clinic Pathologists.

AT THE OTHER SIDE of the side of the city, another animal hospital is planned for 2060 Fourth Street on the Miracle Mile.

Dr. Marshall Harwood, also of San Francisco, intends to build a 2,700-square foot modern veterinary hospital. Construction is not yet under way and is not likely to be completed before the first of the year.

WINTERS GLASS AND UPHOLSTERY will be the first tenant in a new industrial building now under construction in the Petaluma Industrial Park by the William H. McDevitt Co. of San Rafael.

The office is scheduled to be open by Sept. 15 and the entire building should be completed a month later. Leasing space ranging from 2,000 up to 10,000 square feet will be available.

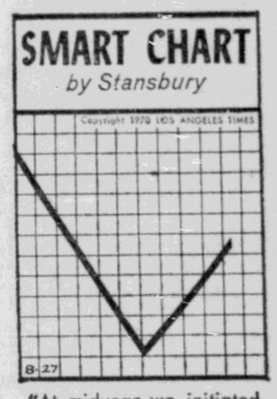
Winters Glass and Upholstery is headed by Leroy A. Winters of Novato, who already has a shop at 906 Grant Avenue in this city. This facility will continue in operation.

THE YELLOW CAB CO. of San Rafael and other central Marin cities has instituted a 24-hour cab service to the San Francisco International Airport. Fare for the trip, covering from one to five passengers (and their luggage if there is room) is $12 for pickups in San Rafael, Corte Madera, Larkspur, San Anselmo , Ross, Kentfield and Greenbrae. Trip rate for pickups in Terra Linda, Marinwood, Lucas Valley, Santa Venetia, Hamilton Air Force Base, Loma Verde and Fairfax is $15.

FORMER SAN RAFAEL RESIDENT Burton Vaupen has been named a vice president of Young and Rubicam, Inc. He joined the agency's New York office in 1956 as a cost coordinator in radio and television. In 1958 he transferred to the San Francisco office where he served first as business manager then as manager of administration. He returned to New York last year as administrative assistant to the general manager.

J.R. COLLINS of Novato has been appointed vice president-controller of Armco Boothe Corp. He became assiciated with Armco Steel in 1962 and joined its subsidiary Armco Boothe in 1969.

SECURITIES MANAGEMENT CORP., Sausalito, will sponsor a free lecture on the tax advantages of investing in live cattle tomorrow night in Room 332, Marin County Civic Center at 8 p.m. Western States Cattle Co. of San Francisco will supply the speakers.



"At midyear we initiated a program to take full advantage of the opportunities ahead. We fired the president, executive vice-president, controller, production superintendent and general sales manager."

Mill Valley Planners, Council Closing Rift

Mill Valley's planning commission and city council, on the verge of a rift over divergent decisions, narrowed their communications gap last night.

They laid the ground work for improved communication amidst reminders that their decisions will determine the kind of place Mill Valley will become.

The meeting came in the aftermath of commission ire because the council had rejected its recommendation for cluster development in Alto Bowl, a development which had posed for the city the question of how much density it would allow the developer in return for open space.

Mayor George E. Wickham said although the council didn't always agree with commission recommendations, it did have confidence in the commission.

Planning Commission Chairman Robert E. Burton said the commission was seeking "to develop more trust in each other and a better and more orderly planning process."

Commissioner Edward Farrell wondered how there could be "an orderly planning process" when the council overturned "in one, two or three meetings" what the commission had worked on for 18 months. "I feel this is putting planning in the political arena."

Councilman Robert H. Andresen challenged the assumption that "the city council summarily overruled decisions of the planning commission." The council has "agonized long and hard over every decision," he said.

Concerning the political area, Andresen commented: "We are more directly responsible and perhaps more keenly feel the pressure of public opinion."

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke explained that in making decisions he weighed the advantages to the city, in the cases of increasing density, he weighed what the city would get in return.

Commissioner Sally Garoutte felt there was a tendency on the part of the council "to preserve what we have, the way we have it."

Wickham said he has seen a lot of changes in Mill Valley and observed that the city has "a lot of environments" and each area "has a different look."

Andresen said his aim was the preserving of a "semi-rural situation" in Mill Valley. "I'm trying to avoid urbanization of this community."

Commissioner Ivan S. Poutiatine spoke of the relentless population increase, which he said will "act on our little community," and "we can't shut them out."

One man said that Mill Valley could end up as an all-white, wealthy community, but "there are poor people, black people, old people and young people, and they all have to have a place to live."

Farrell said the commission "in a limited way" has the power to make decisions that will determine who will live in Mill Valley in 10 years.

In response to a call by Farrell for planning studies, Wickham said: "I think the planning commission is a better planner than someone you hire from San Diego or Seattle."

Commissioner Paul E. Rosenthal felt that the "startling differences" between the commission and the council might have come about because the council didn't have sufficient documentation or sufficient information about the commission's reasons.

Andresen said he was bothered because the materials he received from the planning commission didn't include the planning staff report.

Farrell said the present method of measuring density, by dwelling units, was clumsy and didn't accurately tell the impact of the density on the community.

Mayor Wickham summed up as steps that would improve communication, a common definition of density, improved use of liaison representatives between the two bodies, and council receipt of planning staff reports.

It was proposed that the density study and the housing study be topics for another joint meeting of the council and commission.

The council adjourned until 7:30 p.m. today at City Hall to adopt the 1970-71 city budget and set the tax rate.

Why Cranston Supports Big Lockheed Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Alan Cranston, D-calif., says he supported a $200 million fund to help the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. continue producing C5A aircraft for both security and economic reasons.

Cranston said Wednesday the C5A was needed for defense reasons and bankrupty for the huge aerospace firm would would mean loss of jobs throughout the country.

But the California Democrat denied he voted against a restrictive amendment offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., because of its impact on California alone.

"The C5A is not a local issue," he said. "I oppose wasteful and counterproductive spending in the guise of national defense no matter where the affected industries are located, in California or elsewhere."

Business Slump On Upswing

WASHINGTON (UPI)— A government index billed as a barometer of future economic activity increased sharply last month, indicating the winter and spring business slump is giving way to a fall upturn, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

Harold C. Passer, assistant Commerce secretary for economic affairs, hailed the 1.6 per cent advance in the composite index of leading indicators as "solid support for the expectation that business activity is resuming its advance."

Passer said the same index tipped off economists to the latest business slump by starting a decline last October.

RECENT UPTURN

"In view of the short lead time often shown by this series when economic growth resumed in the past, the recent upturn in this index is fully consistent with the strength in business activity suggested by other data," Passer said.

The index is a statistical composite of eight business reports that usually point the way to future changes in the economy.

Each of the eight indicators was reported separately earlier but the composite index is closely watched by economists because it is weighted to give a clearer picture of overall activity.

It was the second cheering report for Nixon administration economic strategists in as many days. The labor department said Wednesday the index of wholesale prices declined this month for the first time in two years, indicating a decrease in some consumer prices would soon follow.

Taken together, the two reports indicate inflation is finally beginning to ease and the near-recession that started last November or December has about run its course.

But the nation still faces some economic troubles. Administration economists have declined to predict, so far, when unemployment will begin to decline from its five-year high of 5 per cent of the work force.

In addition, the prices paid by the average consumer have not yet shown the dramatic improvement exhibited by wholesale prices. The cost of living index rose a little more slowly last month but it still continued to rise.

SIX INDICATORS

Six of the eight leading indicators advanced last month while two declined.

The index includes the average workweek in manufacturing, up 0.3 per cent; average weekly claims for unemployment insurance, actually down but inverted to show a 12.5 per cent improvement in economic conditions; new orders for durable goods, up 6.1 per cent; orders for plant and equipment, up 4.3 per cent; building permits for private housing, down 3.1 per cent; prices for industrial materials down 2.2 per cent; stock prices, up 0.1 per cent, and the ratio of price to unit labor cost in manufacturing, up 0.8 per cent.

The department's index of coincident indicators, those that usually move at the same pace as the overall economy, was unchanged last month while the index of lagging indicators declined 0.2 per cent.

Water Board Asks Ship Holding Tanks

Quality Control Directors Urge Sewage-Dumping Ban

HAYWARD (UPI) — The Regional Water Quality Control Board said today ships and boats are dumping 88 million gallons of raw sewage into San Francisco Bay every year.

The board, over the objections of the Ports of San Francisco and Oakland, unanimously adopted a recommendation to prohibit the practice on a "tight but reasonable time schedule."

The resolution called on the State Water Resources Control Board to ask the Legislature to require waste holding tanks on all vessels in the bay with sanitary facilities.

Ships and boats would be required to maintain shoreside connections to pump the sewage out to treatment facilities.

The board recommended the recommendations be implemented on "a tight yet reasonable time schedule."

There were some objections by yacht clubs shipping associations and the two large ports, who said the action was premature because waste discharges from ships and boats are a national problem and the federal government should establish uniform regulations.

But board members said it would take from three to seven years for federal regulations to go into force.

A research report to the meeting estimated there were 90,000 pleasure craft on San Francisco Bay alone, and vessels of all kinds were pouring 88 million gallons of wastes into the bay annually.

The board, at its regular meeting at the Hayward City Council chambers, also was to consider formal enforcement proceedings against the city of Palo Alto.

Reports were scheduled on progress toward compliance with board orders from Los Altos, Mountain View, the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, Berkeley Acquatic Park Lagoon and Contra Costa County Sanitation District No. 3.

Red Gunners Down U.S. Copter; 32 Feared Dead

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners shot down a big helicopter flying U.S. troops to a remote combat base in South Vietnam Wednesday and 32 Americans were feared killed.

The helicopter crash darkened a report today from U.S. headquarters which said 52 Americans were killed in the Vietnam War last week, lowest toll for any seven-day period in more than 3 1-2 years.

Headquarters said two Americans were killed, seven injured and 30 officially listed as missing in the downing of the CH47 helicopter Wednesday afternoon at Artillery Base Judy 31 miles southwest of Tab Ky and 30 miles northeast of Saigon. It was hit by rocket grenades.

The known death toll was expected to rise as additional bodies were identified.

It was the worst helicopter crash involving Americans since Jan. 8, 1968, when a Marine CH53 crashed into the side of a hill near the far northern town of Dong Ha, killing 41 men.

Ground action across Vietnam was mostly light and scattered but the South Vietnamese Command said government troops killed 42 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in a clash Wednesday two miles southeast of combat base O'Reilly, 12 miles east of the Laotian border. Military sources said three South Vietnamese troops were killed and nine wounded.

American B52 bombers carried out two missions today near O'Reilly and Artillery Base Barnett nearby and two raids 15 miles east of the Laotian border in the A Shau Valley.

Military sources said the Chinook was hit by a rocket grenade 100 yards from the base, manned by the Army's 196th Light Infantry Brigade in mountainous countryside. Two of the known dead were killed on the ground and five were injured when debris from the disintegrating helicopter struck them.

Helicopters, which normally fly at slow speeds, are extremely vulnerable to ground fire. One of the worst crashes of the war occurred on May 6, 1969, when a CH47 crashed 75 miles northeast of Saigon, killing 40 American and South Vietnamese troops and wounding 43.

U.S. military spokesmen also reported four Americans killed when an Army UH1 Huey helicopter gunship was shot down 12 miles southeast of Can Tho, 87 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta. It was hit by rocket grenade fire.

MOBILITY IS THE KEY

Juvenile Hall: New Look

By MARY LEYDECKER

A man who believes that "youngsters, like bicycles, need mobility to maintain equilibrium," has brought a fresh outlook and a new atmosphere to Marin's Juvenile Hall.

Although Erick F. Yarchin has been superintendent at the hall for only a year and disclaims credit, saying changes are "due to the staff and kids," an unmistakable and encouraging new feeling is present in the old buildings.

Although the buildings are for the most part still inadequate and poorly designed either for security or cheerfulness, Yarchin has led his staff, which was without a superintendent for two years, to a new way of dealing with old problems.

The charges are both major and minor — and become apparent very quickly to anyone who has toured the institution in the past.

A year ago, youngsters complained to a reporter that "there's nothing to do here but lie around and watch television."

Although some of this activity still takes place, Yachin has instituted a variety of programs to combat boredom.

Each youngster entering the hall must attend the school the following day — and this includes summertime. Gone is the long summer vacation for school — this year there were

Marin County's Basic Tax Rate Could Soar As High As $2.60

Marin County's basic tax rate, predicted to jump from last year's $2.395 to $2.50, may soar even higher and approach $2.60 per $100 assessed valuation.

This prediction came today from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, who is computing the basic county rate for approval by the Marin County Board of Supervisors next Tuesday. Mitchell will also present tax rates for school districts and other special districts on Tuesday, the deadline for setting of tax rates.

The new basic county tax rate of nearly $2.60 does not include the rate for the county school superintendent's office, which this year will be set separately by the Marin County Board of Education. If the county schools tax rate of 13.5 cents is added, the total basic county rate would be close to $2.735, an increase of 34 cents over last year's $2.395.

The big jump is due largely to increased requirements for law enforcement, courts, district attorney, public defender and welfare, said Mitchell.

The upward trend in tax rates is even more pronounced in other Bay Area counties, where the average increase is 55 cents, Mitchell reported. "All I can say is that Marin's increase is considerably below the Bay Area average," said Mitchell. "It's no consolation, but it's a fact."

The auditor-controller completed the tax rate computation for various school districts. Two thirds of the school districts will have tax rate increases, and one-third will have decreases.

Lagunitas School District tax rate will go up by $1.025, Fairfax School District by 97.5 cents, and Dixie School District by 82.5 cents.

Nicasio School District will have the biggest (17 cents) drop in tax rate, followed by Ross School District with a 12.5-cent

Counterfeiter Gets 25 Years

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Thomas E. Amato, 25, of San Leandro has been sentenced to 25 years in federal prison on charges of passing counterfeit $20 bills.

Sentence was imposed by U. S. District judge Sherrill Halbert Wednesday after Amato was convicted of seven counts of passing phony money.

Assistant U. S. Attorney William Shubb said Amato left a trail of counterfeit bills from Vallejo to Sacramento before the Secret Service caught up with him last December.

Bomb Threat Clears Out Hall Of Justice

A bomb threat in the Hall of Justice this morning at 11:45 a.m. caused the evacuation of all employees in both wings of the Civic Center.

All accesses to Civic Center were blocked off, but no prisoners at the hall were evacuated, according to a report.

Mideast Foes Say Cease-Fire Broken

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel and Egypt charged each other today with violating the Middle East cease-fire agreement but for the second day in succession there were no reports of fighting in the area.

The charges came as London diplomatic sources reported that the Soviet Union was sending an "almost continuous stream" of heavy weapons, including long range artillery, to Egypt. In New York, the Middle East peace talks under United Nations mediator Gunnar V. Jarring marked time.

An Israeli army spokesman said that Israel has reported to the U.N. truce supervision organization in Jerusalem that there have been "grave" Egyptian violations of the Aug. 7 cease-fire.

The complaint alleged that construction and preparation of surface-to-air missile sites is still underway inside the standstill zone 19 miles west of the Suez Canal. The cease-fire bans installation of new weapons in a 31-mile wide zone along either side of the waterway.

Egypt also charged cease-fire violations—on the part of Israel. The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram (The Pyramid) printed the charges and documents on them were submitted to both the United States and the United Nations.

Denying the Egyptian charges, an Israeli military spokesman said: "All Israeli military activity in the area has complied with the terms of the cease-fire agreement."

London diplomatic sources said that while the Soviet Union continued to build up Egypt's military strength with new supplies, this did not violate the cease-fire terms.

Authoritative White House sources have said that the United States would be prepared to join the Soviet Union in providing a peace-keeping force in the Middle East once a settlement is reached.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Corn Crop Survey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Farmers Home Administration has begun a survey of corn crop damage from the blight disease and soon will recommend authorization of emergency loans to farmers in some of the hardest hit areas, it was learned today.

Sources in FHA, an Agriculture Department agency, said field officials were checking southern corn leaf blight damage in parts of Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

Telephone checks also were being made from Washington to keep track of damage reports in parts of southern Illinois and Indiana, spokesmen said. Field surveys may be made later in the midwest states.

Oil Slick Fine

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Chevron Oil Co. was fined $1 million Wednesday because of an offshore oil well fire February that resulted in a giant oil slick in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Department of Interior discovered the Chevron wells were not equipped with safety storm chokes as required by law.

A grand jury indicted Chevron May 5 on 900 counts of failure to properly equip its offshore wells. U.S. District Judge Alvin Rubin dropped 400 of the counts after the company pleaded no contest to the other 500.

U.S. Attorney Gerland Gallinghouse, who prosecuted the case, told the court he was told by the Interior Department that Chevron wells now were in compliance with government regulations requiring storm chokes on all wells capable of producing oil.

Riots Continue

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Youths fought police with stones and Molotov cocktails for three hours Wednesday night, the third day of rioting in the Dutch capital.

The youths were protesting a ban on sleeping in Amsterdam's Dam Square — a favorite gathering spot for young people — and police efforts to enforce it.

A New Warhead?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tests just completed by the Soviet Union and disclosed by the Pentagon indicate Moscow may be planning to add a new multiple warhead weapon to its intercontinental ballistic missile arsenal.

In test flights launched Friday, the Soviets hurled two SS11 missiles 5,750 miles to a target area in the Pacific. For the first time, each of there missiles was tipped with three "objects" that re-entered the atmosphere and hit the target.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in revealing the tests to newsmen Wednesday, declined to speculate whether the triple re-entry vehicles in this latest pair of tests were multiple warheads. A U.S. ship watched the re-entry, Laird said, and the results still are under study.

Skyjack Attempt

WARSAW (UPI) — A 27-year-old man with a bomb attempted to hijack a Polish LOT airliner Wednesday and force it to Vienna, but the explosive went off in his hands, the Polish news agency PAP said today.

The hijacker, Rudolf Olm, was injured along with 10 of the 27 passengers abroad the turboprop airliner, the report said. The pilot managed to land the plane without incident.

PAP said the AN27 Soviet-built airliner ha just taken off of a flight to Katowice to Warsaw late Wednesday afternoon when Olm approached a stewardess and showed her the bomb, demanding that the plane land in Vienna.

Hit Drug Users

MONTREAL (UPI) — Two major life insurance firms operating in Canada are refusing to issue policies to marijuana users, and a third plans to question applicants about drug use.

The two companies now refusing policies to users are the Occidental Life Insurance Company of California and the Metropolitan Insurance Company. The Sun Insurance Company soon will reintroduce a question about drug use in its applications.

Occidental Life was the first to announce it was adding two questions pertaining to drug use to its new application forms.

Paul Nichols of Toronto, manager of Occidental's underwriting department in Canada, said "We justify our new policy in refusing to insure pot smokers by our own research."

School Bus Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top government safety official has called for tougher bus construction standards, contending the lack of structural strength in school buses has contributed to "injury and fatality and is an implied threat in future school bus crashes."

"There is no question that school buses are less safe than intercity buses," John Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said Wednesday.

Reed urged the school bus industry and the National Education Association to require more metal fasteners and rivets in school buses which haul about 18 million children a day.

Giant Heroin Ring Smashed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Close cooperation between police here and abroad has smashed a drug ring believed to have smuggled an estimated $2.5 billion worth of heroin into the United States in the past five years, federal authorities announced Wednesday.

At a news conference in the federal courthouse in Brooklyn, U. S. Attorney Edward R. Neaher said two of the three leaders of the ring were in custody in Europe.

Neaher said Luis Stepenberg, 42, New York, had been picked up this week by French authorities and Jack Grosby, 44, formerly of Manhattan, had been arrested in Geneva, Switzerland.

A third suspect, Eduardo Posta, 36, is still at large and is believed to be in Argentina.

All three were named in an indictment charging them with smuggling 60 pounds of heroin into the country between June 1969, and February 1970. That amount of heroin is worth an estimated $18 million on the illegal drug market.

Queens District Attorney Thomas J. Mackell said two men and a woman suspected of being minor members of the ring were under indictment in Queens and the men were in custody.

Mackell said the ring smuggled an estimated 1,900 pounds of heroin—worth more than $500 million "on the street"—into the country in the past year. He estimated the same amount had been brought in by the ring in the five years it has been in operation.

'Pig' Scrawl Identified— Tate Blood

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharon Tate's killers splattered her blood in puddles across the living room and used it to scrawl the word "pig" on the front door of her luxurious home, a police crime expert testified Wednesday.

Joseph Granado also said police found a bare footprint on the front porch of the home which later was identified as having been made by the blood of the blonde actress. Miss Tate was repeatedly stabbed, then hanged while she was still alive.

The testimony came in the trial of Charles Manson and three members of his hippie "family" charged with murdering Miss Tate and three others Aug. 8, 1969, and grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife Rosemary the following night.

A kitchen fork found plunged into LaBianca's chest was introduced into evidence Wednesday and Mrs. LaBianca's teenage con told how he found LaBianca's hold in the living room of the home.

Frank Struthers, 16, said he returned home from a holiday at a lake and was unable to get into the house. He summoned his older sister, Susan, and her boyfriend, and they entered the kitchen.

"We went into the living room and we saw Leno crouching there," Struthers said.

He said they summoned police, who found the butchered body of Mrs. LaBianca in a bedroom.

Mrs. LaBianca's partner in a dress shop business, Mrs. Ruth Sivick, testified she had visited the LaBianca home the night before the bodies were found.

"Is this the refrigerator you Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron opened?" Stovitz asked, showing her a color photograph.

"Yes," she replied.

"When you saw it, were these letters written on it in blood—H-E-A-L-T-E-R S-K-E-L-T-E-R" he asked.

She said they were not.

It was the first indication the message left in blood at the LaBianca residence was misspelled. The prosecution has contended that the motive for the seven slayings was inspired by the Beatles' song "Helter Skelter" and was intended to provoke racial violence.

Demo Rival Levels Kickback Charges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Milton G. Gordon, Democratic candidate for state treasurer, today accused incumbent Ivy Baker Priest of soliciting contributions from California bankers as "kickbacks into her campaign."

Mrs. Priest categorically denied the charge.

Gordon, state real estate commissioner during former Gov. Edmund G. Brown's administration, referred to a letter mailed by the Northern California Committee to re-elect Ivy Baker Priest state treasurer. The letter asks for campaign contributions.

"The state treasurer," charged Gordon, "is using a formula to assess California banks that are holding state reserve funds. It adds up to kickbacks into her campaign."

"Oh, no, no, I should say not," replied Mrs. Priest, former U.S. treasurer during the Eisenhower administration. The Republican was elected state treasurer in 1966.

California normally keeps about $225 million in time deposits (similar to savings accounts) in state banks and keeps about $40 million in demand deposits (checking accounts). The deposits are spread through about 115 California banks.

The campaign letter was signed by Arthur J. Dolan Jr., a San Francisco investment bank executive who is Mrs. Priest's Northern California finance chairman.

Dolan said the Aug. 3 letter was mailed to about 200 potential contributors from all walks of life, including bankers. He declined to say how many were bankers, or who they were.

Dolan said the letter represented a second effort to raise funds from individuals who had contributed to Mrs. Priest's 1966 camgaign. An earlier letter had been sent in July.

The second letter read:

"We have received very few responses to our letter of July 6 in connection with th Ivy Baker Priest campaign for state treasurer.

"The executive committee has met and has determined that the minimum budget for Northern California which will help assure Mrs. Priest's election is $75,000.

Gordon said "the subtle implication in the letter is that those that fail to kickback will lose their deposits and those who respond generously might receive more.

"I dont think this could be considered a kickback in any way," responded Mrs. Priest.

"Bankers contributed very little when I was running before," she said of her 1966 campaign.

She said Dolan had "compiled a long list of potential contributors through the years.

"We're merely asking people for money who have helped her in the past," he said. "On the money side, she (Mrs. Priest) doesn't even know one thing that's going on.

LEGISLATIVE ANALYST

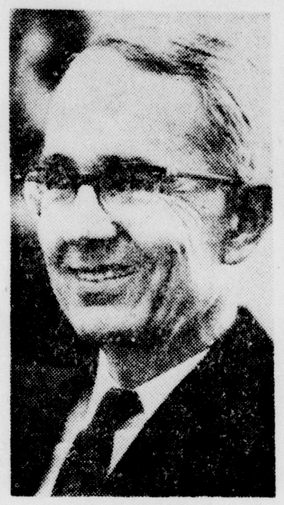
A Paradox In Government Where Partisanship Flares

By DAVID DIETZ

SACRAMENTO — In an atmosphere highly charged with partisanship, A. Alan Post is a paradox — he stands by necessity, apart from the struggles of Capitol politics.

As legislative analyst, the soft-spoken Post, 55, is often thrust into the middle of wars between Democrats and Republicans. But while his recommendations and observations often provoke criticism, Post has never been accused of playing politics.

"I feel we run the office in a dispassionate, objective and factual way," he said. "We can't be concerned with whose toes we step on. We hit Democrats as hard as we hit Republicans on issues."



A. ALAN POST
Nonpartisan economist

Post's office was established by the Legislature 29 years ago — first of its kind in the nation — to provide an independent view of state operations often subject to the influence of the governor's office. A major function is to analyze the governor's annual budget, giving recommendations to the legislators on what can be cut and where funds can be added.

Prior to formation of his office, Post said, "the Legislature didn't know when agencies were telling the truth. Now it has an oversight of the administration. it doesn't have to depend on the ministers of his majesty."

Post and his staff of 45 — which includes economists, political scientists, accountants, lawyers, an engineer and an architect —research every item in the state's vast spending program and couple recommendations on appropriations with suggestions on improving efficiency in various departments.

1 The analysis of Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1970-71 fiscal budget covered 1,167 pages.

Post's staff also reviews all proposed legislation that involves cost to the state — this year totaling upward of 3,000 bills — and also responds to a continuing flood of requests from the 121 senators and assemblymen for opinions and reports. Post estimated there were about 5,000 such requests this past session.

Past estimates have placed the annual saving to state taxpayers as a resul of his office's recommendations at several million dollars, not including economy effects on the budget and state operations.

Despite budget disagreements, Post said he can recall being publicly criticized by a governor — Edmund G. Brown — only once since taking the fiscal adviser's post in 1949. That was over the benefits of a proposed state park in Santa oMnica, he said.

Post said that while not recommending a vote against Reagan's ill-fated tax shift program, he did express major reservations about some provisions in the package, but was unaware of any public criticism from Reagan over his stand.

Post said the Legislature accepts as high as 75 per cent of his office's recommendations, in whole or part, and that substantial reductions have been made to Reagan's budgets in the years he has been the state's chief executive.

Concerned about rising costs, particularly in personal services provided by the state, such as medical and welfare, Post said he sees no reversal in the trend unless labor-saving devices can be employed and the job of processing people who seek services from the state can be simplified.

He also raised the possibility of shifting some public services into private hands.

But, he added, "We're kind of swimming against the tide."

Post noted his office had won from the Legislature instructions to higher education to obtain 50 per cent more use out of facilities but said specific recommendations for year-round use of educational plants and longer class days have not been accepted.

When away from his post, which pays $35,000 a year, Post spends his spare time as an artist, working in oils and water colors. In fact, while attending Occidental College, where he earned Phi Beta Kappa honors, he was for a time undecided whether to become an economist or an artist.

Post often exhibits at Sacramento area galleries and shows, sometimes with his wife, Helen, a sculptress.

"It's relief, but I don't do it for that," he said.

After undergraduate work, Post earned a doctorate at Princeton University and went to work as an economics instructor at Occidental. He first joined the legislative analyst's office in 1942 as a summer employee, refjoining the agency in 1946 as chief assistant to the late Roland Vandergrift after World War II service.

When Vandergrift died, Post was named his successor.

More Acts Of Vandalism By Inmates At Quentin

More toilet and wash basin smashing was reported last night in the segregation unit of San Quentin, although not on the scale of Tuesday night.

Irving Ritter, prison business manager, said up to 10 toilets and basins were broken by inmates apparently acting in support of 800 convicts who staged a sit-down protest on Tuesday to support demands for prison reforms.

Ritter reported no injury last night and said no effort was made to halt the vandalism.

Tuesday night, 73 toilets, 47 wash basins, four beds, 13 lights and three mattresses were destroyed.

No disciplinary action has been announced.

Meanwhile, all but about 600 men in the main cell blocks of the prison were back at work today, Ritter said. Those still locked in cells are to be questioned about their participation in the sit-down protest.

Among the inmates' demands were for naming of a black warden and granting of political asylum in Communist countries to condemned prisoners.

A Sharp Rise In Patronage Of New Ferry

A sharp rise in patronage aboard the Golden Gate Bridge District's new ferry between Sausalito and San Francisco was reported last night, with a total of 4,023 riders counted for the 21 departures on the second full day of weekday service.

The first day's total was 3,779.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said that some afternoon departures were five to six minutes behind schedule, but that most runs were on time. About 225 commuters used the service, the same number as on Tuesday.

The tourist traffic was predominantly from San Francisco, Luehring said, but he added that "we're getting an awful lot from both ways."

Reporter To Sue In Kopechne Case

BOSTON (UPI) — The court reporter at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car has filed a $150,000 suit against the state of Massachusetts over the distribution of the documents.

A hearing was set for Sept. 8. The briefs were filed Wednesday.

Sidney R. Lipman, the reporter, said his livelihood was affected when copies of the transcript were made available to newsmen by Superior Court Clerk Edward V. Keating at a cost of $75 apiece. Lipman, who said he was given distribution rights and spent $6,000 on preparing copies, would have charged nearly $800 a copy.

The temperature on an average summer day at the South Pole is about 20 degrees below zero, compared with 113 below in winter.

Dead Hiker Identified As A Sonoma State Collegian

A hiker who fell to his death at the Sierra National Forest near Clovis during the weekend has been identified as Daniel Joseph Butler, 26, a Sonoma State College student.

Butler had been hiking with Boy Scouts and had gone ahead of the group Saturday afternoon. His body was found Sunday in Thomas Edison Lake.

Butler reportedly suffered a broken neck when he fell down an embankment while trying to get a drink of water. Identification was delayed pending notification of next of kin.

Butler graduated from Sonoma State in 1969 with a physical education major and had enrolled for the fall semester for graduate work.

A native of Oakland, Butler was a resident of Davis and was reportedly a member of the Sierra Club and an experienced hiker.

He was a member of the Cycling Club of America and had twice been a member of the U.S. team in the 2,000-mile tour of Mexico and had been with the U.S. bicycling team at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clement W. Butler of Davis; a brother, Clement W. Butler Jr. of Dublin, Alameda County; and three sisters, Diane Feldbrugge of Lafayette, Mary Margaret Butler and Roberta Rose Butler of Davis.

Requiem Mass was offered today at Davis with burial at Davis Catholic Cemetery.

Hearing Is Reset On Three Charges

Preliminary hearing yesterday was reset for Wednesday, for Rebecca Ann Matthews, 21, of Woodacre, arrested Aug. 2 in a fracas with sheriff's deputies and Marin Municipal Water District patrolmen at the Lagunitas spillway on Kent Lake.

Miss Matthews has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon, a misdemeanor resisting arrest count and a felony count of engaging in unnatural intercourse.

Bombers Attack TV Station

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)—Bombs thrown at communications centers Wednesday night injured a television cameraman and blew out doors and windows.

The bombers who attacked Channel 10 television station, Radio Carve and the Catholic newspaper B.P. Color escaped despite security precautions by hunters of two kidnaped foreigners, police said.

Police said the attackers were apparently students but not members of the leftist Tupamaro terrorist organization that is holding U.S. farm consultant Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo., and Brazilian consul Aloysio Dias Gomide, 41.

Store Bomb Plant Turns Out False

A telephoned bomb threat was made yesterday at 1 p.m. to the W. T. Grant store at the Petaluma Plaza Shopping Center, police reported.

The male caller said he wanted $25,000 to reveal the location of the bomb. Police and firemen searched the store, but shoppers were not disturbed.

SAN RAFAEL FIRE: A BOY'S RESCUE

In a brief, emotion-filled sequence, this rescue of a boy from a burning apartment was carried out today by San Rafael firemen. Fireman Don Woford of Engine Co. 2 carries 9-year-old Hubert Cerveaux down the steps (left) of the building at 119 Nova Albion Way after the boy was discovered in his smoke-filled apartment. Outside, (center) Woford shouts for a resuscitator and then administers aid. Firemen said the boy told them he was alone in his apartment when fire broke out in the building shortly before 9 a.m., his parents having gone to San Francisco. Cause of the blaze, its origin and damage were undetermined this morning.

Jackson School Leader Resigns

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Dr. John A. Martin, superintendent of Mississippi's largest school district, resigned today in the wake of massive desegregation orders.

Martin, head of the Jackson public school system, said he found it "impossible to continue."

Martin, who accepted the position last year, cited "a continuous series of litigations involving numerous court orders requiring the superintendent to administer drastic changes" for his resignation. He formerly was an assistant superintendent in Atlanta.

500 Die From Rain

KATMANDU (UPI)—About 500 persons in Napel have died in landslides and floods caused by heavy July and August rains, the government said today.

Sausalito Foundation In Drug Test Fight

SAUSALITO (UPI) — The head of the McNaughton Foundation of Sausalito said today the Food and Drug Administration has withdrawn its permission for testing of McNaughton's controversial anti-cancer drug laetrile.

Andrew McNaughton refused to elaborate on the reasons given by the FDA except to say he did not consider them valid.

The FDA last April 25 gave the Sausalito foundation permission to test the drug, derived from apricot pits, on humans. McNaughton said the permit was abruptly withdrawn two days later.

"We're fighting this in the Senate and the Congress—the reasons given by the FDA are not valid," McNaughton said. "Having established that this drug is non-toxic and has efficacy we would like to go ahead with tests."

McNaughton said he expects a Congressional hearing on the drug by the latter part of September.

Laetrile, chemically known as amygdalin, has been labeled "dangerous" by the Canadian government and "unproved" by the American Cancer Society.

"We do not consider that the use of the word 'cure' is justified. But it certainly is our hope that it may turn out to be a useful drug in the prevention and treatment of cancer," McNaughton said last April.

Although the drug has been used privately, McNaughton's tests would have been the first clinical tests with government approval.

In 1966 the American Cancer Society said it had found "no evidence that treatment with Laetrile results in any objective benefit in the treamnt of cancer in human beings." It termed laetrile an "unproved method of cancer treatment."

Earlier, the Food and Drug Directorate of Canada moved to stop distribution of the drug, contending it "was dangerous and did not meet the requirements of the new drug act."

According to McNaughton, the drug acts to break down cancerous tumors by releasing cyanide and other chemicals "which destroy the malignant cells without harming normal cells."

The drug has been known to medical science for over a century.

'Be Responsive,' States Urged

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—State government must become more responsive to the needs of the citizens in the 1970s, according to a panel of state and local leaders at the National Legislative Conference.

Gov. Calvin L. Rempton welcomed the members of state legislatures and legislative staff members from throughout the nation Wednesday to the first plenary session of the weeklong 23rd Annual Conference.

The Utah Democrat said most states are wisely reorganizing state governments to make them more powerful in relation to Washington. But, he added, that most focus on "increasing the power and control of the governor and not the legislature."

"It is essential that the power of the state legislature be increased to continue as an effective check on the executive office," he stated.

RETIRING ELECTRICIAN

Original Member Of Bridge Team

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

George R. Pimlott of San Anselmo has been on the Golden Gate Bridge for 35 years — not stuck in a traffic jam, but working as an electrician.

Next Monday, one day before his 65th birthday, he will retire from the job he has held for more than half of his life. That will leave only one other man from the original bridge construction crew still working, maintenance superintendent R. E. Mullins of Corte Madera.

Mathematicians with a bent for history may wonder how Pimlott managed to work since 1935 on a bridge that opened on May 27, 1937, but like many of the original bridge district crew he also worked on the construction of the bridge.

Pimlott worked for about a year and a half for John Roebeling, the spinner of the mammoth cables that support the roadway, before he went to work for the district just two days before the grand opening. Mullins started one day earlier.

Pimlott recalled the high moments of his long career, including uncounted rescues of desperate persons trying to jump to their deaths and throwing the switches to black out the bridge on Dec. 7, 1941.

"We got the order from the commanding general at the Presidio, and boy, did I black her out," he said. Pimlott added that he probably blacked out the first big facility in the nation that night after Pearl Harbor.

"Oh, we had some pips out here." He conceded it took his wife, Norah, a long time to get used to having others ask if his job merely involved changing light bulbs on the span.

Light bulbs were the least of the problems, Pimlott said, but he added that they had a way of burning out at night during winter storms.

The topmost light is 746 feet off the water. "And that wind would come off the Sierras and hit you just like someone slapped your face with a wet towel."

The first question always asked of prospective bridge workers, he said, was, "Are you afraid of heights?"

"It certainly isn't a monotonous job," Pimlott said, especially for an electrician having to deal with lighting, toll registry equipment, fog horns, elevators, traveling scaffolds and intercom systems. "We've got practically every electrical thing you can get" he noted.

He was especially proud of the electrical maintenance department's ability to make virtually any part needed on the bridge, from switches for toll equipment long out of production to an ingenious device to pick up static electricity from vehicles entering the toll gates.

The original system used wires in fixed bases, and every one had to be replaced almost as soon as the bridge opened. So Pimlott and his fellow crewmen devised a unique system using piano wire with a pivoting weight below the surface so the wire can roll with the motion of passing vehicles.

Even the district's entry into the computer age last year took a monumental job of hand wiring the old toll equipment so it was compatible with the computer.

"If we haven't got it, we'll make it," Pimlott declared.

The most dangerous job, he acknowledged, was working on the roadway — a job that used to fall to electricians back when lane dividers had lights in them. The danger was from motorists, some of whom occasionally managed to run smack into maintenance equipment — and sometimes into bridge workers.

"I always preferred working up on the cable — at least no seagull was going to knock me off," he said.

The only time he did not like being out on the bridge was on the night of Dec. 1, 1951, when high winds forced its closing for two hours while the roadway swayed in the storm. "I started across in a pickup, took one look at that roadway, and made a u-turn right back."

The incident led the district to put in a $3.5-million bottom lateral bracing that made the roadway far more rigid.

The biggest change on the bridge, Pimlott said, was the growth of the maintenance crew from 11 to almost 100 men. The original crew, of course, had no painters since the structure had a new coat. Now it has 37 painters.

Pimlott was born in San Francisco, seven months before the 1906 earthquake drove his family to Mill Valley. He lived there for 40 years before moving to San Anselmo where he resides at 12 Hampton Avenue.

He remembers Mill Valley then as a place "where I practically knew everybody by first name and where we played marbles in the town square." He also remembers painting his name high on a rafter of the Old Mill as a child. "I guess it's still there," he said.

His father, an electrician, went into the real estate business, and gave his name to Mill Valley's Pimlott Lane. The young Pimlott went to Summit and Old Mill schools, and was graduated from Tamalpais High School in 1926.

He and his father then went into the electrical contracting business in Mill Valley, and one of their big jobs was wiring the hospital at what was then called Hamilton Field. "Little did we think it would grow as it did," he said of today's huge military installation.

Being in on construction of the bridge also wasn't dull, he said. He recalled the day in February 1937 when the life net below the roadway broke and spilled 10 men to their deaths. "I was on a cable just above the net when it let go, and helped pull up a guy hanging onto a girder with just his fingers."

Pimlott noted he would not be compelled to retire for another five years, "but what's the use of working for 35 years and not having some time for fun?"

He and his wife are members of an international trailer club, and travel and fishing are their plans for the future. Marin's booming population, he said, "just doesn't leave room to stretch anymore. I have to go to Oregon to get some freedom to stretch."

The Pimlotts also are looking forward to the birth of their first grandchild. Their only child, Norah Jean Laffan, lives in Corte Madera.

"During the Depression," he said, "I had lots of time but no money. Now I'll have some of both."

A FINAL CHECK — Golden Gate Bridge District electrician George R. Pimlott checks switch gear in the district substation as he heads for retirement after 35 years on the bridge. A resident of San Anselmo, he concedes he is happy to be dropping out of the commuter race set off by the bridge's opening those many years ago. (Independent-Journal photo)

Hotel Had Been On Hazard List

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Grand Central Hotel, where two persons perished in a night time blaze, had been listed as a potential firetrap, city officials said Wednesday.

Fire Chief William Murray said a cigarette may have touched off the fire that injured an additional 13 persons and caused damage estimated at $100,000 Tuesday night.

One victim was identified as Mrs. Margaret Green and the other as a "Joe Doe," both in their 50s.

The building was constructed as an office building shortly after the 1906 earthquake and city records show condemnation action was pending concerning code violations.

He later worked for the Educational Programs Division of NASA as a space science lecturer and planned and carried out teacher training programs.

Warning For Hikers: Beware Of The Wasp

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Here's a warning for hikers, picnickers, campers and barbecue artisans in Northern California:

Beware of the wasp.

The state Agriculture Department reported today that swarms of the yellow marauders have been inflicting their "instant sting" in the past few days. Complaints have poured in to the department, a spokesman said.

The pests appear to be particularly vicious in the Sierra foothills where they are swooping down on unsuspecting vacationers.

"Meat wasps live mostly on meat and blood but will attack any human or animal that is injured." Department Entomologist Ron Hawthorne said. "A vicious insect, they deliver an 'instant sting' while on the fly.

"The first sting is loaded with venom, but they will continue to sting you, and the only compensation is that the more stings from the same wasp, the less venom per sting."

Hawthorne said wasps are attracted to pet foods left out of doors. "A swarm of them can consume a whole can of cat food in a half hour," he said.

The only way to get rid of the pests, the entomologist said, is to find their nests in the ground and destroy them.

Hawthorne said a new pesticide which scientists hope can control the wasps has not yet received official government approval but it should be available by next year.

Judge Rules Out Charge At Stokes

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A suit filed in 1967 charging Mayor Carl B. Stokes with malfeasance was dismissed in Cuyahoga County probate court Wednesday.

The suit, filed by Roy F. Richards, vice chairman of the Citizens Committee for Law Enforcement, charged Stokes with giving "Cleveland Now" funds to black militant groups.

"Cleveland Now" is a program aimed at physical and social rehabilitation of the city, particularly the ghetto areas.

Visiting Judge Holland Gary dismissed the suit on grounds Stokes was re-elected and the charges constituted a moot question.

THE PUEBLO SKIPPER

Bucher Hopes To Stay In Navy Despite Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty months after being released from captivity in North Korea, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the spy ship Pueblo, has become an author, regained the weight he lost in prison and developed a paunch.

His growing bay window is not unexpected for a man of 43. The book is something else again.

In it, the officer who hopes he still has a career in the Navy, argues that it was Navy bungling that led to the capture of the USS Pueblo on Jan. 23, 1968.

"Bucher: My Story" was published this month by Doubleday. To promote it Bucher took leave and came to Washington where he spent two hours in the Pentagon book store one day autographing copies for long lines of the curious.

He was unable to resist the temptation to inscribe "Go Navy!" in copies bought by uniformed Army and Air Force officers.

In an interview with UPI, Bucher said a combination of incompetant naval officers and a bureaucracy that would not bend led to the capture of the Pueblo and its 83 officers and men.

Although the military currently is under fire for overspending, Bucher said one problem with the spy ship program was that it was run on a shoestring.

The graying commander said some unknown person floated the initial idea for dispatching ships weighed down with intricate electronic gear to listen in on Soviet radio and radar frequencies.

Then a staff study was made and the plan approved at the highest level. The plan was rated a "minimum risk operation" since the ships always would remain in international waters and the Soviets respected the freedom of the seas,

Even more important was the fact that the Russians operated similar electronic spy ships off the American coasts. The U.S. planners reasoned that the Soviets would never touch an American spy ship because unarmed Russian counterparts would be susceptible to retaliation.

Later the spy ship mission was changed to include nosing around off the Chinese and North Korean coasts. This created risks which had not been envisioned in the original staff study.

"But no one reworked the staff study," Bucher said. "It was assumed that since approval came from high up in the Joint Chiefs of Staff that they knew what they were doing."

Bucher said that when he was given command of the Pueblo he asked that the "minimum risk" evaluation be changed and that protective measures be taken, including installation of equipment to destroy classified documents quickly, and a reduction in the tremendous volume of secret papers carried aboard ship.

"Every recommendation I made was put into effect after our capture," Bucher said. "It was the old closing-the-barn-door routine."

Bucher lost a lot of weight in a North Korean prison, and returned home a gaunt shadow of the man who played football in his days at Boys Town, Neb.

But in the 20 months since his release he has regained the lost poundage and then some.

"That's my fault," said his wife, Rose, pointing to the paunch.

"That's a lotta beer," said the commander.

At the Pentagon book store, managers counted more than 1,200 people entering the store in the first hour. Some 30,000 people work in the Pentagon.

Hundreds of people just stood and gawked at the once obscure naval commander now turned celebrity. Many brought over books to be autographed, shook Bucher's hand and wished him good luck.

"I was with you all the way," said one woman.

"I liked the way you handled the situation," said a man.

But all was not sweetness and light. One bystander asked her companion, "Shall we buy a book?"

"No, no," was the other woman's reply. "He's a traitor."

Bucher still believes the United States made a mistake in not retaliating against the North Koreans immediately after they seized the lightly armed Pueblo.

He said servicemen expect the government to back them up when they are in trouble and U.S. failure to act in the Pueblo case was a tremendous blow to morale.

He said he knew of "a number of aviators who turned in their wings and made it clear they were thoroughly disgusaed — and that doesn't mean they were spoiling for a fight."

Bucher has rapidly become proficient at the autograph business, signing "best wishes" and "warmest regards" to books held out by smiling strangers.

It is a far cry from the grim months in a small Korean prison when Bucher and his men used the "Hawaiian Good Luck Sign."

In his book, Bucher tells the story of the "Hawaiian good luck sign" — an upraised fist with the middle finger extended. This familiar U.S. gesture of defiance and derision was unknown in North Korea and the Pueblo crewmen told their captors it meant "good luck" in Hawaiian.

A famous picture released by the North Koreans showed a number of sailors with their middle fingers extended to give the lie to the happy smiles they were ordered by their captors to display.

At one mass meeting, Bucher relates, he asked his men to show their chief jailer their respect by giving him the "Hawaiian good luck sign," whereupon they raised their fists with outstretched middle fingers at the officer.

"The crew showed remarkable control in maintaining solemnly penitent expressions," Bucher said.

However, shortly before their release, a copy of Time magazine with the picture and a caption saying the finger sign proved the photo to be other than what the North Koreans claimed, made its way to their captors.

For a week the officers and crew got the roughest beatings and kickings they were to suffer in their entire captivity. That ended the "Hawaiian good luck sign" game.

Bucher is now assigned to the naval post graduate school taking a management course that will earn him a master's degree. However, in March he was put on limited duty for six months by a medical board as a result of the malnutrition, beatings and strain of his ordeal.

He will soon go before the medical board again. How he fares there may determine the course of his naval career. He could be given disability retirement.

Asked if he still has a career in the Navy in the wake of the Pueblo case and his own criticism of the Navy heirarchy, Bucher said, "I hope so. I'm still a highly qualified naval officer."

Beating Case Trial Is Set

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court trial has been set for Tuesday for Lloyd J. Hartman of San Francisco accused of the beating of a Mill Valley cocktail waitress the morning of July 18.

According to police Hartman attacked Patty Noland, 32, of 31 Millay Place as she left Roland's Cocktail Lounge in the Marina district shortly after 2 a.m. that morning.

Arraigned yesterday, Hartman will be tried for assault with a deadly weapon.

Police said Hartman, 39, had asked bartenders to call taxis for him but sent them away when they arrived. After being ejected from the tavern he waited for Miss Roland and clubbed her with a tire iron, officers said.

The Dead Sea is about 25 per cent salt.

Court Delays On Drydocks Ruling

Marin County's effort to get rid of the four wooden drydocks bogged down in Richardson Bay through court action was continued today to Sept. 10 to give the board of supervisors a chance to solve the problem.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court ordered the continuance because supervisors are expected to discuss a solution with owner J. Christopher Roberts of Mill Valley Tuesday.

The drydocks have been the subject of court action since the late Delmar D. Wise of Diesel Engineering and Maintenance Co. brought them to Sausalito four years ago.

The present owner has plans to move the docks closer to Sausalito and refit them for a lotus-shaped cultural center, but the supervisors passed an emergency ordinance in July that forbids moving drydocks without a permit.

Lt. Leland L. Brown, a civil division chief, acting for Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, as receiver in the case, submitted a supplemental report yesterday stating that he had been unable to obtain cost estimates from anyone interested in dismantling the dry docks.

However, Brown added, he had discussed removal or burning the docks with the Coast Guard and the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. The Coast Guard has no restrictions barring either removal or destruction, he said, and the pollution control district said that a burning variance permit could be obtained for $25.

As receiver, the sheriff is empowered to marshall the assets of the owner for removal of the docks.

Carl B. Shapiro, Roberts' attorney, also submitted a letter asking six months grace period for development of the "project Atlantis" cultural center and saying his client would be willing to pay rent for that period.

Shapiro said that shipyard and harbor owner, D. J. Arques, had said that he would give docking space to the drydocks if local government legal conditions were met.

U.S. Calling For Mideast Arms Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department, noting that Soviet arms were continuing to flow into Egypt as they had before the cease-fire, made a new bid Thursday for a big power arms limitation in the Middle East.

Department spokesman John King, told reporters, "As far as I can tell there hasn't been any suspension in the flow of Soviet arms to Egypt in recent months.

Summer Jobs May Lead To Careers

By LARRY MOWELL

Neighborhood Youth Corps summer jobs are no more than a means to earn a little money for some young people, but for others they are rewarding first glimpses at a future career.

Both attitudes towards the government-financed job program were found among seven youth corps girls and a former one working at Marin General Hospital this summer.

Mona Wilson, 16, of 273 Drake Avenue, Marin City, works in the pharmacy, bottling medicine and getting excited about a nursing career.

The shy Tamalpais High School sophomore said she enjoys being able to observe the nurses in action during her rounds and wants to become one.

More immediately, she hopes to follow in the footsteps of her friend, Gloria McMichael, 17, of 245 Drake Avenue who recommended that she get a job at the hospital through the youth corps.

Miss McMichael, now a high school senior started at the hospital last summer as a youth corps worker and was hired as an after-school employee when the summer ended.

She has been working this summer for $2.25 per hour compared to the $1.55 pocketed by youth corps workers.

As a transportation aide who wheels patients around the hospital, she said she has ample opportunity to view the hospital operations and is more convinced than ever that she wants to become a nurse.

One of her co-workers, Tye Rasmusen, 16, of 79 Twin Oaks Avenue, San Rafael, is aiming higher; she hopes eventually to become a surgeon.

Because she missed spring semester, she is in the out-of-school program which pays an extra five cents an hour, but plans to return to San Rafael High School next month for her senior year.

She worked last summer as a nurse's aide in a Ukiah convalescent hospital that both depressed her and made her determined to become a doctor.

"I also want to be an Egyptologist, but I decided this would be a little more practical than that," said Miss Rasmusen.

However, Nellie Thompson, 16, of 71 Hatzic Court, Larkspur, and Barbara Lapic, 17, of 476 Cane Street also in Larkspur, said the work had no application to their futures.

Miss Lapic, who lives in a group home run by the Marin Foundation, was required to work during the summer so she sought a job in kitchen work, because she had experience as a waitress.

Working in the hospital kitchen is enjoyable work, she said, "the only thing I didn't like was I was only getting $1.55 an hour."

She said she will take business courses in her senior year at Redwood High School in an effort to get a better paying job because she has to move out of the home next summer.

Miss Thompson divides her time between the hospital employee's credit union and the library.

She said she had experience at the library at Sir Francis Drake High School and asked for an accounting job. She got a mixture of both.

However, she plans to study math and retail buying at College of Marin for a career in retaining so the summer job has not helped towards a career, she said.

GOOD JOB — Mona Wilson of Marin City labels bottles at Marin General Hospital. She plans to use the knowledge of medicine gained in the pharmacy as a steppingstone to a career in medicine.

The hospital, of course, didn't quibble over whether the young people plan medical careers. The salaries for the seven workers are paid by federal and county funds so the hospital gets free help.

"It helps the hospital and it helps the young people," summarized one hospital spokesman.

Attorney For Brocato Hits I-J Article

A news report published July 27 in the Independent-Journal has been described as "grossly libelous" by Santa Rosa attorney Robert M. Bell.

Bell is the attorney for James R. Brocato, 31, former print shop chapel chairman at the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat and San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 delegate to the Sonoma County Labor Council who was one of three men arrested June 3 and awaiting trial on charges of conspiring to break windows of I-J advertisers in San Rafael and Novato.

The July 27 report, said Bell, was "grossly libelous to Mr. Brocato in that the last paragraph thereof implies that Mr. Brocato is in some way responsible for the vandalism to the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat as alleged earlier in the article. Demand is hereby made that the same be corrected or retracted . . ."

The I-J has NOT accused Brocato of involvement in the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat vandalism incidents referred to, nor has the I-J implied or intended to imply any such accusation.

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —Armed raiders took over a police station in suburban Ferreyra Wednesday and made off with a quantity of arms after immobilizing the occupants.

Eyewitnesses said about 20 raiders struck the police station near this central Argentine city, disarmed 10 policemen and bound them with chains and handcuffs. The group included two young women and two young men dressed in police uniforms, they said.

Place Order First, Hoover Tells Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says the responsibility for peace and order in the college campuses this fall "rests squarely with college administrators."

Hoover, in the September issue of the FBI law enforcement bulletin, said student radicals "know well that their success in part is dependent upon weak administrators". College administrators, he added, "must unite in placing order on their individual campuses as the top priority item."

Six Named To Tam Park, Rec Panel

Three new and three carryover members have been appointed to the Tamalpais Parks and Recreation Commission by the Tamalpais Community Services District board.

New commissioners appointed Tuesday were Ward L. Patterson, John E. McRee and Nancy DuFrame. Reappointed were Janet Walker, Floyd Cramer and Asa Hanamoto. Director Ralph P. Kellogg was appointed to take the place of Glenn Lambacher as board representative to the commission.

Lambacher said the commission will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club, to discuss a tot lot planned at the new Marin View subdivision.

Community services district directors also discussed garbage collection rates in Tamalpais Valley and set a public hearing Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the district office to consider possible changes.

Lambacher said the district's contract with Henry's Service of Stinson Beach expires Sept. 30 and the firm wants to raise the rates from $2.10 for each can. The board will further negotiate with the company at its regular meeting Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the district office.

Hub Man In Charge On Credit Card Count

LeRoy Raymond Wiley, 39, of San Anselmo, was to appear again in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon for plea entry on a felony charge of forging another person's name to a credit card slip.

Municipal Court Judge Robert N. Connors yesterday appointed the public defender to represent Wiley, who said in court that he had been released only eight days ago after a year in county jail on another charge. On the present offense, he was arrested Sunday on a Sonoma County traffic warrant, then held for the credit card charge, after renting a car from a San Rafael service station last Friday, allegedly by using a lost credit card.

Juvenile Court Refused Weed Case

Juvenile court has refused to accept the case of Daniel Martin Klopf, 18, of Tamalpais Valley. He was arrested July 22 at Cascade Reservoir and charged with felony possession of marijuana and a misdemeanor count of being a marijuana user.

Municipal Court Judge Robert N. Connors yesterday set preliminary hearing for Tuesday.

His bicycle hit the right front of a car driven by Donna Myrtle Thomas, 25, of 153 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo. Everett hit the windshield, breaking it, bounced on top of the car and fell to the street. He was taken to the emergency room at Marin General Hospital with a broken right wrist, cuts on the right leg and multiple bruises and scrapes.

Volpe Sees A Need For SST Prototype

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said today President Nixon is convinced that development of a supersonic transport (SST) is essential to the nation's vital interest.

Volpe sent a letter to a Senate Appropriations subcommittee amid reports that the administration was reviewing its stand on the SST because of increasing opposition in Congress.

"I have talked with President Nixon on the SST issues confronting us in the administration," Volpe wrote, and said Nixon still felt construction of an SST prototype was the propey way to decide the controversy over the SST noise and pollution problem.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., testified that the federal government could keep the SST from becoming a polluter by helping pay for the controversial aircraft.

There will be an SST whether the United States builds one or not, Jackson told the committee. He pointed out that Britain France and the Soviet Union already had flight tested their SSTs.

The United States has no voice in pollution control over other SSTs, Jackson said, but if Congress approves funds for construction of an American SST the federal government could impose such controls.

"An environmentally safe, economically sound, American SST has the capability to sweep from the airways the foreign SST over which we have no control," he said.

The president of the Air Transport Association testified the SST was a possible money-faking machine that could be used to defray the cost of needed social reforms.

China Bishop Is Ready To Leave Roman Hospital

ROME (UPI) — American Bishop James E. Walsh is ready to leave the hospital and will return to the United States Monday, Salvador Mundi Hospital sources said today.

They said he would go straight to the headquarters of the Maryknoll order to which he belongs, at Ossining, N.Y.

The Communist Chinese released Walsh from a 20-year sentence for alleged spying and put him across the border into Hong Kong July 10.

Hospital sources said his recovery has accelerated since he came to Rome Monday. They said Rome's drier air and Walsh's high spirits after a moving private audience with Pope Paul VI Tuesday may have contributed to his improvement.

They said Walsh may do some sightseeing in Rome.

A Maryknoll spokesman said Walsh would be met at New York's John F. Kennedy airport by Cardinal Terence J. Cooke and possibly by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The spokesman said there was a tentatively scheduled Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, for Sept. 13 that would be jointly celebrated by Cooke and Walsh.

More than a half-million acres of California land are devoted to growing crops for canning.

Residents Will Protest Assessments

More than 800 Marin taxpayers filed protests on their 1970-71 property tax assessments by last night's filing deadline.

This is the biggest number of protests since 1967, when 1,424 were filed.

Marin's assessment appeals board will begin hearing the protests in the board of supervisors' chambers in the Civic Center on Friday, Sept. 25. The hearings will continue each Friday thereafter.

Mona Elder, secretary of the appeals board, said each applicant will be notified 30 days in advance of his hearing date.

As of this morning, she had logged 690 protest applications, including 152 protests which the county assessor has agreed are legitimate and therefore will not contest.

In addition, about 150 last minute applications were piled on Mrs. Elder's desk to be logged. More will be arriving by mail, she said. The total number of protests to be acted on, therefore, will be more than 800.

Bridge District Nixes Bid To Halt Notices

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors today reluctantly rejected a proposal to discontinue public notice of committee meetings.

The origin of the proposal was not clear, but it has been sitting on the agenda of the rules and policy committee for some months.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, advised the committee that the state's anti-secret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown act, did not require giving public notice of committee meetings, except for the committee of the whole.

The district General Manager, Dale W. Luehring, recommended continuing the present practice of mailing the notices to all persons who request them. District secretary Helen Jack said that about 130 persons are on the mailing list for the notices. Most have indicated that they want to continue being notified, she said.

Committee chairman Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County termed the practice "a waste of a lot of money, I think 90 per cent of them go in the waste basket."

The committee voted 5-1 to continue mailing the public notices. Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County cast the only no vote.

The committee also recommended that bids be opened in advance of board meetings, instead of the present practice of opening them and acting upon them at board meetings.

Novato Boy, 10, Dies In Pipe Accident

A 10-year-old Novato boy died yesterday after he was struck by a pipe he was helping load into a pickup truck in a field near his home, Novato police reported today.

Russell Dean Antonio, of 305 Deer Island Lane, and his 14-year-old brother and father were loading the pipe as an 18-year-old brother, Walter Jr., was backing the truck, according to the report.

The accelerator stuck causing the truck to lurch back, and the boy was struck in the face by the pipe, then run over by the truck, according to the report.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Novato General Hospital at 3:10 p.m.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Antonio.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Redwood Chapel, Novato.

New Findings From Rats Taking LSD

PALO ALTO (UPI) — LSD causes "important and sinister" biochemical changes in the offspring of pregnant rats, according to a University of Chicago pharmacologist.

However he found no changes in the chromosomes of the baby rats, as has been reported by other researchers, Dr. Velayudhan Nair said.

The chemical seems to suppress seritonin, chemical associated with such disorders in behavior as unusual sleeping habits and hypersexuality.

Dr. Nair said the conclusions of his study could not be applied to humans. "Functional implications of these findings related to such factors as behavior, drug action and toxicity remain to be studied" in humans, he said.

In another study Dr. Nair fed chlorpromazinea—a drug which has been found to block LSD's effects—to rats and obtained the same results he did when he used LSD.

"Most important and sinister are the subtle impairments in the development of biochemical systems in brain and liver noted in these animals," Dr. Nair said.

"Biochemical changes are not readily evident and may be revealed only by specific tests," unlike the gross abnormalities of chromosomal changes, he said.

Senate Refuses To Halt Use Of Viet Crop-Killing Sprays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate refused today to vote a halt in use of crop-killing sprays in South Vietnam. The vote was 48 to 33.

Chemicals have been employed by the allies to kill crops —mostly rice used as a food source for the Viet Cong. Legislation was proposed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to bar future spraying.

Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., said during debate that the United States had embraced a new and odious form of warfare by starvation. Opponents of the amendment argued that a hungry enemy would be forced to spend time looking for food that it might otherwise use to kill American soldiers.

"The lack of food is one of the primary factors with which the enemy must contend," said Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H. "If we allow the enemy to obtain food too easily, it will enable him to carry out increasing military attacks."

Nelson contended that the United States has [illegible] chemicals on hand—enough to blight half a billion acres of food. They said this suggested the administration was planning a major increase in anticrop warfare in Southeast Asia.

Nelson, on a 62 to 22 vote, failed to persuade the Senate Wednesday to prohibit the military use of herbicides for any purpose. He contended the 100 million pounds of chemicals the United States has sprayed over the Vietnamese countryside in the last eight years was creating a potential environmental disaster.

But a majority of the Senate accepted the Pentagon's argument herbicides save American lives by denying the cover of jungles and forests.

Nelson contended the destruction of enemy crops amounted to "starvation warfare" and if it is sanctioned by the United States, it will quickly become a cheap and efficient way for underdeveloped countries to eradicate future enemies.

He suggested the goal of the program was to create refugees out of peasants living in Communist-dominated areas, forcing them to move into cities and other secure areas when their crops yellow and die.

But Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, defended the program.

He said the destruction of crops had reduced rations to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, forcing them to spend time looking for food rather than killing Americans.

Couple Splits; Not Political

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (UPI)— A married couple opposing each other for mayor of this historical city have announced a separation.

At the same time, Jim Guthrie said he was withdrawing from the mayoral race. He was seeking the Republican nomination for mayor while his wife, Judy, was seeking the Democratic nomination. Both said the separation was caused by domestic strife, not political.

The couple had used their Allen Street tavern, with a white line painted on the floor to divide Republican and Democratic sympathizers, as the campaign headquarters for both.

Neighborhood-Type School Plan Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William B. Spong, D-Va., proposed to a Senate subcommittee today a new national school desegregation policy keyed to the concept of preserving neighborhood schools.

Spong testified that the plan was aimed at providing public schools "based not on guesswork, social experimentation and rhetoric but on sound educational principles."

He and other supporters said they wanted to preserve rights of individuals to select the schools their children would attend while seeking to avoid "confusion and turmoil" over unequal desegregation enforcement around the nation.

Chairman Claiborne Pell, D-R. I., of the Senate educaiton subcommittee said an NAACP official had warned against any "complicated stratagems and compromise" in enforcing school desegregation.

The Spong group said their proposal did not fall in that category and was aimed at achieving equal educational opportunites nation-wide.

Spong's bill, and an almost identical bill, introduced in the House would:

—Outlaw any form of segregation defined as a deliberate attempt by law or administrative effort to separate children by race, and require equal facilities in all schools of a system.

—Assign all pupils to schools nearest their homes, but allow any student to transfer voluntarily at public expense from a school in which his race was in the majority to a school where his race was in the minority.

—Allow local school officials, if deemed to be acting in good faith, to realign school zones voluntarily to attain better racial balance or even to prevent a complete balance where it is feared it might cause whites to flee and bring about "resegregation."

Bomb Reported Aboard Jetliner

DENVER (UPI) — A United Air Lines jet bound for Omaha from Los Angeles with 43 passengers aboard made an unscheduled stop here Wednesday after a false threat of a bomb aboard the plane was received.

The passengers were detained several hours at Stapleton International Airport while federal agents searched the Boeing 727. No bomb was found.

A United spokesman said the telephoned threat was received about 8:45 p.m. Wednesday when the plane was 20 minutes out of Denver.

Thanks Due Marin Boards For Playing Fair On Debts

Governing boards of Marin County and its cities, past and present, are due the thanks of the county's taxpayers for playing fair in accruing public debts.

We say this because of a recent report by the California Taxpayers' Association showing that Marin is one of a minority of counties in which there is no outstanding lease-purchase or joint-powers debt of cities or county.

STATEWIDE, according to figures drawn by the taxpayers group from those filed with the state government (for the first time, under a reporting law enacted three years ago), lease-purchase obligations of cities and counties as of June 30 totaled $840,313,745. Debts under joint-powers agreements totalled $182,121,798. This made the total under both of these methods — neither of which requires voter approval— about $1.2 billion. The total debt of cities and counties incurred through voter-approved general obligation bonds was $276,855,258 — or less than a fourth that which had been put upon the taxpayers without their authorization.

The public debts of Marin County and its cities were listed as totaling $4,054,194. But all of this was in general obligation bonds.

Of 26 counties whose debts were listed by the taxpayer association, only eight had no obligation incurred without voter approval. In all but one of the others, such debts exceeded those which the voters had authorized.

Some of the figures are startling.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY and its cities, with over half the total debt of all cities and counties in California, owed $424,217,966 on lease-purchase contracts, $82,261,798 incurred under joint-powers agreements, and only $13,895,953 in bond issues authorized by the voters.

Among the counties where the "escape route" of lease-purchase deals has been taken to avoid voter turndowns of bond issues is Sonoma County. As of June 30, it and its cities owed $6,623,540 under such arrangements and only $819,354 in voter-approved bonds, the tabulation showed.

LEASE-PURCHASE is the familiar installment buying plan applied to governments. Since a governing body cannot incur debt upon its successors without voter approval, it arranges for a "non-profit corporation" to build or buy what it wants, then leases back the facility with the lease payments applying to the purchase price. Financing costs are much higher than for bond issues.

Under a joint-powers agreement, two or more public agencies enter into a joint arrangement to build or buy, with payment to be made through revenue bonds — with the revenue often coming from taxes. Again, costs are higher than for general obligation bonds.

SAN ANSELMO is one city in Marin that has used the lease-purchase system. It did so to build a second firehouse and to acquire the Sorich Park acreage. But both of these have been paid off — through taxes.

Except for that lapse, Marin's city councils and its county board of supervisors have played fair with the taxpayers, avoiding debts which add to the tax rate without asking the voters to authorize a bond issue.

All of us should be grateful that they have done so.

Day To Honor Wrong Man

Among the inanities of this year's session of the California Legislature must be included passage of a bill declaring March 5 as "Black American Day."

There is nothing wrong with having a day to honor black Americans. It's a good idea. The inanity is in the choice of the date.

The bill, as introduced by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, would have designated Jan. 15, Rev. Martin Luther King's birthday, as "Black American Day." The Senate finance committee objected that King was a "controversial figure," and picked March 5 — because it was (or may have been) the birthday of Crispus Attucks, "the first black man to die in the Revolutionary War."

Crispus Attucks did not die in the Revolutionary War. He was killed in the so-called Boston Massacre five years before the Revolution started. As to being a hero, he was an 18th century version of today's name-calling rioters. In fact, that's just what he was up to when he was shot.

Our legislators should brush up on their American history.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Jurisdictional Dispute Makes Pawns Of Agricultural Workers

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Once again, the farm labor situation in California is charged with dynamite, due to the jurisdictional battle between the United Farm Workers Union and the Teamsters Union.

It has not been many years since the Teamsters Union attempted to organize farm workers in California and other states of the Union. However, it was given up on grounds the farm workers didn't want to be organized and were notoriously unavailable when it came time to pay dues.

Then came the United Farm Workers Orgainzing Committee under Cesar Chavez, and despite the fact that the grape workers in the San Joaquin Valley had no desire for participation in a union, Chavez has hung with it until he has been able to get some contracts with grape growers.

Not satisfied with his work among the grape pickers, he has branched out into the ranks of the lettuce workers, only to find that the Teamsters had this field fairly well under control. Whether the Teamsters Union had a little pushing by the growers, wdo don't want to see Chavez get a foothold in the Salinas Valley lettuce field, may be open to yuestion, but the face remains that organization of the farm workers is a deviation from recent policies of the Teamsters.

Assemblyman Victor Veysey, R-Imperial, an expert in farm legislation, is seeking legislation early in 1971 to deal with jurisdictional disputes, hoping to eliminate conflict between the two unions.

Veysey points out that with all the contract signing between growers and the two unions, the workers have had nothing to say, and no choice as to which, if any, union shall have jurisdiction over them.

The assemblyman says there is justification for a plan which would guarantee workers a fair, secret election to choose whether or not they want a union, and which union they prefer, and at the same time, would grant some protection to growers, and theconsuming public, which gets hurt the hardest in jurisdictional disputes.

Perishable crops may rot on the ground while unions quibble about who's going to collect the dues, and the public can't buy what it wants in the market place.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Marin Event Should Horrify Nation

I write regarding a problem that I share, or should share, with every sane American. That problem being the total disregard of our system of justice and American way of life . . . I direct this letter to the recent unlawful and grossly insane tragedy at the Marin County Hall of Justice . . . This tragedy will probably be remembered for only a short period of time — by everyone except the immediate families involved. However, it is my desire that we citizens of this entire nation wake up to the realization of the disregard and total lack of respect that so many of us now have for our laws and the judicial system that administers them. Granted, it is not a perfect set of laws, or a perfect system, for they are laws of men and administered by men, and man is yet far from being perfect. Even in view of that fact, it is still the greatest system of laws and jurisprudence this world has ever known; and it can only continue so long as we keep it operational and accept the individual responsibility of this system, maintain complete obedience and change through lawful dissent only.

We, as a nation, should be horrified by this attempt to destroy our judicial system . . . and I believe that we are. I think this was demonstrated by the preventive actions of your local law enforcement officers, who, even at the risk of injury and death, refused to comply to the demands of these madmen. Your public servants are to be commended . . . I thank them, even from this far away location, for their devotion to their duty, for had these few butchers succeeded in their escape and their violation of a court of law, I fear many others, across our land, would try to follow their example . . .

Roaches Do Travel, Neighbor Insists

Roaches do travel. It's too bad that a few were not put in a jar and let loose in Mr. (Philip S.) Ehrlich's home so he wouldn't have to rely on Mr. (Neil B.) Little's misinformation. (I-J, Aug. 20, page 3.)

If Mr. Little was not representing a special interest group that runs our society, I am sure the decision would have been different. Mr. Little has a knack of having evidence growing stale or getting lost. The facts of this case concerning the roaches in federal leased house here in our neighborhood were denied by Mr. Little many times; even when he saw them with his own eyes he made excuses for the condition in this house. If you were to ask Mr. (John F.) McInnis, our supervisor, you may get the truth.

The true colors of this program has finally been brought to light for all of us to see. The facts were ignored and their client (federal housing) were given full priority. Where does moral integrity come in? It is plain to see they are not working for all the people.

When the citizens of this country realize where your tax dollars go, only then can you expect justice for all. Become aware, save your neighborhoods. Write your representative in Washington and let them know what this program is doing to your life. It could be a great program but without the proper supervision it is worthless. It takes guts to do this.

. . . We the neighbors feel Mrs. (Sydney F.) Alexander has gone thorugh a horrible nightmare with the tenants in that house. We are not sensitive neighbors, just average.

Cockroach Claim: Story Behind It

I am writing in reference to an article in the I-J Aug. 20, "Cockroach Invasion Charged; Claim Filed."

I would like to give the taxpayers of Marin the story behind this article.

Approximately 13 months ago I had a family move in next door to me at 854 Estancia Way, Santa Venetia. They were placed there by the federal leased housing program.

They did not have garbage service for the entire time they lived there except the first week.

Garbage piled up along the side of their house, which is just a few feet from my back door and kitchen. Although myself and other neighbors called the health department many times and informed them of the situation, nothing was done. Once in awhile they would burn a few sacks of garbage and although this too is against the law, again nothing was done.

When they finally did move out on July 2, they left the house in a filthy and destructive condition. This is the third home these people have been evicted from because of this.

Thousands of dollars have been spent on this one family, so I feel that the small sum of $27.50 to pay for the service to clear up a condition that was created by them is very little to ask.

How a family where both the husband and wife are working at a job paying an average salary can qualify for federal leased housing or another give-away program is beyond me.

TRY AND STOP ME

After a local election in a town near Shamrock, Ireland, McManus was asked how he had managed to eke out a victory. "Twas like this," McManus readily explained. "I am aware that everybody who knew me voted for Sullivan, but on the other hand, everybody who knew Sullivan voted for me — and it turned out he knew nine more people than I did."

Much Rests On Gunnar Jarring As Middle East Talks Begin

NEW YORK — The long, difficult — perhaps impossible — process of unraveling the Middle East tangle begins here this week. Any of a thousand and one accidents can blow up the Israeli-Arab talks, and yet an undercurrent of hope is part of the atmosphere as the two sides prepare to meet.

It is hope if only because so much turns on this encounter. If a Middle East settlement is eventually achieved within the framework of the United Nations, the world organization will be greatly strengthened. If the talks fail, the sagging status of the U.N. as a peace-keeping agency will be dealt another blow. In the great glass hive on the East River, it will be hardly more than an international bureaucracy performing certain housekeeping chores on the periphery of the world scene.

ON ANOTHER and equally important level, the peace initiative launched by the Nixon administration is a test of the world climate. The belief has grown for some time that the Soviet Union wants to damp down the cold war and find a base for coexistence with the West. Motives are mixed, with the cloud of Red China and its 700 million people and the capacity to fire a rocket with an H-bomb warhead foremost.

Moscow's interest in coexistence may be an illusion. But officials both in Washington and the U.N. are convinced that the Russians want to avoid a confrontation in the Middle East that could lead to a showdown. Should the two super-powers, standing cautiously in the background, exert their influence for success in the talks, it will be taken as further evidence of the desire to ease tensions everywhere.

THE MAN in the middle of the seesaw in all this is a diplomat of great skill and essentials of caution and strict impartiality. As the United Nations mediator, Gunnar Jarring knows more about the Middle East dispute than most of the principals. He went through it once before, moving about the Middle East capitals as peace-maker with a persistence in the face of repeated rebuffs that brought him close to physical exhaustion.

It will take the patience of Job and the self-effacement of a saint. These are qualities Jarring has demonstrated again and again during his career.

ONE FACTOR western diplomats count solidly on the side of success. That is the conviction that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser wants peace. A strong motivation, according to informed sources, is Nasser's desire to get rid of the 10,000 or more Russian technicians and pilots in Egypt and, in effect, to regain his independence.

These same knowledgeable sources believe the interpretation widely put on Nasser's 19-day stay in Moscow just before Egyptian acceptance of the peace proposal was incorrect. He was reported to have had his arm twisted by his Russian partner determined to bring him to the peace table.

In any event, Nasser took the step that brought down the hostility of Syria, Iraq and commando units and their leaders so powerful in Jordan. This fierce hostility, growing out of the passion of the displaced Palestinians and the three wars in which Israel triumphed, poses a continuing threat that can shatter the talks even before they get off the ground.

ON THE OTHER side of the balance sheet is the quiet influence of the American who has had most to do with bringing about the Middle East talks. Sec. of State William P. Rogers gets the highest marks here for engineering the peace initiative. He achieved the seemingly impossible in persuading the Arabs of his sincerity. At the same time, beginning with his "even-handed" speech of last December, he has constantly tried to reassure Israel that there would be no change in the balance of military power.

'Women's Lib' Amendment Bitter Sauce For Goose?

(Reprinted from Vancouver (Wash.) Columbian)

What's sauce for the goose, runs an old saying, is sauce for the gander.

It could turn out to be a painful truth about the so-called women's rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution to which the House of Representatives has given what might be termed snap endorsement. The suspicion is dawning in many quarters that under the proposal the fair sex might gain equality and lose protection. They're not so sure that the net result of that is on the plus side.

The subject is a mighty touchy one for a mere male to expound upon, of course. He's probably biased to start with and bigoted to end with. But it does seem that Congress (if the Senate follows the House lead) is going on record in favor of a constitutional amendment without a very clear grasp of what it might mean.

IN ALL SERIOUSNESS, it seems to be by its very nature a sword that can cut both ways. If it extends to women such privileges as are accorded to men, one must not forget that it must extend to men the privileges accorded to women. Do we hear some bass-voiced huzzahs, for instance, on noting that wives might find themselves liable to pay alimony to a wronged husband? Or be held equally responsible for the support of children in a broken home?

How about the draft? May the courts not rule that she is subject equally with the man? There's ample modern precedent for that, of course, notably as in Israel. But is that what the gals really want out of the amendment?

BUT THESE are incidents. It must be recognized that there is a whole broad spectrum of possibilities. How would it affect the myriad laws among the states in such matters as child custody, family relationships, divorce, separation, age of consent, bastardy and so on.

Furthermore, the man, if present, traditionally has been head of the house and society has imposed upon him, and him alone, sole family responsibilities and public responsibilities of the most fundamental nature. How good is the gamble that the courts will not hold that the amendment, if it becomes law, releases him from this unique role? True, there may be major erosions already in some phases of public welfare, but they're not the national pattern.

A BIG THRUST of the amendment, it is recognized, is its aim of ending discrimination against women in employment. Whether this particular amendment is the best way to do that may be open to very serious thought.

Women of more militant temperament who have been pushing the amendment drive successfully so far claim that 30 million women now working desire equality more than protection, and this is the way to get it.

Maybe so. Maybe so. Few persons would deny that there has been assorted discrimination. But the gals are likely to find that they can't have their cake and eat it too.

WE WOULD HOPE that they, and the legislatures to which the proposal appears headed, will put in a lot more consideration than the amazing one hour of ordinary debate which the House used before (pardon the expression) passing the buck.

We are not saying that negative action should be taken. We are saying that much attention should be devoted to trying to see what the losses as well as the gains might be; and to exploring if there are alternate feasibilities with a higher yield ratio.

Training Session Might Help Marin EOC To Conduct Business

Since its inception five years ago, the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council — the county's official antipoverty agency — has struggled with operational woes.

Staff turnover has been high and policy and program guidance from EOC directors has been weak.

Coupled with these difficulties is a mind-boggling flow of revisions in federal programs and policies into the EOC office in San Rafael.

The result is chaos, and staff members quit in frustration over federal restrictions and over intra-office disputes and lack of coordination.

THE MOST outward sign of trouble, however, is the conduct of meetings of EOC directors. Because many of the members lack experience in parliamentary procedure and training in the goals and operations of the federal antipoverty effort, sessions bog down in technicalities and petty squabbling. Little is accomplished.

This has brought urgent calls from experienced members for a board training session such as held in previous years. Staff members would also attend.

If that's needed, so, too, is a review of EOC administrative procedures to provide better direction and coordination. W. Robert Lomax Jr., EOC executive director, may have taken a step in that direction by proposing at the last board meeting that the Marin City Target Area Board of the EOC be given autonomy.

Lomax disclosed that $30,000 was being spent annually for staff in Marin City, although no program was being operated from that office.

A LIGHT MOMENT in an otherwise rigorous session of the state legislature occurred when a resolution was introduced naming a freeway for President Richard M. Nixon.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, a San Jose Democrat, quickly urged an amendment that would name the first two offramps for Clement F. Haynesworth and G. Harrold Carswell.

Alquist said the designations would "maintain historical integrity."

Military Club Sets Membership

The Marvelous Marin Military Affairs Committee has been renamed, dropping the word "Marvelous" from the title.

In an executive boardmeeting last week the committee also set a membership limit of 100 civilians, approved charter member dues of $10 and decided to obtain a Post Office box at Hamilton Air Force Base for a permanent address.

The official address of the organization, a primarily social military-civilian group, is now P.O. Box 391, Hamilton AFB.

Current goals of the committee, which will accept charter memberships until Oct. 1, are to assist in hosting dignitaries visiting military bases in Marin, honoring arriving and departing commanders and developing special military affairs projects.

GI Charged With Plane Hijacking

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UPI)— A soldier with a psychiatric disorder was charged Wednesday with hijacking an airliner over Indiana Monday and forcing the pilot to fly to Cuba.

Charges of kidnaping and piracy aboard an aircraft were filed in federal District Court here against Pfc. Robert J. Labadie, 27, Nahma, Mich., who was on convalescent leave from an Army hospital in Pennsylvania.

The hijacker was taken into custody by Cuban officials at Havana. The other 79 passengers and the crew were allowed to fly back to Miami, Fla.

ART BUCHWALD

If Mr. Ford Will Answer Calls; Art's Willing To Sell That Land

(Art Buchwald took off for vacation before anyone could catch him. He left behind what he claims are some of his more memorable columns.)

Some years ago, Art Buchwald became a landowner in Florida. This is how it happened:

MIAMI — The magic word in Florida these days is "land." According to the exciting advertisements on the highways, and in newspapers and magazines, anyone who is willing to plunk $10 down and pay $10 a month can in no time at all become another William Zeckendorf or Conrad Hilton.

No matter who you are, the land fever grips you as soon as you get off the plane, and I must admit I was no exception. Not wanting to be left out of what is potentially the greatest "Growth investment in the United States" since fallout shelters, I swiped 10 bucks from my kid's toy bank and rushed out to the nearest real estate office (there are about two on every block).

THE OFFICE, located in a vacated store, was very plush. There were photos of beautiful homes on the wall. (I discovered later that they had nothing to do with the development, but gave the place a nice atmosphere.)

A gorgeous receptionist was typing up mortgages, but when she saw the $10 I was clutching in my hand, she immediately ushered me into the plush office of the managing director. The director, a jovial man in a Palm Beach suit, shook my hand vigorously and invited me to sit in one of his plush chairs. On his desk was a mock-up, in scale, of his latest development: an entire town. The mock-up showed three golf courses, five schools, a church, a yacht club and basin and 500 ranch-type houses.

I gasped when I looked at it.

"YOU'RE VERY lucky," he said. "We have only one house left."

"Could I go out and see it?" I asked excitedly.

"Why would you want to do that?" he asked. "Don't you believe what you see here on my desk?"

"Well, it is beautiful," I said. "But I thought it would be fun to go and see the place for myself, size up my neighbors and that sort of thing."

"IT'S A PRETTY long trip," he said. "You see, we built this town in the Everglades to get away from all those jet noises people are always complaining about. It's about a hundred miles inland, but you can only travel by day because of the alligators."

"Alligators?"

"Of course. You have to have alligators to eat the moccasin snakes, or they'd be all over the place."

"Snakes?"

"Only during the wet season," he said. "You hardly ever see them unless there's a wildcat around."

"Wildcats?"

"They won't give you any trouble unless you get caught in the quicksand."

"Quicksand?"

"Only in certain places. We have a couple of patches by the school, but the teacher usually keeps the kids away from them. Now if you'll just sign this paper . . ."

"WAIT A MINUTE," I said. "I'm not sure I want to live in the Everglades. Besides, are you sure the town exists as you have it there?"

"It's not completed yet, but we've already sprayed the malaria-mosquito ponds, and by next month we should have the wild-boar traps all dug. In a year it will look just like this mock-up."

"You mean the church isn't even built yet?"

"Well, no. But don't forget this is the church of your choice, and if it were already built it wouldn't be the church of your choice then, would it?"

I ADMITTED that was true. Just then the phone rang and he picked it up. I couldn't help overhearing the conversation.

"Yes sir, Mr. Ford. You'd like to build a factory on my tract? It's going to be difficult. I have a man in my office now and I've already promised him the last five acres. No, I can't give you his name. But perhaps he'll get in touch with you. Sorry. Goodby."

I plunked down the $10 and hurriedly signed the deed.

I've been trying to get in touch with Mr. Ford ever since, but he always seems to be out. Once I get him on the phone, though, and tell him about the land I own, he's really going to have to pay through the nose.

Kentfield Man Abducted, Beaten

A Kentfield man was abducted from in front of a San Anselmo service station by two men last night, then beaten and robbed of 75 cents, police said.

The victim, William E. Markey, 51, of 137 Hillside Avenue, escaped with facial and neck bruises and was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Markey told police he was kidnapped at about 11:30 p.m. while waiting for a friend in front of Gene's Chevron Station at 91 Red Hill Avenue. He said he was grabbed from behind and dragged into a blue sedan.

Driven to Marquard Avenue in San Rafael, Markey said, he was beaten on the head and shoulders and his empty billfold and 75 cents taken. Markey said the assailants then dumped him at Second Street and Marquard Avenue and he walked to Fourth Street and telephoned police.

One abductor was described as between 20 and 24 years old, about five feet, six inches, weighing 140 pounds and wearing a black shirt and black and white bell bottom pants. The other assailant, Markey said, was about 19 or 20 years old, six feet, weighed 160 and wore a brown shirt, brown, pin-striped bell bottoms and had a moustache. Both had Afro hairstyles, he said.

China Camp Fence Brings Action For Removal Of It

A fence and "no trespassing" signs on private property long used by the public has resulted in a suit filed in Marin Superior Court to force their removal.

The suit brought by attorney Richard J. Werthimer of Kentfield and architect Stephen M. Heller of San Rafael asks the court to rule that the public has a right to access and issue temporary and permanent injunctions.

Named as defendants are New York-Cal Industrial Corp., owners of the land; Marin Title and Guaranty Co., American National Insurance Co., McNear Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Carin County, the City of San Rafael, Marin Municipal Water District and 50 others as yet unnamed.

Basis for the suit is the contention of the two, represented by San Francisco attorney Douglas P. Ferguson that "China Camp has from the early 1800s to the present time been used and is now being used by members of the general public . . .for varied recreational uses."

They maintain that the owners of the little point opposite Rat Rock have never hinreder public use of the land so, according to recent state supreme court decisions, they should not be allowed to hinder now.

The owners maintain the fences were put up at the request of the sheriff's department to prevent illegal activities and that the barrier is not intended to prevent legitimate public use.

No court date has been set for the suit filed Tuesday.

Legalized Marijuana Predicted In Canada

Sewage Plant Work To Start

Preliminary work on a sewage treatment plant and sewer system for Bolinas and Stinson Beach will begin this week, according to Jane Boyer, clerk of the Bolinas Public Utility District.

Two San Rafael firms were hired last night by directors of the utility district, Mrs. Boyer reported. Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates, soil engineers will begin soil testing and drilling as soon as possible, she said; and surveying will be done by Hoffman and Albritton, civil engineers.

The treatment plant is being constructed in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water district, but each district will provide its own sewer lines, she said.

'A DAY IN THE LIFE OF...'

Marin women celebrated Suffrage Day yesterday along with women across the nation. At left, the Marin Civic Center was invaded by women from the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women who did informational picketing through the building during the noon hour. They handed out leaflets urging full equality for men and women in employment and education and demanding a resolution from the Board of Supervisors prohibiting sex discrimination in hiring county employees and integration of all county agencies. They also demanded a task force to investigate hiring practices in Marin. NOW members also did a "vote for the most beautiful supervisor" contest pointing up the absurdity of beauty contests judging women as objects. Michael Wornum won 10 votes, with Louis Baar second, 6 votes. "Voting was light," said a NOW spokesman. "Apparently the supervisors aren't well liked out here," she commented. At right, several hundred women spent the afternoon in the traditional women's pursuit of watching fashions paraded at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross in the closing show of the Northgate Group's summer series.

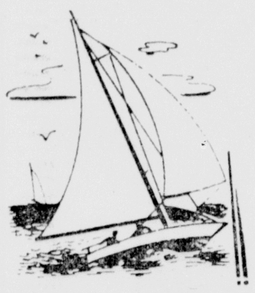
MOST COVETED TROPHY

Training For A 'Series Of Unknowns'

By PAT BALMES

Martha McDougle Martin of San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere will represent California in the Adams Cup Finals in Victaria, British Columbia, Canada, next week, Monday through Thursday.

Crewing for Martha, in her



sixth try for yachtswomen's most coveted trophy, will be 17-year-old Connie Stong of Tiburon, a freshman at University of California at Santa Barbara and teacher of junior sailing at SFYC and Anne Elder, 28, of San Francisco, a management analyst.

Martha, 32, decided to stay when she came to the SFYC in 1966 for the first time to represent Rochester, N.Y., Yacht Club in the Adams Cup Finals. She first met Tom Martin then a yacht broker whom she married on May 13, 1970, in his hometown of Oxford, Md. Their honeymoon was a two-week cruise to deliver a Pearson 43 to its new owner in Jackson, Fla.

"We took two other people on our honeymoon," Martha laughs, "the crew!

"SAILING ADDS to my life because it adds to me. It's good to go out and be with boats. I am very involved with people during the week. It's like opening up my head and letting some air blow through it," explains the Stanford student counsellor.

"But you have to keep sailing in balance with the rest of your life. Preparing for the Adams Cup had been a monumental effort because eliminations started in early spring," she says.

"In training for the Adams Cup the most helpful thing has been sailing my own boat. My crew watches the other boats.

MARTHA MARTIN, skipper of the San Francisco Yacht Club crew, won state-wide eliminations to represent California in the Adams Cup. This year's Adams Cup race will be Martha's sixth attempt to win the large silver Revere bowl, engraved with North America's top women sailor's names since 1924.

"BENDING ON the main" are Connie Stong, left, Ann Elder and Martha Martin. They are California's top woman sailors and will compete for the Adams Cup, the Women's North American Sailing Championship, at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club in British Columbia, Canada Aug. 31 through Sept. 3.

These are ruffles.

He loves his girl in them. Always did. Still does. You know it and we know it. And it's why we have necklines with ruffles. And hemlines with ruffles. And wrists with ruffles. Along with a lot of other things he likes too. Lots of fabrics, for instance, that are soft and yielding. And lots of little flowering prints. And sweet little buttons. And skirts that move. And puffed sleeves. And pussycat bows. And sashes. If you'd like to know a store that knows all about ruffle power et al, see us. We know what you buy clothes for, and it's not just to impress the other girls.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Advice Column Won't Change The Man Who Isn't Ready To Marry

DEAR HELEN:

Six months ago I met a beautiful, wonderful girl who, unlike most females, loved me for myself, not for money or gifts or fancy evenings on the town.

She put me on a pedestal and brought out all the good in me I didn't know I had. I started feeling warm and loving, but I interpreted this as being trapped. I considered it unmasculine to feel soft and tender about a girl. So I told her goodbye and resumed that vicious cycle of wine, women and song.

Now, six months later I realize I've been living a hollow, meaningless substitute for what I gave up. I know it was real love, the good, decent kind that can last a lifetime and bring me such happiness as I've never known.

Is it too late to tell this girl I love her and want only the shelter of her loving arms? — WISER NOW—JACK

DEAR WISER:

Nice try, honey, but your handwriting and your romantic wordage make me 99 per cent certain Jill, not Jack, wrote that letter.

And should you think this will shock him into coming back, forget it. If a man isn't ready to settle down, no amount of advice column reminders will change him: They might even help prove how lucky Jack was not to tumble when Jill fell. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I was at a card game with a few guys the other night when two girls dropped by the house. We broke up the game and were all sitting on the floor playing records, etc., and drinking. In fact, we got pretty boozed up.

One of the girls started talking to me and then she got friendlier.

My problem is that I am engaged to another girl, and I don't want to marry her with a guilty conscience. I feel I must tell her what happened, which wasn't much, but if the other guys mention it, she will think so.

How can I let her know there is nothing between me and this other girl? — GUILTY CONSCIENCE

DEAR G.C.:

If it "wasn't much" it's best forgotten — unless your guilty conscience is mainly fear that somebody has a big mouth.

In which case, tell your fiancee the whole truth, and hope she believes you. Is there any reason why she shouldn't? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Why is it girls don't thank you for anything? I'll take a girl to a movie or for something to eat, and you'd think she could at least show she enjoyed it, but evidently it embarrasses her to say "Thank you."

Am I supposed to thank her for the privilege of spending my money on her? — WHAT'S RIGHT?

DEAR W.R.:

"Thanks for a great evening" should be mutually expressed, though not necessarily in those words. (Sometimes "Hey, that was fun!" does just as well.)

A girl who won't let a boy know she enjoyed the date shouldn't expect a second invitation. — H.

I assign Connie to watch so-and-so. It's everybody talking on our boat about what the other boats are doing. There is so much to watch when you want to win," says the skipper, who has been doing exercises to get into condition. The crew wears gloves on the foredeck to protect against calluses from the sheets. Martha has no trouble with seasickness, the motion of the boat does not effect her.

Uniform for the California crew is white levis. Martha will wear a magenta jacket and matching shell. Anne will be in pink and Connie in gold.

"Clothes are a means of identifying people during the Adams Cup race. And we had to have something that we can throw into the washing machine at night," says Captain Martha.

The eight crews will be housed in the homes of Canadian yacht club members and friends, who will act as their hosts.

"I am very hard about looking neat," says the trim blonde. "The racing starts (psychologically) on Sunday when we look at the boats and the other crews. We are watched constantly while we are there. We want them to think, "The Californians look fast."

THIS YEAR there will be no "tune-up" race on Sunday, the day before the series starts. "I don't like to show anybody how I can sail beforehand. Once they tried to make us go out on Sunday. Everybody just flopped around," she grins.

Eight Cal 20 yachts will be lent to the eight crews by the Royal Victoria Yacht Club members for the series.

"The boats must be kept ship-shape because they are borrowed. The Eastern judges run this thing with an iron hand, and they can tell you to get out of the race" acknowledges the captain. "Part of racing is knowing the rules; trying not to infringe on other's rights."

During the round-robin of eight races, her crew will sail all eight boats, some of which may have slightly different rigging. There will be three one-and-a-half hour races on Monday, three on Tuesday and two on Wednesday followed by the banquet.

THE CONCENTRATED period of time of the Adams Cup Finals keeps the yachtswomen at an "up" emotional pitch, according to the skipper. "In racing we are very agressive and not very polite."

Asked how weaker sex copes with a strong gale, Martha explains, "It's physical endurance tied in with skill applied to a physical situation." The women have to learn how to make the mechanical advantages work for them, like putting sheets on the winch.

Speaking of the exhilaration she feels at top boat speed "when the boat is on the 'right wave' and I can feel everything together: people, boat and water,", Martha says, "It's like body-surfing."

The drenchings and the bulky flotation coat, foul-weather suit and boots are endured without complaint.

"I sail because I like it from a number of different viewpoints. I like the challenge of it. Taking the boat out and wondering, how am I going to meet this type of water, with this crew, in this weather? It's a series of unknowns. It's a total involvement in very practical matters, getting your boat over that next wave and to that next point of land," Martha explains.

"I ALSO like the esthetic side, nature. Learning about tides and currents. If you just sat on land, you wouldn't have to get so involved in it," says the sailor.

"And I enjoy non-competitive sailing, too. I like cruising with my husband down the East Coast and up the West Coast where I am not making the decision. It is a more dependent role. And I am pretty good at cooking at a 30 degree tilt!" says the yachtsman's bride.

At 10, Martha was sailing with her father and two sisters on Lake Erie.

"The fish were dying then. People just sat around and did nothing," she remembers.

She was a competitive swimmer with an AAU team and also did synchronized swimming in Pennsylvania.

League To Register Voters 50 Years After Women Got The Vote

Honoring Aug. 26, 1920, date of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution granting to women the right to vote, the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin started a voter registration drive. It will continue through Sept. 10, the final day to register for the November elections.

Tables staffed by registrars are set up Saturdays in the Strawberry Shopping Center, in the Big G supermarket in Sausalito, in downtown Tiburon and in Marin City.

New this year are the league's roving registrars, who will be in an easily identified van. It will be in Mill Valley, Marin City, Sausalito, Tiburon and Strawberry every weekday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Voters who have moved, changed name or are new to the state since the last election must re-register.

Women's achieving the right to vote followed 72 years of effort by many women, notably Susan B. Anthony and Carrie Chapman Catt, who the same year became honorary president of the newly formed League of Women Voters.

In honor of the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage a commemorative stamp has been issued by the United States Post Office. First day of sale will be in Adams, Mass., the birthplace of Susan B. Anthony. The league, also celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, sponsored the Aug. 26 ceremonies in Adams. The stamp is available publicly today.

ROSARIUM INSTITUTE 175 Young Ladies Institute, is sponsoring a mass and reception Sunday to honor grand second vice president, Miss Claire Skidmore, secretary to Rosarium, who was recently elected to this position in Portland at the annual convention.

Mass will be at noon with a reception following at St. Patrick's Center in Larkspur.

Chairmen will be Mmes. Edwin Albertoni and Leo Simon.

MARIN STAR Theta Rho 121 of San Rafael will hold a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday at the Odd Fellows Hall in San Rafael.

Sue Wright, president of the club, is chairman of the sale and will be assisted by members of Marin Star, advisers and assistant advisers and member of Golden Star Rebekah Lodge 112, according to Mrs. Sanford Mills of Novato.

A PATIO-garage sale is being held by the Novato Republican Women Federated from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, 20 Pillsbury Lane, in Novato.

ARTICLES ARE on display at the Sunny Hills Bargain Box, 607 Irwin Street, San Rafael, for the silent auction to be held Saturday at 2 p.m.

A few of the unusual items are an old hand operated sewing machine, a brass spittoon, a framed hand written letter from Sir Winston Churchill, a miniature pressed glass hat, a carved ivory box and a Cloisonne ink well.

NOVATO BUSINESS and Professional Women's Club members, Mmes. Dorothy G. Krieger, president, and Penny Kane, legislation chairman, who attended the state BPW legislation conference in Los Angeles this month have reported to their club on the meeting.

The state and national BPW legislation platform, assignments for legislative studies to local clubs and plans for the government in action conference in Sacramento in March 1971 were presented at the state conference.

Mrs. Kane discussed the equal rights amendment and the fair employment act (AB 22) in Sacramento. She said that "seeing equality of rights under the law for both men and women is the major legislative ambition and goal of BPW.

For Men Who Want To Look Young, Unkept And European

Written for UPI

NEW YORK (UPI)—Men's fashion designers are doctors of the exterior. (As opposed to proctologists who are doctors of the posterior and analysts who are doctors of the inferior.) Without betraying any privacies, I thought I would report a recent interchange:

Me: Lie back. Relax. Say whatever is on your mind.

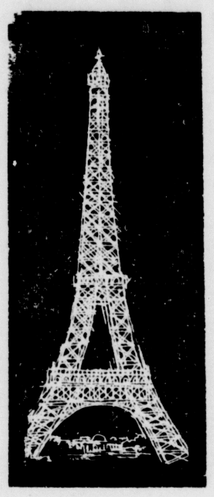
He: Mind?

M: Tip of the tongue, sorry.

H: That's better.

M: Good.

H: I'm lost, doctor. After all I'm forty-two.



M: Forty-two?

H: All right. Forty-seven.

M: And?

H: Well. . .it's also so confusing! Bell bottoms and curly long hair and Pancho Villa mustaches and orange patent leather boots. What am I to do, doctor?

M: Easy, now.

H: You tell me easy. What's easy when you feel (choke) square and you're in love with our Brooks suit?

M: In love?

H: Well, fond of. . .

M: That's better.

H: All my friends are shunning our barber. Mario, that's his name. He's suffering. . .

M: Going broke?

H: Broke? What're you talking about? Mario owns half of New Jersey. No. He's got no one to talk to, that's what's making him ill. Except me. I still go. But each time I tell him 'Cut less, Mario. Don't touch the sideburns!' And he's getting all shriveled and nasty.

M: What else?

H: Well, I love my Ivy suits with the slim look and the little slash in back. Now they tell me I have to wear those wide lapels and have two big slits in the back. And the ties . . .

M: What about the ties?

H: I just got me used to quiet slim ties and threw away all the old wide ones. Now they tell me wide ties with big loud patterns. Me, who just turned sincere and conservative. And what do I do with my button-down shirts? Doctor, my beautiful button downs. They're so executive, so. . .nonchalant and wealthy looking, like I was from Princeton.

M: Aren't you?

H: No.

M: Then why do you want to look like you were?

H: Because that's the great American dream: successful executive from Ivy League school!

M: But it's not anymore, you know.

H: No? What is?

M: The way to look is European and unkept and young.

H: But doctor, you don't look that way!

M: I know.

H: Why not?

M: I was brought up in Europe.

H: So?

M: In Euorpe, successful men don't look like they do on Third Avenue.

H: How do they look?

M: Like American executives from Ivy League schools.

H: With button downs?

M: With button downs.

H: And seersuckers? And poplins?

M: Yes.

H: So how come they're trying to make us look like Guards, Officers or French counts.

M: Search me.

H: Then I've got nothing to worry about? Then I'm all-right?

M: Not quite.

H: What's wrong?

M: You don't have to look unkept or European. But I mentioned young.

H: But I'm forty-two. Allright forty-seven. What can I do?

M: Go on a diet.

H: Oh?

M: When you're slim you'll feel young.

H: Then I'll feel more sure? Then I'll be secure?

M: Right. Young is better!

There's sequel. Four weeks later, there he was, twenty pounds lighter, trying on a brand new shaped suit with vast lapels and vents to the armpits. He also had a Pancho Villa mustache. . .MIT mutton-chop sideburns. He looked pretty unsure of himself.

'TO SLEEP, PERCHANCE TO DREAM'

Max Klein as Jeff Douglas just wants to sleep but Meg Brockie, played by Lynn Phillips, insists on talking. That problem is the least of many encountered by young lovers in the Marin Shakespeare Festival's offering of the musical "Brigadoon" in the Forest Meadows Theater at Dominican College, San Rafael. "Brigadoon" — a festival dividend in addition to "The Tempest," "Taming of the Shrew" and "Henry V" — will have final performances Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Argentina Labor-Leader Assassinated

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)— Assassins riding in an automobile today shot and killed Argentine labor leader Jose Alonso, the second major Peronist labor leader to be killed in 14 months.

Alonso, 57, was president of the Textile Worker's Union and a powerful advocate of the return to power to former Dictator Juan D. Peron.

Police said Alonso was shot to death by men in two automobiles who blocked his car on a residential street as he was being driven to work. While the men in one of the cars pistol-whipped his chauffeur, those in the other opened the rear door of Alonso's automobile and shot him twice in the head. The assassins escaped.

Another leading Peronist and labor figure, Augusto Vandor, was assassinated June 30, 1969, during the fact-finding visit of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Three men burst into Vandor's office here and shot him with machine guns.

Vandor was president of the Metal Workers Union and an executive of the General Labor Confederation (CGT), the Argentine equivalent of the AFL-CIO in the United States. His slaying has not been solved.

Alonso was a member of the Argentine Congress during the 10-year dictatorship of Peron, who was overthrown in 1955 and now lives in exile in Spain.

Secretary of Labor Juan Luca informed President Roberto M. Levingston of Alonso's death, and Gen. Jorge Caceres Monie, chief of federal police, made a personal investigation of the site of the assassination.

Nixon's Guards Capture Aliens

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—The Santa Fe Railroad tracks running in front of President Nixon's Pacific Ocean estate once were a fruitful underground trail for Mexican nationals sneaking into the United States.

Not anymore. The Secret Service's highly sophisticated electronic surveillance setup has led to the capture of numerous Mexicans attempting to slip over the border.

Six Mexican aliens were captured by presidential security forces earlier this week as they walked north on the beach near the Nixon villa. Agents shouted for them to halt and they scattered. Secret Service agents captured them and turned them over to the U.S Border Patrol.

Irish Sects Clash, 'Same Old Story'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Police and British troops broke up a stone-throwing clash early today between Roman Catholics and Protestants in Belfast's Old Park district.

"A crowd of about 100 Protestants met a crowd of 100 Catholics and they just started throwing stones at each other," an army spokesman said. "It was nothing more than the old, old story." He said no injuries were reported and no arrests made.

Venice Film Festival Lauds Sir Laurence

VENICE, Italy (UPI) — Sir Lawrence Olivier was the most lauded man at the Venice Film Festival today for his adaption of Anton Chekhov's "Three Sisters," considered the 19th Century Russian playwright's most profound drama.

Sir Laurence, who plays in the picture opposite his wife, Joan Plowright, was in the Balearic islands recovering from a recent collapse in Britain. He arrived there Wednesday, the same day the first film he has directed in 13 years was shown at the festival.

Critical acclaim for the 63-year-old Olivier was unreserved.

"Laurence Olivier is the greatest living actor of the English stage and one of the greatest in the entire history of the British theater," one critic said.

Critics agreed Olivier has progressed considerably from his first movies, where he tended simply to film stage versions of plays. He now has more flexibility, they said.

The only complaint they had was against the length of the film, nearly three hours.

Texas Road Expenses Amount To $8 Billion

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Nearly $8 billion has been spent in Texas for construction and maintenance of roads since the state highway department was created in 1917.

Construction has included 37,865 miles of farm and ranch roads, 25,809 miles of U.S. and state highways and 2,749 miles of interstate roadways.

Agnew In Saigon; Sees No Delay In Withdrawing Troops

SAIGON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in Saigon today and said there was no chance of a delay in U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam.

"The Cambodian venture has made it possible to go forward with this and we will go forward with it," Agnew told newsmen aboard his plane as it flew to Saigon from Nationalist China.

Agnew was referring to the allied offfensive earlier this summer against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia, a nation he is expected to visit Friday.

Although he denied any plans for a trip to Cambodia, dispatches from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh today said all preparations had been made and that the vice president would have lunch with Premier Lon Nol and other officials.

Official sources said last minute security problems could force postponement of the Cambodian trip. A village nine miles north of Phnom Penh has been under Communist pressures for the past week.

Agnew landed at Bien Hoa air base 18 miles northwest of Saigon today and was flown in a helicopter to the presidential palace in downtown Saigon for talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu which began at 1:45 p.m. just as a monsoon rain drenched the South Vietnamese capital.

In his chat with newsmen aboard the plane, Agnew said U. S. officials such as Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who demanded early withdrawal of U. S. troops from Vietnam are "dangerously wrong" and "must be disagreed with on very firm terms."

Agnew arrived in Saigon in the monsoon rainstorm on the third stop of his Asian tour, flying from Taiwan where he assured Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek the United States will stick by its treaty commitments to Nationalist China.

The government of South Korea, Agnew's first stop, today denied that President Park Chun-Hee gave Agnew his consent to a U.S. plan to withdraw 20,000 of the 64,000 American soldiers in Korea.

"Our basic position stands unchanged," said Information Minister Shin Bum-shik. "Measures to modernize the Korean armed forces should be agreed upon first before any U.S. troop cutback."

Agnew spent 9-1-2 hours with Park in intensive talks over the cutback.

Agnew said today in Saigon the only kind of coalition government the United States would stand for in Vietnam was one elected by the people.

"We're for free elections and whatever government comes out of free elections," he said. "We are against the idea of an imposed coalition government."

A coalition government to include the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is a basic demand of Communist delegates to the Paris talks.

Agnew said there was a diversity of opinion over U.S. policy in Southeast Asia, but that:

"I find myself in violent disagreement with people such as Senator Fulbright. I don't impute his motives or I don't think he's less patriotic for expresisng his convictions, but I think he's very, very wrong and dangerously wrong and since he is, he, in my opinion, is in a position where he must be disagreed with and on very firm terms."

Thuy Tired, Stays Away From Talks; Bruce Back

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam announced today its chief negotiator at the Paris talks, Xuan Thuy, would return to the conference table next week to end an eight-month boycott. A spokesman said Thuy was tired and unable to attend today's negotiating session.

U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, who stayed away from the talks last week to protest Thuy's absence, returned to the conference today for the 81st session. He declined comment on the possibility of secret talks with Thuy.

Thuy arrived back in Paris Wednesday after a long absence, raising hopes that he would attend the session today and move toward breaking the deadlocked negotiations. But a spokesman said Thuy was wearied by his journey from Hanoi via Peking and Moscow and was "taking a little rest."

"He will be present at the next session," the spokesman said.

Thuy has not attended the talks since Dec. 4, 1969. He walked out to protest President Nixon's failure to immediately appoint a successor when Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge resigned as chief negotiator. Bruce took over from Lodge earlier this month.

As he entered the session today Bruce told newsmen: "I am going to follow the same line that I have in previous meetings." Asked if he had any new proposals, Bruce replied: "I have not."

Nguyen Minh Vy, North Vietnam's deputy negotiator, repeated previous charges by Hanoi that the United States is not interested in Vietnam peace.

Bruce, in his statement today, urged the Communist side to "abandon the language of propaganda and begin the process of serious negotiation."

"I have spoken of the need to avoid propaganda, to avoid setting preconditions to serious discussion and to set aside demands for one-sided action," Bruce said in addressing Vy. "Unfortunately, your remarks today continue to offer little encouragement that you are prepared o do so."

The session lasted three hours, and Communist negotiators said "no progress" was made. The parties agreed to meet again next Thursday.

Time Running Out On Transfers

Some Sausalito Reviews Before Sept. 8 Openings

By PAT ANGLE and GEORGE NEVIN

With the first day of school only 10 days away, parents of more than 50 children in the Sausalito School District still don't know where their children will be attending fall classes.

For a variety of reasons — educational, political and personal — these parents have requested interdistrict transfers so their youngsters may attend schools in other districts.

But this year they are finding other Southern Marin Districts — which in the past have accomodated the annual summer departure of students from Sausalito — are either openly opposed to or at least wary of accepting transfer students in wholesale lots.

The two most geographically convenient districts, Mill Valley and Reed, are the choices of most would-be transfers. But in both districts the prospects are bleak for youngsters who want to enter for the first time. Most transfer renewals have been approved.

To date Sausalito parents have asked for 21 new transfers to the Mill Valley District; only two have been granted. The noose began tightening last month when the Mill Valley board decided to abandon its old "we'll-take-anyone" policy.

"We've always cooperated with Sausalito, but this kind of influx comes at the wrong time," said Mill Valley Supt. James A. Collins. "This places us in an embarrassing position, but we have to maintain programs for our own children.

"If we get 20 more kids, we'd have to pay $18,000 for another portable classroom and hire another teacher for $10,000," he said. As a result, he said, "We would have a serious dent in our educational program."

Collins thinks the ultimate solution is unification of Southern Marin School Districts. For the present, he doesn't know how to solve the problem.

In another light, Friese said he feels Sausalito will not be helped if other districts accept all transfers. "I don't think we should continue to abet the problems," he said, "but instead should assist Sausalito — in any way we can — in providing the kind of educational program the parents want."

In Sausalito, trustees have agreed to abandon the district's current policy of allowing any student to go elsewhere without questioning the reasons.

The open-door policy was adopted earlier this year by the former board after the Marin County Board of Education overruled seven of the board's transfer denials.

Trustees voted Tuesday to take no action on 27 new requests until in-depth studies can be made on each case, a radical departure from the past year — and even from last month — when transfer requests were approved routinely.

The board, apparently receiving pressure from other districts and the Marin County schools office, took the action at the recommendation of interim Supt. Robert E. Spain.

In the past, Spain and trustee Delta Christ, who voted to withhold approval, have indicated they felt parents have the right to determine where their children should attend school.

But on Tuesday Spain said that by not making studies and recommendations on each transfer applicant, the district was creating problems for other districts and the county board.

Board president Nathaniel Johnson protested the policy change, saying he left the county board, in overruling Sausalito's decision last year, had taken on the responsibility for providing for those students Sausalito let loose.

Exactly how great the crush of transfer students will be by Sept. 8 (the first day of school) still is difficult to determine. To date this summer parents of 56 students have asked for transfers, but Spain said he feels the district can expect a "big upsurge" in requests before the opening day of classes.

However, he predicted that the loss of students will be nowhere near the 250-300 category predicted by some of the district's more gloomy forecasters. "I don't think we are going to lose even 110," he said.

The superintendent has not yet given up on even those parents who already have asked to remove their children from Sausalito. He plans to invite them and all district parents to a reception in honor of Armando Renzullo and Henry Hopkins, the two new principals hired last month.

"Come September we are going to have a well-coordinated, cohesive educational program, with additional emphasis on reading and math," he said. "I want these people to meet the principals and see what we have to offer."

Parents who are seeking transfers — especially those who already have appealed to the county board of education when other districts turned down their children — seem reluctant to talk about their plans or reasons for leaving.

One man spoke for most of them when he told the Independent-Journal, "I'll talk to you later, but right now I don't want to jeopardize my chances with the county board through publicity."

With time running out, the next step is up to the county board. The final decision about what to do in what essentially is a Southern Marin problem rests with that group, charged by law with ruling on appeals of transfer denials.

The county board will hold a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the county office to consider the appeals.

Two options are open to the board, according to Lyle Wright, acting director of administrative services — it can uphold or reject Mill Valley's denials of the transfers.

Wright said he thought the board's decision also will consider the larger question of how to handle such transfer disputes in the future without resorting to the time-consuming appeals route.

"I'm making no recommendation," he said, "and it's hard to say what the board will do." But he believed it might split on the appeals, granting some and denying others.

No matter what action the board takes, it certainly must consider one factor — the future of integration in the Sausalito school district.

Since September 1968 enrollment has dropped from 987 to its present 654 and the vast majority of students who have left have been white.

When the last school year ended, black children comprised about 55 per cent of the student population; this year the percentage will be even higher. Several parents (who refused to be identified) mentioned they did not want their children at Martin Luther King school "because it will be mostly black."

Clearly, the departure of white students, if allowed to continue unchecked, could destroy the noble experiment of "true" integration begun in the district in 1965.

Safety Employees Reject County Pay-Raise Offer

County safety employees, including sheriff's deputies, firemen and communications workers, yesterday turned down the county's latest proposal of a 7.5 per cent pay raise by a nearly 2-to-1 vote.

The emphatic rejection stalemates negotiations between the county and the safety employees and poses the possibility of a strike or work slowdown on next Tuesday, when the present work contract expires.

The county's offer was rejected 93 to 49. The bulk of the "no" votes are believed to be from the sheriff's deputies, who are holding out for a 12.5 per cent raise.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association, which is bargaining for the safety employees, said he does not have a breakdown of the 142 votes cast.

Both Prevo and County Administrator Alan Bruce, who heads the county negotiating team, said they hope for further talks to break the deadlock. The safety employees' 1969 contract, which expired July 1, was extended for 60 days, and the extension period ends on midnight next Monday.

Wade R. Powell, spokesman for the sheriff's deputies, said the deputies will meet tomorrow night at the civic center to map a "Course of action." He said a strike or slowdown has not been ruled out.

Bruce said he will join Prevo in asking state conciliator James Marshall of San Francisco to try to break the deadlock.

"Our people have indicated they won't accept the offer (7.5 per cent)," said Prevo. "So if they (the county) are willing to make a different offer, we'll meet with them. Otherwise, there's no use meeting."

"We'll keep talking," said Bruce. "Certainly, we don't expect the safety employees to take actions that are illegal or irresponsible. We are making plans to face any situation that may develop."

Bruce said the offer rejected by the safety employees yesterday would have given sheriff's deputies, firemen and communications workers a 7.5 per cent raise as of Sept. 1, plus time-and-a-half for overtime work. The only exceptions would have been cooks and clerical workers, who would have received a 5 per cent raise.

Top pay now for sheriff's deputies is $892 per month, and for county firemen $829 per month. The 7.5 per cent raise would have upped the top pay to $960 for deputies and $892 for firemen.

This would have brought the pay of deputies above salaries of patrolmen in every city except Novato and San Rafael, said Bruce. Top pay for patrolmen in San Rafael is $976 and in Novato, $964. In other cities the top pay for patrolmen are as follows:

Belvedere, $950, Corte Madera, $927; Fairfax, $883 now and $905 as of next January; Mill Valley, $829; San Anselmo, $935; and Sausalito, $940.

If no agreement is reached by Sept. 1, the Marin County Board of Supervisors has authorized the county to raise the pay of all safety employees by 5 per cent, a raise which the safety employees have refused to accept.

In asking the safety employees to vote on the 7.5 per cent proposal, the county administrator attached an explanatory letter, including this observation:

"As is no doubt shown by all members of the unit, strikes, slowdowns or work stoppages by public employees in general and by emergency employees in particular are prohibited by California law. The county counsel is prepared at any time to take whatever steps may be necessary to see that the law is upheld. We are sure that this will not be necessary. It is inconceivable that unlawfulness would originate from those very public servants sworn to enforce the law."

Candidates' Coffee

Robert E. Fisher Jr. and Royce McLemore of Marin City, two of four candidates for two seats on the Sausalito School District board, will attend a coffee today at 8 p.m. at Margo Braymann home, 166 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito.

Sonoma State To Hold Picnic

Faculty and staff members of the Sonoma State College will gather for their annual picnic on Sept. 13 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Union Hotel picnic grounds, Occidental.

James C. Cox, staff council chairman, said the picnic is both a social and fund raising event. Proceeds will benefit the council's student emergency loan fund. The council has donated a total of $1,000 to the fund and has assisted 51 needy Sonoma State students.

The picnic will include live music and entertainment, dancing, contests, door prizes, volleyball and horseshoes.

Communications Set For Dipsea Race

The Marin Amateur Radio Club will again supply communivations for the 60th annual Dipsea handicap foot race to be run from Mill Valley to Stinson Beach Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Amateur radio equipment installed in automobiles will be stationed at the start and finish lines and intermediate points to relay information.

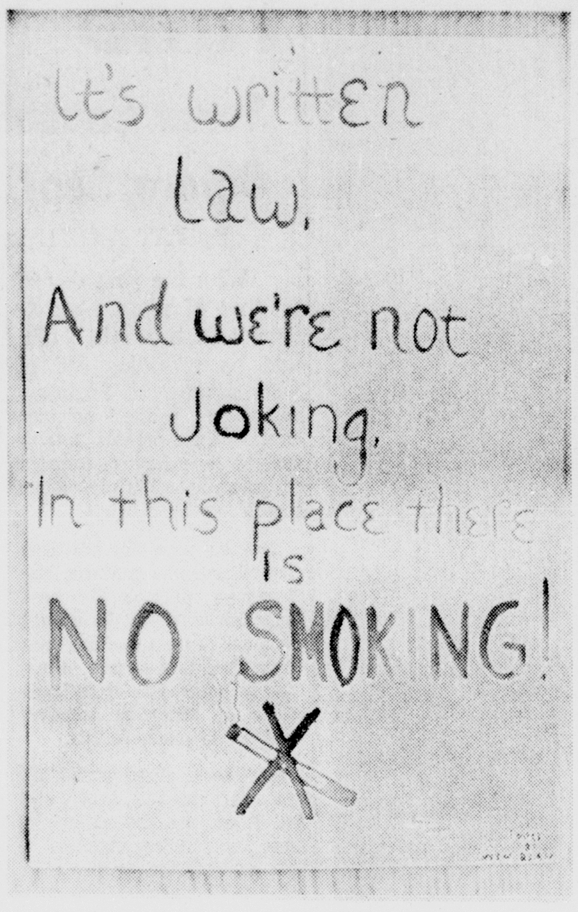
YOUNG POTTER — A boy at Marin Juvenile Hall creates with a potter's wheel in a new crafts program recently started there. Often the delinquent youngsters have not participated in this kind of activity before.

GIRLS' CLASS — Teacher Virginia Montoya guides a student at the hall in learning typing skills. Such classes are held throughout the year now with all youngsters attending school each weekday.



NO SMOKING — Cigarette smoking is now a "no-no" at Marin Juvenile Hall, where a "tightening up" has replaced former permissiveness. Youngsters at the hall have cooperated by making posters like this.

CLEAN CLOTHES — Housekeeper Anna McHugh (right) hands a stack of fresh socks to a juvenile hall girl inmate. All youngsters are provided with clean clothing when they arrive at the hall, and Mrs. McHugh keeps a close tab on it three one-week breaks instead of a three-month hiatus.

New Atmosphere At Marin Juvenile Hall

The summer program includes half a morning of academic activities and the other half filled with crafts such as tie dying, pottery and jewelry-making.

"It's not much but it's something for kids who have never done anything like this before," Yarchin said while leading a tour of the crafts room.

Gone, too, is much of the permissiveness which marked Juvenile Hall in former years and shocked grand juries annually.

"No smoking" signs printed by the youngsters are in evidence everywhere — and are strictly enforced both for the youthful inmates and the staff, who are allowed breaks to smoke outside the presence of the youngsters.

"We got rid of the smoking gradually," Yarchin said. "First we quit buying cigarettes for the youngsters, then we stopped their being brought in and finally we forbid any smoking."

Why?

"For a very simple reason — it's against the law for persons under 18 to smoke," Yarchin said.

Although the furniture in the older buildings at the hall is still either in a state of disrepair or nonexistent (a budget request was denied this year), the rooms are clean.

"The youngsters do all the cleaning up here," Yarchin explained, and "they are now being held accountable for anything they break or destroy, a change from the past."

Juvenile hall inmates are supplied with clean clothing when they enter the hall, and under Yarchin's direction, a new outlook has taken place even on this subject.

"We just got a whole bunch of new tennis shoes and we're going to get the boots off the boys," he said. "They mark the floors and besides, they're a lethal weapon," he explained.

As for hygiene, the superintendent feels that that has to be taught in an unobtrusive manner, such as during sports programs.

He has just purchased a punching bag and body bag for the senior boys' unit with money received from the Juvenile Court Auxiliary and adds "I would give anything for a gymnasium or exercise room."

As for the girls, volunteers now help them with hair-do's and other volunteers teach such womanly arts as sewing and knitting.

Another innovation is a weekly religious program conducted on Thursday evenings by a Catholic priest and Protestant minister. Although attendance at the sessions which feature discussions and films is voluntary, Yarchin said "it has been good."

Outings at the hall are pretty much confined to field trips in connection with school classes or other activities and have included trips to see the Bay Model in Sausalito and to baseball games.

Purely "play outings," such as the one to the beach at which youngsters received drugs in 1969 prior to the death of a 16-year-old girl inmate are out now, Yarchin said.

As for drugs, he said that in the year he has been superintendent, there has been only one case of contraband being brought into the hall. He credits this with the 'sharing down" of youngsters whenever they return to the hall.

Staff members have been given instructions as to how to search for contraband, he said, and they also do not allow outside youngsters to hang around the hall fences. Visitors are confined to parents of the youngsters, Yarchin said.

Constanly searching for ways to improve the program without money to spend, Yarchin recently found a way to obtain bright, fresh magazines for the youngsters.

Knowing that post offices throw away undeliverable publications, he asked San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy for such throw-aways and now receives a large batch each week from the Civic Center branch.

Yarchin moves through the juvenile hall buildings, greeting youngsters by name and answering questions wherever he goes.

A youngster in the junior boys' unit found with his feet up on a couch was admonished to put them down. When he did not do so immediately, another boy said, "He said, get your feet down,"' and the first boy complied quickly.

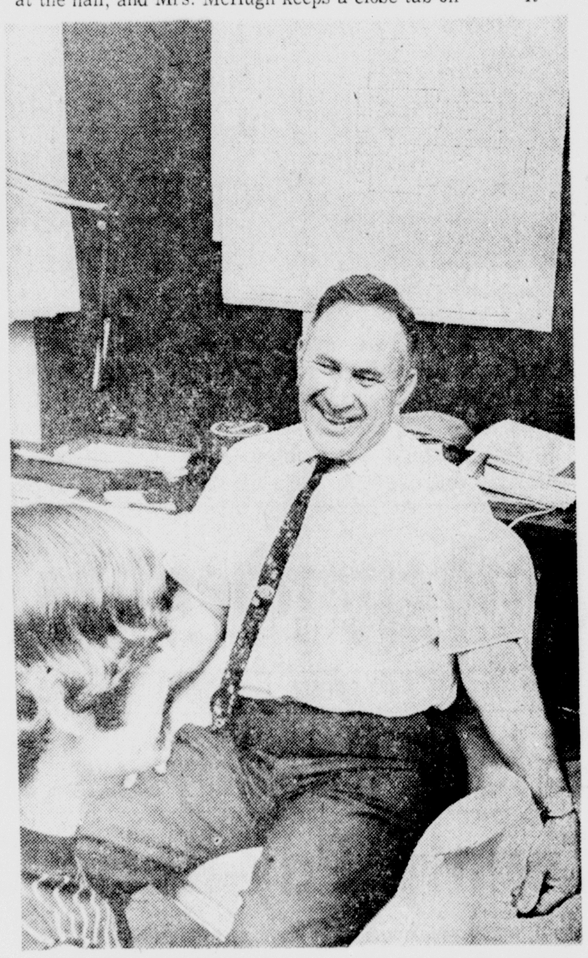
A girl who approached Yarchin with a list of toilet articles she said she was not allowed to have was told to settle it with the staff in her unit. Yarchin warned her, however, that "pressure cans are out."

He explained that they are dangerous as explosives and they can also be used for "sniffing."

Throughout all the innovations made by Yarchin, one senses his attitude both of concern for the youngsters but also that "We're running an institution for kids who cannot be free in the community."

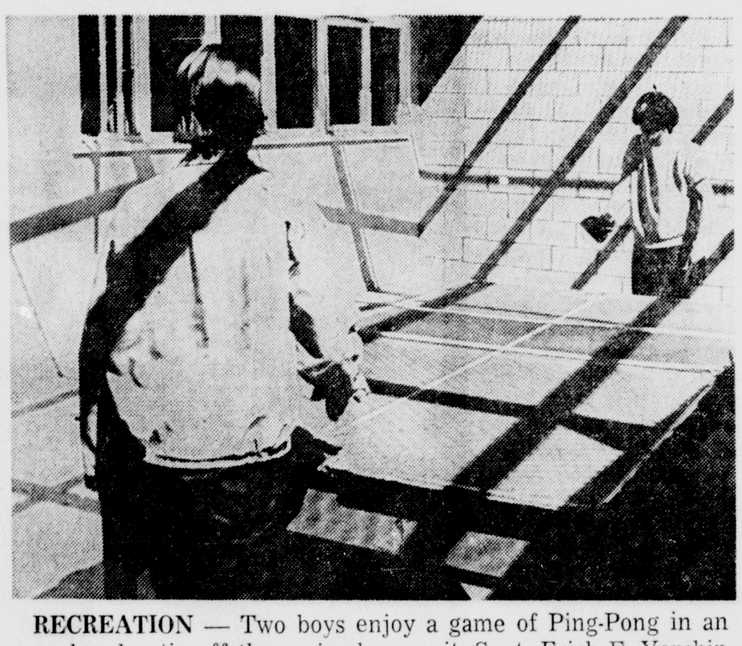
In the past, he said smilingly, "Marin County built a juvenile hall and put a lot of plants around it, hoping it was completely camouflaged and could be forgotten.

"Then Marin wouldn't have to admit that there were delinquent kids here. Only when some climbed the fence, did people notice the hall and blame the superintendent for letting them escape."



NEW CHIEF — Erick F. Yarchin, (right) who has been superintendent at Marin Juvenile Hall for the past year, shares a joke with counselor Michael Dicebo. Yarchin has brought a fresh approach to the hall, which was without a superintendent for two years.

BOOKING — A missing girl sought by authorities since she failed to show up for a juvenile court hearing is booked into Juvenile Hall by Mill Valley officers.



RECREATION — Two boys enjoy a game of Ping-Pong in an enclosed patio off the senior boys unit. Supt. Erick F. Yarchin wishes he had more equipment for the youngsters to use for physical exercise.

Bronze Stars To Two Petalumans

Two Petaluma men — Army W/O Charles C. Stauft and SP/4 Gary D. Presley — have been awarded Bronze Stars for meritorious service in Vietnam.

Stuaft received his award while serving as a helicopter pilot nuear Long Binh. A 1968 graduate of Petaluma Senior High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Stauft, 212 Bassett Street.

Presley earned his award while serving as a survey computer with the 16th Artillery Division. He entered the Army January 1969 and was stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., before going to Vietnam. He is the son of Wilmat G. Presley, 21 Jess Avenue, Petaluma, and Mrs. Marilyn Whiteaker of Ukiah.

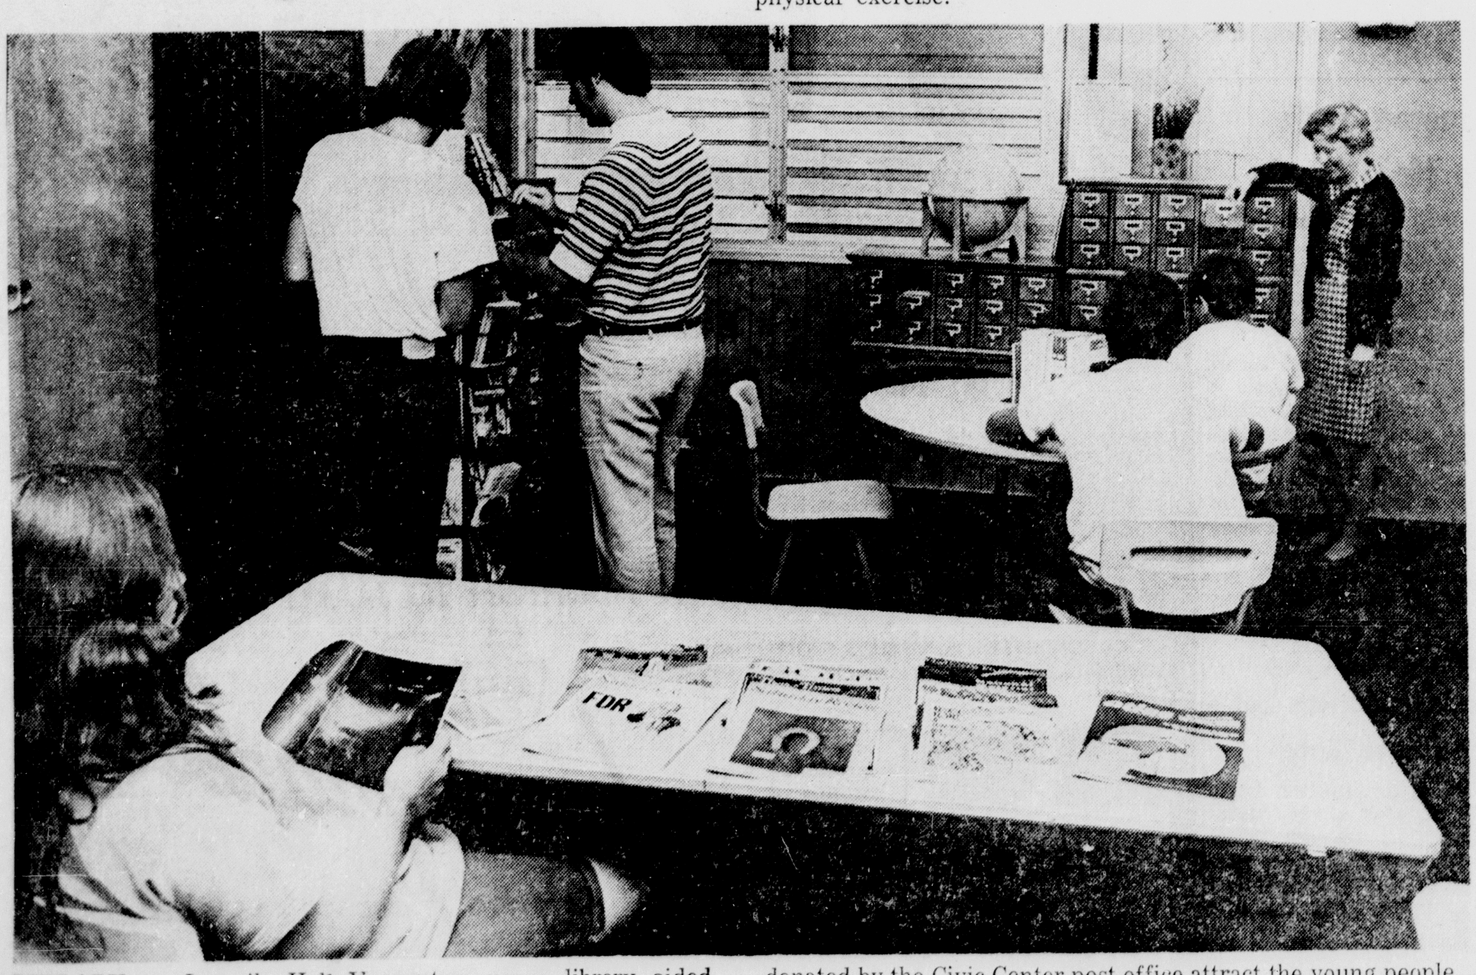
Unsecured Land Taxes Nearing

Taxes on unsecured property will become delinquent as of midnight next Monday, Tax Collector-Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez announced today.

He explained that unsecured taxes are levied on pleasure boats, houseboats, business inventory and other equipment not attached to any real property.

Each year, unsecured property taxes are billed separately from the regular property taxes on land and improvements.

A penalty of 6 per cent will be added to all unsecured property taxes that are not paid by Sept. 1.



LIBRARY — Juvenile Hall Youngsters use a library aided by a counselor and volunteer librarian. Bright new magazines donated by the Civic Center post office attract the young people, who are often not good readers.

SICK CALL — Nurse June Siem checks a girl inmate at the dispensary at Juvenile Hall. A nurse is now on duty every day, a switch from former years when medical attention was more casual at the hall.

CHILDREN RIDE CAR TO POOLSIDE

Court Intervenes To Permit Burial

MIAMI (UPI)—A federal judge ordered a whites-only cemetery in Fort Pierce, Fla., today to permit the burial of a Negro soldier killed in Vietnam.

Friends of the family announced immediately that Spec. 4 Pondexter E. Williams will be buried with full military honors Saturday in Hillcrest Memorial Gardens, a cemetery previously reserved for white persons.

U.S. District Judge William O. Mehrtens said he was issuing a temporary injunction prohibiting Hillcrest from interfering with the interment of Williams.

The conflict arose when the soldier's mother, Mrs. Mary Campbell, answering a Hillcrest advertised offer of free burial for Vietnam combat victims, was turned down because he was black. A court suit, with the Justice Department joining in as a "friend of the court" ensued.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Schizophrenia Recovery Rate Low Even With Proper Care

Van Dellen

More than 300,00 people in mental hospitals have schizophrenia (skiz-o-fre-ne-ah). With or without treatment, one-third get well, one-third remain totally disabled, and one-third are released to their families. The latter are not sick enough to be institutionalized and not well enough to live healthy, happy lives. The recovery rate is not high, but there is hope, especially when the condition is treated early and the victim continues receiving psychiatric care after leaving the hospital.

The disease usually begins before the age of 30. Whatever the cause, the victim gradually fades out of reality and enters a world different from that of a normal person. Because the schizophrenic lives in a shell he is isolated from family and friends. Early symptoms include insomnia, headache, change in body odor, intense preoccupation with self, crying fits, fatigue, and deep depression for no apparent reason.

THE TRUE NATURE of schizophrenia becomes more evident when the man or woman begins to act strangely due to changes in preception, thought, and mood. He begins to act out or discuss experiences in his imaginary (but real to him) world.

He is hallucinating when he sees things, scenes, and people that others do not see. In addition, bothersome noises or voices tell him what to do or how to behave. There also may be changes in the senses of smell, touch, and taste.

DISTURANCES IN thought also are common. Memory may be impaired and recall is difficult. Schizophrenics also develop false beliefs (delusions) which grow out of their perceptive impairments. Many complain of being persecuted by the communists or "that man in the office."

Meanwhile, the depression deepens. Signs of severe inner tension also may ensue and the victim appears to be seething with anger or overwhelmed with fear. Some become violent but the majority are peaceful and harmless. Suicide, however, is always a possibility.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

BAKING SODA AND INDIGESTION

L.N.T. writes: At least three times a week I get so uncomfortable after eating I have to take baking soda for relief. Is this practice harmful?

REPLY

No, but if your indigestion is coming from a serious ailment you are wasting valuable, if not lifesaving, time getting temporary relief with baking soda.

BREAK IT GENTLY

A reader writes: How can you tell a person he ought to see a psychiatrist without hurting his feelings?

REPLY

If you feel you must do so, tell him that 80 per cent of all patients who consult a psychiatrist have emotional or nervous disorders and are not insane. As a last resort, suggest that he see a "nerve doctor."

PARAKEET BITE

A.R.C. writes: What should a person do if he is bitten by a parakeet?

REPLY

Wash the injured area with soap and water. And let this bite teach you to keep your finger out of the cage.

SUNBATHING AND HEART

G.H. writes: Is it safe for a person who had a slight heart attack to sunbathe? His blood pressure is low.

REPLY

Yes. But he should avoid overexposure.

Driver Injured Leaving Auto

A 57-year-old Ross man suffered a cut left hand in San Anselmo yesterday when his stopped auto was struck by another vehicle, police said.

Norman Hendrickson of 8 Fern Hill Avenue was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Police said the open door of his car was hit at 4:45 p.m. in front of 615 San Anselmo Avenue by an auto driven by Sebastian Cimino, 67, of 12 Meernaa Avenue, Fairfax. Hendrickson was alighting from his auto, police said.

Salad Bowl Price Hike To Hit East

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)—Lettuce price increases, already felt in California, will spread eastward within days because of a Salinas Valley strike, a wholesaler predicts.

Wholesaler Joe Carcione made his forecast in San Francisco Wednesday. A carton of 24 heads of iceberg (head) lettuce now costs $6 in San Francisco, instead of the usual $3.

Growers said production in the Salinas Valley, "America's Salad Bowl," was about 45 per cent of usual on the third day of a jurisdictional walkout called by Cesar Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

Union men said that 5,000 of the valley's 7,000-person work force was on strike.

The valley produces at least 70 per cent of the nation's lettuce and the shortage already has been felt in Chicago where market experts said only small supplies are coming in from Colorado, Wisconsin, and Santa Maria, Calif. The strike also is in effect in Santa Maria.

Retail prices in San Francisco, 100 miles away, varied markedly. One large chain of groceries held to the price of two-heads for 39 cents it advertised before the strike started Monday.

Prices at other stores ranged from 39 cents for a single head, down to 29 cents.

Marin School Candidates Given More Time To File

Marin school board candidates have until Sept. 10 to declare their candidacy in the Nov. 3 election despite a new state law that makes that deadline forward to tomorrow.

Peter C. Meyer, head of the county elections department, said he had conferred with County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and decided to waive the provisions of the emergency legislation, SB-1421, thus giving school board candidates until Sept. 10 to file.

Meyer said he is willing to waive the new law for other special elections set for Nov. 3, but this will be up to the districts involved and their respective attorneys. Other elections on Nov. 3 are Marin General Hospital District, Strawberry Recreation District, and the Terra Linda Parks and Recreation District.

In the Terra Linda Parks and Recreation District, for example, the deadline under the old law was Sept. 4. Meyer said he is willing to hold the filing date open to Sept. 4, if the district so desires. However, if the district wants to cut off the filing on Aug. 28, it would be well within the new law, said Meyer. "That is the problem of each district, and I will go along with whatever they decide."

The bill became law on Aug. 6, and fixed the filing deadline for elections consolidated with the Nov. 3 election to 67 days before the election or Aug. 28. This was to give county clerks throughout the state more lead time in preparing for elections. However, under existing education code provisions, candidates for school boards have until 54 days before the election, or Sept. 10, to declare their candidacy.

The effect of the new law would be to shorten the filing time for candidates for the Tamalpais High School District, Fairfax School District and Ross School District governing boards. Those who had relied on published notices giving them until Sept. 10 to file may be prevented from doing so by the sudden reduction in filing time.

On the advice of the county counsel, Meyer said he decided to waive the new provisions and give Marin school board candidates until Sept. 10 to file.

Scholarships To Five Musicians

Five youthful Marin musicians have received $200 scholarships awarded by the Marin Music Chest in auditions held at San Domenico School for Girls.

Awarded scholarships were Michele Bergman, cellist, and violinists Carol Tomlinson, Mark Jordan, and Peter Maunu, all of San Rafael, and Charles Way, oboist, from Mill Valley.

The musicians will make their public debut during intermission of the closing concert of the Marin Music Chest Summer Series at 3 p.m. Sept. 13 in Forest Meadows Theater in San Rafael.

TV REVIEW

Miss Colon Never Gets The Hero

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—A casting director ordered to look for someone to play the wife of an Anglo-Saxon Wall Street analyst would never think of Miriam Colon. And this strikes Miss Colon as wryly amusing since she is married to just such a man.

But she is also a Puerto Rican and Miss Colon says Puerto Ricans never get the Caucasian hero in television scripts, only in real life.

If you watch television you know Miss Colon's face even if her name has escaped you in the final blur of credits whizzing off the screen to make way for the commercials. She is one of the most seen actresses on the tube. The Defenders, Dr. Kildare, Alfred Hitchcock Presents, Ben Casey, Dick Van Dyke.

SOMETHING ELSE

You name it. She's been on it. But always as a Mexican, an Indian, an Italian, a Greek, a Latin-American or even a Puerto Rican.

The other day she appeared at the CBS-TV offices for a preview of the "Gunsmoke" episode which opens the 16th season of that most successful of all western series on Sept. 14. There are estimates James Arness, as Matt Dillon, has himself earned some $30 million out of the show.

The episode is titled "Chato" and Miss Colon plays a co-starring role (as a Mexivan, of course) rated of such importance she was summoned back from a holiday in Greece to enact it. It is, she says, a part of great emotion, character and depth. There is however a penalty for all this—she dies.

The tendency of television to type-cast anyone who doesn't conform to certain stereotypes irks Miss Colon, who is founder of the Puerto Rican Travelling Theater which performs in New York slum areas.

NURSE OR WIFE

"The Mexican Girl is never a school teacher," she complained. "She's always the widow of a man who was killed, or the harlot in the bar. If she's a Mexican can't she ever be a nurse or a wife? Let's face it, there are scientists who are Latin-Americans. Yet although many nationalities make up the fabric of the country they won't admit them into the story line.

"I don't really blame the casting directors. They are handcuffed by the script. If the writer calls for a blue-eyed yellow-haired girl what can they do? If such a girl is demanded to make the story believable that's okay. I don't want to play a Swedish girl. That's not my point.

"But look at Los Angeles. How many men there are married to Latin-American girls and Puerto Ricans? How many Latin-American girls are teachers in Chicago or married to businessmen there?"

Otherwise Miss Colon is very happy with her career. She can sing and dance and do any number of dialects. She got good notices in her only Broadway show. There are plenty of roles for her this television season. Once the greasepaint is off and she gets back to her Manhattan apartment she becomes Mrs. George P. Edgar.

Why she asks, can't she be a Mrs. George P. Edgar on the television screen?

Man-Made Fire Above The Normal

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State Division of Forestry reported today that the number of man-caused fires this year is running 50 per cent above normal.

And the number one fire-starter is the careless child playing with matches, who accounts for 24 per cent of the blazes.

"It's mostly kids playing with matches, smoking behind a haystack or just playing out in the woods," said Robert Burns, a spokesman for the division.

Burns said the dry, hot summer has created a tinderbox in California's vast brushlands and forests. "The fire severity is higher this year than normal," he said.

Burns said the northeast section of the state is the most dangerous at present, but added the fire potential "seems to be creeping southwards."

"Everything is very critical and if we get winds on top of it, we're going to get large fires," he said. "We're geared and our fire crews are ready."

He said the division and U.S. Forest Service experts predict the critical fire season, which began in May, will last another six to eight weeks.

"We're getting into the critical time now," Burns said, "because of the continued hot, dry weather that sucks the moisture from plants and trees."

He said as the humidity drops and the temperature rises, the "ignition ability" of pine humus and forest litter—the initial fuel for fires—increases proportionately.

Burns said other sources for fires are machines, such as farm implements, welding torches, automobiles, railroad trains—"everything that has hot carbon or hot sparks."

Money Wanted From Frouge

Suits have been filed in Marin Superior Court by former Marin County Supervisor Vera Schultz and architect Edmund C. Heine Jr. for money they say is owed them be the Frouge Corp. and the estate of the late Thomas Frouge.

Mrs. Schultz said that she has not been paid $29,425 for public relations work which she did with the firm in connection with the controversial Marincello project.

Heine said that he is owed $11,065. Both want 7 per cent interest on the sums for the period since August 1968.

Marincello was to be a huge planned community in the Marin Headlands and a master plan was approved by the board of supervisors in 1965 but no building ever took place.

Frouge died in New York last year.

London Raid Nets Weapons

LONDON (UPI)—One of the largest coordinated police raids in Britain's history netted several submachine guns, rifles and a quantity of explosives and resulted in the arrest of several persons, police sources said today.

The raids on more than 100 locations, about half of them in the London area, were carried out Wednesday night in such secrecy even some local police agencies were unaware of them in advance, the sources said.

An initial statement from Scotland Yard said the raids were directed against the outlawed Irish Republican Army and other extremist groups. But later the Yard spokesman denied this, saying, "there was no political significance in the operation."

Casper Won Page In History Book

I have a feeling William Earl Casper won more than just the $32,000 Monday in the Avco Golf Classic in New England. I think he finally won his own page in the history book of Golf.

No longer does he have to eat the same food as a lion to get his name in the papers. No longer will his diet, his religion, his fishing skill, or even his putting be the most interesting thing about him.

WITH SARAZEN, JONES, HOGAN

He has climbed on a plateau with Sarazen, Jones, Hagen, even Hogan. He can play this game of golf as only about a dozen men in all the long history of the game could play it. He can do it in an era when the refinements of the game are such that you can't size up a field any more and realize privately that there are really only one or two — or three or four — out there that you have to beat. Everybody in an alpaca sweater in the field is a threat today.

In an era when great players have trouble winning ONE tournament a year, Billy Casper has now won FOUR. The last guy to win that many in a year was Casper. He took SIX in 1968. He has won 13 tournaments in three years. Some guys haven't made that many cuts.

Billy has been the stepchild of the game for too many years. He must feel like the guy they give a party for — and then Elizabeth Taylor shows up. Or Elizabeth the Queen. Or like the guy who plays a superb Hamlet — and the rave notices go to the gravedigger. He's like the kid who knocks himself out in school to get good grades, does the dishes for his mother, baby-sits and window-washes — and all she can talk about is the baby.

MORE WINS THAN BIG THREE

He's like the guy the frat brothers borrow money from but never ask along on the date. He goes to a big party and the society columns report "among those present were the Bill Cappers." He's been as unnoticed as the butler.

He beat Arnold Palmer for the U.S. Open and the headline said "Palmer Loses!" or "Arnie Blows Lead!" They interviewed Casper as if he was just an eyewitness to the tragedy.

Then, there was the "Big Three." Guess whowasnot one of them? A guy who has won more PGA tournaments and major tournaments 1966-1970 than the "Big Three" COMBINED! Who won the Vardon Trophy (best stroke-average per round) three times in five years? While two of the "Big Three" have NEVER won it, and Arnold Palmer won it four times but only once in the past five years.

In the past five years, the "Big Three" have managed to miss the cuts in one of the major U.S. championships. Casper didn't. He once went 100 straight tournaments in the money (i.e. not only finishing, but high enough to get paid).

TIME FOR RECOGNITION

So it's about time the golf world stopped asking, "Who's that out there beating Arnold Palmer?" or writing, "No Name Players in Leave-Bank Open" just because Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, and/or Gary Player didn't show up.

I won't go so far as to say the "Big Three" are the "Big Through." Casper, 39, may get run over by the rush of youth himself from now on. The Mets, the AFL, the Knicks have shown that youth may make Buffalo Billy as extinct as the species he dines on.

But, before that happens, someone should have the decency to train a set of binoculars on a golf gallery and say "Which one of the 'Big Three' is that playing with Billy Casper." Or they should throw a GGO, or some other tournament the "Big Three" give the big freeze to, the headline should read: "Big C in Tourney Opening Today — Record Crowds Foreseen."

Casper Sets Sights On Dow Jones Title

CLINTON, N.J. (UPI)—Billy Casper's sights are set on at least one more tournament victory this year. Practicality dictates his preference.

The year's top pro moneywinner, Casper—who already has four tournament titles and $139,585 in his pocket—figures the $60,000 first prize in the Dow Jones Open this weekend would be a perfect punctuation to one of his finest seasons.

"I'd like to win at least one more tournament before the year is over and the Dow Jones would certainly be a nice one," said Casper, winner of 47 tour events in his career.

The battle for the biggest jackpot in PGA history began today at Upper Montclair Country Club with Casper scheduled among the late starters. A total of $300,000 in prize money was on the line.

Casper this year has won the Los Angeles Open, Masters, Philadelphia Classic and AVCO Classic, last Monday at Sutton, Mass. He's approaching his best year, 1968, when he won six tournaments and a record $205,168.

"If I can play as well as I did Monday, I should do well here," Casper said. "I think my game is starting to come back to the point it was when I won the Masters."

The field of 150 included all of golf's biggest names — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Lee Trevino, Sam Snead, PGA champion Dave Stockton, U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin and Bob Murphy, who won the last of the four Thunderbird Classics held at Upper Montclair in 1968.

"I imagine this is as good a field as you can assemble," said Murphy, whose 1968 victory here was worth less than the runnerup will earn this weekend. "Most anybody who could get here is here."

Casper said he thought a 72-hole score of about 278, 10 under par over the 7,085-yard course, would win, while Palmer was more vague and said "between 275 and 280." Two years ago Murphy won with 277. Palmer shot a four-over-par 76 in Wednesday's pro-Am.

"I like this course, it's a good course, and if I like a course I usually play well on it," said Murphy, who also was a late starter today.

Of those who have played here before, Nicklaus has perhaps the most impressive record despite not winning. He averaged 69.87, more than two under par, for his 16 rounds in four Thunderbirds, but his best finishes were a pair of second places.

Nicklaus holds the course record of 65. Herb Hooper, a rabbit from Richmond, Va., came close to it Wednesday with a 66.

The $300,000 purse in the Dow Jones tournament exceeded the tour's previous high, the $250,000 at Westchester, by $50,000, but Palmer said he doesn't look for any more substantial increase in purses.

First McNally, Now Cuellar For Poor A's

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The sliding Oakland Athletics make their final appearance in Baltimore tonight but the Orioles aren't figuring on playing the role of a gracious host.

Although they lead the American League East by a whopping 11 1-2 games, the Orioles will throw another of their talented lefthanders against the A's. Shooting for his 20th win of the season will be Mike Cuellar. Three nights ago, Dave McNally became the major league's first 20-game winner when he stopped Oakland.

For the A's, it will be Chuck Dobson, who has a 15-11 record.

Baltimore downed Oakland, 5-1, last night to stretch the A's losing streak to five games. The A's are now 7½ games behind Minnesota in the Western Division scramble and four behind second place California.

Another probable 20-game winner for the Orioles, Jim Palmer, stopped Oakland on just six hits. In going the distance for the 16th time this year, Palmer upped his record to 18-7.

Oakland's only damaging blow was Felipe Alou's eighth homer of the season. It came in the fourth inning.

The Orioles, meanwhile, got to Oakland starter and loser Jim Hunter for a pair of runs in the third on Don Buford's home run. Hunter, now 15-12, gave up another run in the fourth before giving way to a string of four relievers.

Bob Locker gave up the other two Oriole runs in the seventh, one of which was unearned.

Giants Can't Do Anything Wrong; Try For Sweep Of Cardinals Today

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The worm apparently has turned for the San Francisco Giants.

Where they couldn't do anything right only a month ago, now, seemingly, they can't do anything wrong.

Yesterday afternoon San Francisco pitching gave up 12 hits, among them two homers, issued six walks, and hit a batter and in addition sow the Cardinals steal six bases, yet the Giants survived for an 8-7 victory over St. Louis.

"That's a pretty good lineup we are using now," said manager Charlie Fox. "I'll say this, if I was on the other side I wouldn't want to pitch against the Giants."

The Giants banged out 12 hits of their own, including homers by Willie Mays (23rd), Dick Dietz (21st) and Willie McCovey (33rd), and while the pitching was nothing to write home about four different throwers managed to make the key outs.

Mays' homer made him the fourth man in history to score 1,900 runs. Only Ty Cobb with 2,245, Babe Ruth with 2,174 and Stan Musial with 1,949 are ahead of him.

Jim Ray Hart, beginning to look more and more like the hitter he was a couple of years ago, won the game with a ninth inning single after a two-out double by Kenny Henderson. It was Hart's second hit of the game and he could have had a double had he run to second since the ball hit in front of the right centerfield fence and bounced over.

"I don't care about a double," Hart said gleefully. The only thing I cared about was seeing Henderson score."

This was a game in which the Giants kept coming from behind to win. The Cardinals reached starter Frank Reberger for three runs in the first and the Giants came back to tie it in the second.

St. Louis went ahead at 4-3 in the fifth and 6-3 in the sixth. Dietz' homer cut the deficit to 6-4 in the sixth and in the seventh the Giants went ahead for the first time at 7-6 as Bobby Bonds hit a triple, Mays singled and McCovey hit a line drive homer.

Reberger and his immediate reliever, Jerry Johnson, were gone by then and Don McMahon, the ace of the San Francisco bullpen, went out to protect the one-run lead in the eighth.

Lou Brock, who had the kind of days most players would like to duplicate, hit McMahon's first pitch for a homer to tie it at 7-7.

When McMahon gave up a single to Dal Maxwill with one out in the ninth, Mike Davison, a lefthander, came on to strike out Davilillo and Brock.

'I brought Vavison in because I didn't want them to steal another base," said Fox. "I was afraid with McMahon (a righthander in there they might try it since they had so much luck stealing earlier in the game.

Brock finished with two singles in addition to his homer, two walks, three runs scored and three stolen bases. Jose Cardenal, Joe Torre and Leron Lee stole the other bases.

The victory was the third in a row for the improve Giants and their ninth in the last 11 games.

"This is the most consistent we've been all year," said Fox.

"I don't say that just because we are winning. It's more a case of the team settling down to playing good ball. You can lose playing well if the breaks go against you.

"Fortunately, the breaks have been going our way lately. I hope it doesn't stop until the season ends."

The Giants try to wrap up the Cardinals, whom they now have beaten seven times in 11 games, today but it won't be easy because Bob Gibson (18-5) pitches for St. Louis. Gaylord Perry (17-12) goes for the Giants.

The Giants haven't beaten Gibson since September 1968 when Perry had to pitch a no-hitter to do it.

PRO FOOTBALL NOTES

49ers Recovering Well From Flu; Stabler Will Work Second Half

San Francisco Forty Niner coach Dick Nolan expects the eight flu victims on his team to be ready for Saturday's game with Denver at Eugene, Ore.

He also said that lineman Elmer Collett, who has had a back injury, and Stan Hindman, who underwent knee surgery last year, probably would see some action in the Broncos' tussle.

For the third straight day yesterday the Prospectors held scoring drills from between the 10 and 15 yard lines. Inability to punch the ball over from down close has cost the Forty Niners two consecutive pre-season setbacks.

Raiders

Kenny Stabler is expected to play the second half of Saturday's home game against tough Green Bay. The southpaw quarterback was a standout in two Raider contests, but then missed last week's battle with Los Angeles because of the death of his father.

Daryle Lamonica will work the first half against the Packers, as usual.

Backs Hewritt Dixon and Rod Sherman missed practice yesterday with injuries but will be in action Saturday. But tight end Ray Chester has a strained knee and will miss the Packer tussle.

Bengals

"Can't anybody here play this game?"

This poignant question was voiced by Casey Stengel upon the mirthful birth of his Mets in 1962. While Paul Brown, the head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals, is undoubtedly a better moulder of syntax than the inimitable Perfessor, he could very well be mulling over the same question as his quarterback problem deepens.

It all started when Greg Cook, the 6-foot-3, 212-pound starting quarterback, one of pro football's outstanding rookies last season, reinjured his chronic throwing arm in training and underwent surgery. Since then, veteran Sam Wyche and rookies Dave Lewis and Jim Del Gaizo have been given looks, and the impression is that Brown has come away dissatisfied.

The impression gained substantiation yesterday as the resourceful Bengals mentor announced the addition of veteran quarterbacks Virgil Carter and Bob Davis to the squad.

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound Carter was obtained from the Buffalo Bills in exchange for an undisclosed 1971 draft choice.

Davis, 6-foot-2, 205 pounds, was picked up after being waived on Tuesday by the New York Giants. In this fourth year as a pro, Davis joined the Giants after serving for three seasons as the reserve quarterback for the Houston Oilers.

Cook, meanwhile, is chafing at the bit at not being able to serve the Bengal cause in the upcoming tussle with the Browns — or anyone else for that matter. Cook is through for the season. He is "completely optimistic," however, that the surgery was a success and he would be back next year, better than ever.

Other News

Two trades, a retirement, and the return of Willie Richardson highlighted the day's other pre-season activities.

Richardson, obtained by the Pittsburgh Steelers from the Colts last week in a trade for Roy Jefferson, returned to training camp after a brief holdout triggered by a contract dispute, and declared he had returned "to play football." Don Rooney, Steelers vice-president, indicated Richardson would receive no increase in pay.

Atlanta's Orlando Cepeda and Mets' Wayne Garrett looked up for a call from the umpire when Cepeda slid into third base in the ninth inning last night at New York. Cepeda was safe and Braves won, 9-7. (Baseball roundup and more photos on page 32).

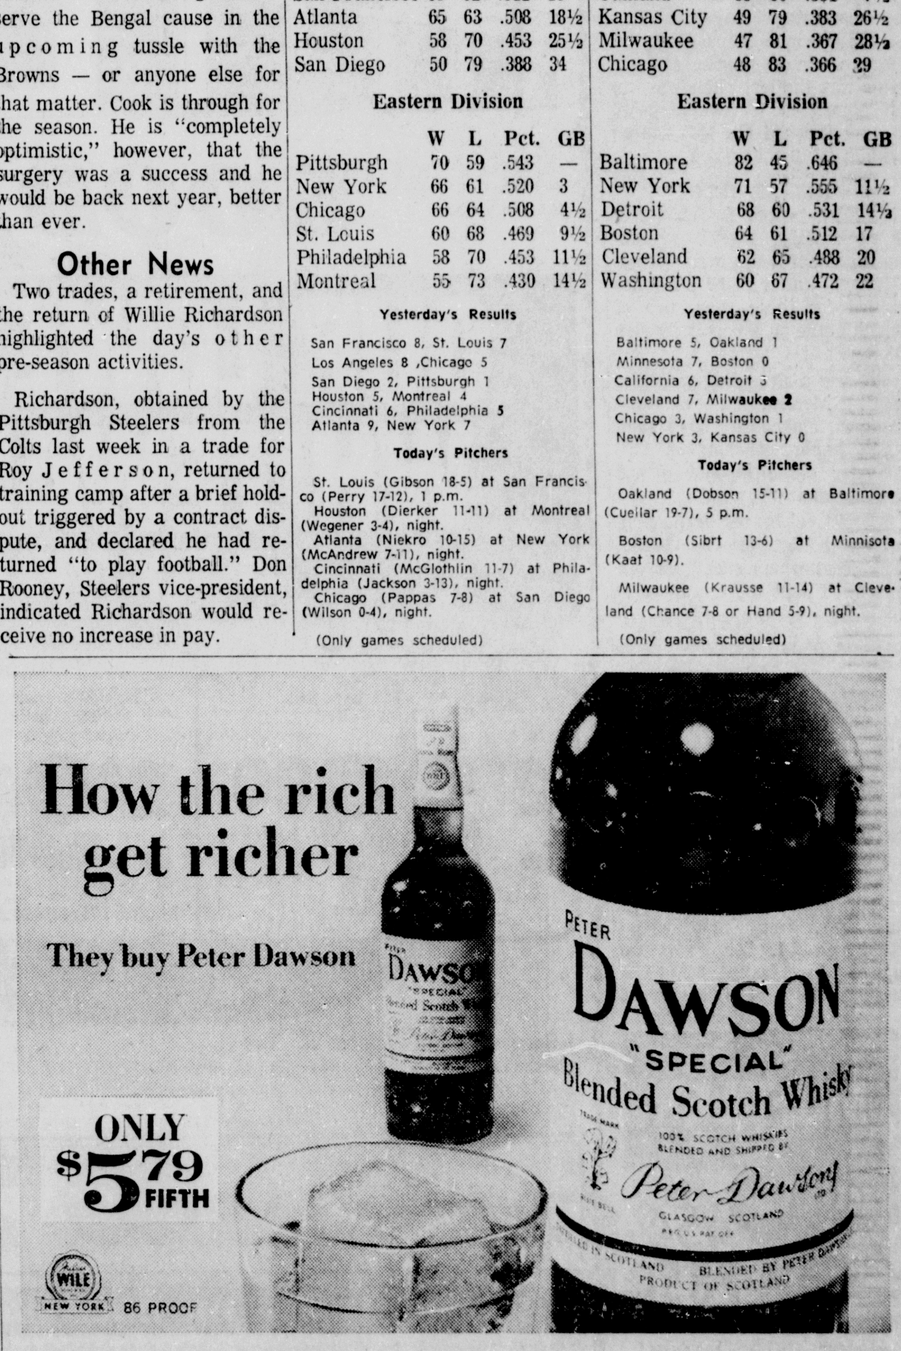
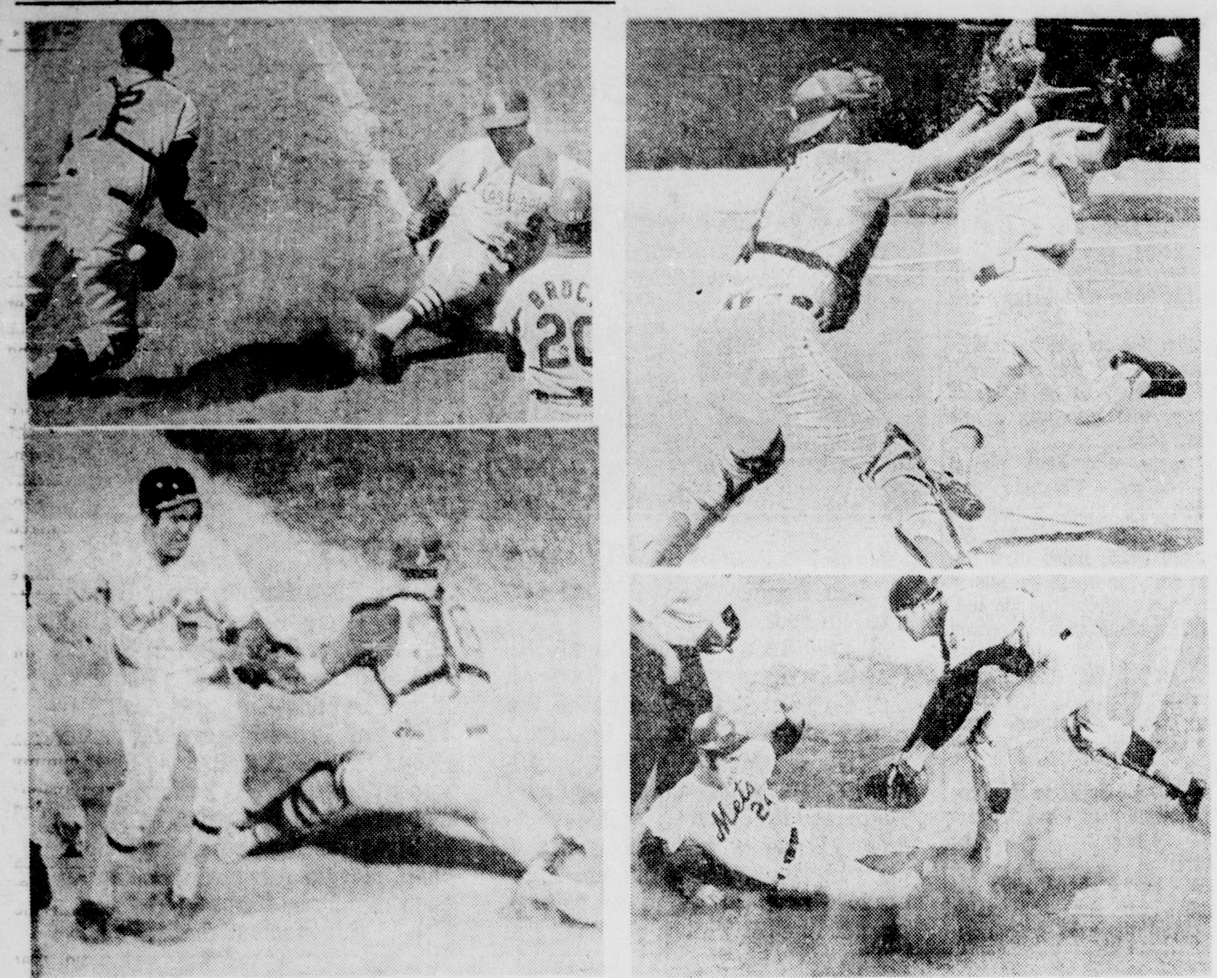
VENTURI RESTING FOLLOWING SURGERY

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) Golfing pro Ken Venturi was resting at Akron City Hospital today following an operation yesterday on his right hand and wrist.

Doctors said they were optimistic the surgery, performed to relieve pressure on the median nerve, was successful. Venturi's condition was listed as satisfactory.

Venturi entered the hospital four days ago. His golfing career has been severely curtailed by his injured hand.





THE PLAY AT THE PLATE—Home plate was a busy place in major league action yesterday. At top left, Cardinals' Joe Torre scored when ball got by Giants' Dick Dietz; top right, Chicago catcher Duane Josephson took the throw in time to nail Senators' Aurelio; lower left, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore slide past Oakland catcher Gene Tenace to score; lower right Atlanta's Bob Tillman puts the tag on Met's Art Shamsky, in time for the out. Cincinnati's Big Red Machine Gets Help From Merritt's Hot Pitching

By NEIL HERSHBERG
By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Whoever said pitching was the "weakness" of the Cincinnati Reds?

Jim Merritt became the National League's first 20-game winner last night as Bernie Carbo's three-run homer in the sixth inning gave the Reds a 6-5 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Merritt joined Baltimore's Dave McNally in the exclusive 20-game winner's circle this season. McNally notched his 20th victory Tuesday night for the Orioles as he reached the mileseone for the third consecutive season.

POTENT HITTING

The Reds, always feared because of their potent hitting attack that has since been dubbed the "Big Red Machine," had never been able to get consistent pitching to complement their heavy bats. Failure to get respectable pitching performances was the only obstacle standing in the way of Cincinnnati and a possible pennant.

But Merritt answered critics of the Cincinnati mound staff by becoming the first Red southpay since Eppa Rixey in 1925 to win 20 games. Sammy Ellis was the last pitcher to win 20 games in a Red uniform, having finished the 1965 season with a 22-10 mark.

RELIEF HELP

Merritt, tagged for 14 hits in 6 2-3 innings, needed seventh inning relief help from Wayne Granger after the Phillies rallied for three runs, two of which came on a homer by Don Money.

"It was a struggling game for me," Merritt, a one-time Dodger clubhouse boy said. "The important thing is that Granger came in and picked me up and we won."

Merritt celebrated by popping a few bottles of champagne. "It's great winning 20," Merritt added. "I hope there is more to come."

MORE WINNERS

With Gary Nolan adding 15 victories, rookie sensation Wayne Simpson chipping in with 14 and ex-Angel Jim McGlothlin contributing 11 triumps it's very unlikely that the Red pitching staff will be the object of much criticism in the near future.

In other National League action, Atlanta downed New York 9-7, San Diego edged Pittsburgh 2-1, San Francisco nipped St. Louis 8-7, Los Angeles defeated Chicago 8-5 and Houston shaded Montreal 5-4.

In American League competition, Baltimore trounced Oakland 5-1, Minnesota blanked Boston 7-0, New York downed Kansas City 3-0, California whipped Detroit 6-3, Cleveland defeated Milwaukee 7-2 and Chicago beat Washington 3-1.

AARON SLAM

Hank Aaron's 35th homer of the season paced the Braves to their come-from-behind win. Aaron belted his homer, the 589th of his career, off reliever Gary Gentry to put Atlanta ahead 8-7 in the ninth inning.

Ed Speizio slammed a two-run homer that gave the Padres their second straight triumph over the Pirates. Pat Dobson needed ninth inning relief help from Tom Dukes to get the win. Dukes struck out Roberto Clemente with the bases loaded.

Jim Lefebvre's three-run homer in the second inning was the big blow in the Dodger win. Wes Parker had opened the inning with an infield single and Andy Kosco followed with a double before Lefebvre delivered his third home run of the season as Claude Osteen won his 14th game.

Denis Menke hit a three-run homer in the ninth to give the Astros their victory over Montreal.

AMERICA'S CUP

Intrepid Wins Everything

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Intrepid, which has been winning almost all the trial races but has not yet been chosen to defend the America's Cup, met Valiant again today in the ninth race of the final U.S. trials while the international contenders, Gretel II of Australia and France, took the day off.

Intrepid, with Bill Ficker of Newport Beach, Calif. at the helm, beat Valiant, skippered by Bob McCullough of Riverside, Conn., by 2:08 yesterday, while Gretel beat France for the third straight time, this time by 2:24, in their best-of-seven series.

It was Intrepid's seventh victory in eight races in the final trials, which started with four 12-meter yachts and now has been cut to two. Valiant has lost three of eight, all to Intrepid. Intrepid has won both races since it has been reduced to a head-to-head competition.

NO FORMULA

However, there is no set formula for the U.S. trials — the yachts simply race until the New York Yacht Club sees fit to make a choice.

"The boats are close together in speed and time," said Ficker tactfully after Wednesday's victory. "But it's clear that we are winning the races — we think that we have demonstrated that we are capable of winning the cup."

The French syndicate, which has changed skippers twice, was changing masts today, and will possibly change skippers again.

The crew was busy exchanging masts with its trial boat, Chancegger, permissible under the rules since both masts are French made. "We will discuss the matter of skipper and crew and will announce a decision Thursday," said Bruno Bich, spokesman for the French syndicate headed by his father, Baron Marcel Bich. The French started with Louis Novarraz as skipper last Friday, but he was replaced by Pierre Delfour when he lost the race. Delfour was beaten Monday and Novarraz was reinstated.

NEW SKIPPER

Sources close to the France said they would not be surprised if Eric Tabarly, famed Trans-Ocean lone yachtsman, or the Baron himself were named helmsman for the fourth race tomorrow.

Australians Abound In U.S. Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — With five Australian men topping the list of 20 seeded men — and a sixth included in the 20 selected — and four Australian girls among the seeded eight women — the draw for the U.S. Open Tennis Championships began today.

Rod Laver, the defending champion in the Sept. 2-13 Forest Hills tournament, topped the list, and was followed in order by Wimbledon champion John Newcombe, Ken Rosewall, Tony Roche and Roy Emerson.

Laver, the winner at Wimbledon, France and Australia as well as in the U.S. last year for his second Grand Slam, was given the honor of the top seed despite his defeat in England in the fourth round this year. He did not defend his French or Australian titles, but in open and professional events this year has won more than $130,000, exceeding his entire earnings of 1969.

Mrs. Margaret Smith Court of Australia was certain of the top spot among the women. The

U.S. Teams Gain In Little League

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — A pair of no-hitters put Highland, Ind., and Wayne, N.J., into the semifinals today in the 24th annual Little League World Series.

Highland turned to Brian Paluga when the scheduled pitcher, Rick Domsic, complained of an ailing arm 10 minutes before game time yesterday and Paluga hurled a no-hitter over Wiesbaden, Germany, 2-0.

Steve O'Neil followed up for Wayne, hurling a no-hitter over Valleyfield, Quebec, 10-0.

Chinandega, Nicaragua, and Campbell, Calif., victors in Tuesday's opening round games, were the opponents for the other semifinal today.

Paluga, a slender right-hander, fanned 10 batters and walked one. The deepest penetration against him was when hit batsman Tim Lonsbury reached third on an error in the sixth inning.

Highland scored both runs in the third when Dale Bouchee walked with one out and moved to second on an infield hit by first baseman Domsic. Paluga hit a 200-foot smash to the right-field wall to score Bouchee and Domsic scored when the relay by David Gallegos was wide of the plate.

O'Neil, a righthander, faced only 20 batters and walked two.

Wayne scored seven runs in the second inning on six singles, a hit batsman, two errors and a solo homer by O'Neil on the first pitch by Daniel Lamadeleine in relief of loser Yvon Therrien.

Wayne collected 14 hits off the two pitchers, including a solo homer by shortstop Len Fruci and two singles and a double, good for three RBI's, by first baseman Mark Epstein.

Tough Assignment For Russian— Match Against Former Ball Boy

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Alexander Metreveli of the U.S.S.R. came to the United States for the first time in 1962.

The Russian, then a 17-year-old, was here to compete in the U.S. junior national tennis championships.

Eight years ago Russian players were under strict surveillance, and they had few moments for themselves. One of the luxuries Alex enjoyed was dinner at the home of the Richard Stocktons in Garden City, N.Y.

Metreveli also had some good practice sessions with Steve Stockton, a fine junior player, and 11-year-old Dickie Stockton was the ball boy.

In the ensuing eight years, Metreveli's star has been rising and he has become the Soviet Union's premier player. Metreveli, in his second visit to the U.S., reached the quarter-finals of the $25,000 Marlboro Open Tennis championship here at the Orange Lawn Tennis club by beating Ray Keldie, of Australia 7-6, 7-6 yesterday.

Today Metreveli draws another tough assignment — his opponent is Dickie Stockton.

The 19-year Trinity University star has really come alive at the Marlboro. A last-minute replacement for Ilie Nastase of Rumania, who withdrew, Stockton registered his second straight upset on beating Jim Osborne of Bountiful, Utah, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. The victory came on the heels of Tuesday's shocker over Aussie Dick Crealy.

Top-seeded Rod Laver, who faces Onny Parun of New Zealand in today's other quarterfinal, struggled a bit for a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Richard Russell of Jamaica, BWI. Russell, hoping to make the U.S. Open without qualifying, improved his stature a bit by dropping only one service to the pro ace.

Other third round winners advancing to the round-of-eight were sixth-seeded Andres Gimeno of Spain and Bos Carmichael of France, an upset winner over fifth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, 4-6, 7-6, 6-2.

Second-seeded Ken Rosewall beat Jean-Lou Royer, of France, 7-5, 6-2 and Gimeno won by the same over Jean Baptiste Chanfreau.

SANDY KOUFAX, BROOKLYN TEEN-AGER, PITCHED HIS FIRST MAJOR LEAGUE VICTORY WHEN HE BLANKED CINCINNATI, 7-0. THE DODGER LEFTY YIELDED TWO HITS AND FANNED 14.

Leonard, 7 Others Hit 170

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)— Seven cars bettered 170 miles an hour in practice laps at the new Ontario Motor Speedway yesterday as drivers familiarized themselves with the course over which the nation's top drivers will compete in the California 500 Sept. 6.

Joe Leonard of San Jose, Calif., for the second straight day turned in the fastest lap as he was clocked in 175.2 miles an hour in his turbocharged Ford. His time was nearly three miles an hour faster than he recorded Tuesday.

Mark Donohue, Media., Pa., had the second fastest time of 172.7. Others who bettered 170 miles an hour were Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., 172.5 mph; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M, 171.7; Jim Malloy, Denver, 17.7; Peter Revson, New York, 170.4 and Mike Mosley, 170.1.

For the second straight day the $25.5 million track was closed early because of blowing dust and sand which obscured the course.

Boston's Harbor— Deep In Debris

BOSTON (UPI)—The New England Division of the Army Corps of Engineers says Boston Harbor's 85-mile coastline is cluttered with three million cubic feet of debris.

"We estimate that removal of this mass of rubble would require a railroad train 19 miles long," Col. Frank P. Bane said Wednesday. "Disposal at sea would entail the use of a barge tow three miles long," he said.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL NOTES

Cougars Are Sharp

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)— The Washington State Cougars hold their first contact drill today after three days of workouts in shorts.

Coach Jim Sweeney said his quarterbacks are looking sharp and predicted an effective aerial game this season if the offensive line can provide protection.

But Sweeney said he doesn't know who his starting signal-caller will be. Sophs Ty Paine and Mike Mickas along with Jack Wigmore and Gary Gergan are all fighting for the job.

Because of the weight of the ball (which is located entirely on the right side of the body), many women will slant their approach that way. As a result the ball moves to the right of the target and, of course, causes misses. Periodically check your left foot position at the start and at the finish to be sure you've moved directly toward the foul line (see today's illustration).

CALIFORNIA

BERKELEY (UPI)—Two ailing University of California gridders will be back in action at the Bears' first contact drill today, but a third one is out for the season.

Number one quarterback Dave Penhall and runner Tim Todd are back at drills, but fullback Steve Munson could not get a clearance from doctors to play. He suffered a head injury last season.

STANFORD

STANFORD (UPI) — The stanford Indians want a punter.

With Bob Reinhard gone, they looked for one yesterday with Jack Laater, Steve Murray and Ted Bleymaier all trying out their toes.

OREGON STATE

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)— Coach Dee Andros has made several position changes after Oregon State concluded three days of padless drills preparing for the fall season.

Fred Jaross, a sophomore just back after two years in the army, was moved from defensive guard to offensive center. Sophomore Jim Burris, Sacramento, Calif., was changed from defensive tackle to defensive guard, and defensive end Scott Woods was moved to defensive tackle.

The team puts on pads for the first time today.

OREGON

Eugene, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon players put up a dummy offense as the defense yesterday stressed fundamentals and pass coverage.

Tommy Graham, All-America candidate and all-coast lineman, missed practice with the flu.

Coach Jerry Frei said that the team accomplished everyq thing in the first three days he wanted them to and he was looking forward to todays contact drills.

Women's Liberation Take Note—Mann Meets Sanders

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) —The women's liberation movement receives a tough test Sunday when powerhitting Carol Mann meets Doug Sanders in a battle of golf pros.

Miss Mann, whose 6-3 frame towers over the 5 10-1-2 Sanders, is the all-time women's money winner with earnings of $203,000 in 10 years on the LPGA tour. Sanders ranks eighth among the men with winnings of over a half million dollars in 15 years of tourney play.

The confrontation at the Big G. links here is for $2,500 and could answer the question whether a brilliant woman golfer can beat a top male professional.

There isn't too much difference in the power swing of the two. Miss Mann averages 230 yards off the tee, about 15 or 20 yards less than Sanders. But she will have the advantage of swinging from the women's shorter tees.

"I hope that by beating Doug I will help to raise the level of women's golf purses and win some recognition on television for them," explained Miss Mann.

Honor Day For America At University Olympics

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — The United States swam into the first full day of competition at the sixth University Olympics today with nine medals already in its trophy bag.

America's men swimmers placed first and second in all four of finals already staged and the Girls managed to get two silver and a bronze in their two swimming events.

Swimming highlighted the first two days of the games—a sort of kid brother to the olympics—in which some 3,000 college athletes from 64 nations are competing in nine sports.

American distance swimmers Andy Strenk and Steve Genter capped an honor-filled day for the United States team by winning first and second in the 1,500 mens freestyle event, judged on times. Strenk took the event in 16:43.1, Wladislaw Wojtakajtis of Poland was third.

Russian swimmers made a strong showing in the first events, however, especially in the women's categories, and indicated a tough two-way battle between the two teams for the overall unofficial title.

John Ferris of Sacramento, Calif., grabbed the first American gold by edging Jerry Heidenreich of Dallas to win the 100-meter butterfly in 57.5. Japan's Yasuo Takada was third nearly two seconds back.

Frank Heckl and Dan Frawley, both of Los Angeles, also scored a one-two victory. They edged Russia's Leonid Ilychev in tme 100-meter freestyle.

The American girls had their problems, though, Galina Stepanova of Russia set a university Olympic record in winning the 200-meter breaststroke. Linday Kurtz of Castro Valley, Calif., fought from behind to take second place by a half a stroke from Russia's powerful Anna Grebennikova.

Miss Grebennikova had set a university olympics record during the preliminaries and her teammate, Miss Stepanova, bettered that, clocking 2:45.4.

In the 100-meter women's freestyle, two American girls followed Yugoslavia's Mirjana Sergrt all the way. Marcia McCuen of Fullerton, Calif., and Laura Fritz of Las Vegas placed second and third.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

It's Always Fun To Make Life Interesting For Foes

One of the most interesting things that can happen to you as a defender is to play the ace of trumps and find that your partner must play the king on the trick. It's equally interesting to step up with the king of trumps and find that your partner must play the ace. In today's hand, the key to success is to make life interesting for your opponents.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

TRY FINESSE

West leads the queen of clubs, and you win in dummy with the king. You try a finesse with the queen of spades since if that works you can limit the loss of two trumps and one club.

Unfortunately for you, West wins with the king of spades and returns to the attack by leading the jack of clubs. You win with the ace of clubs and lead the other spade to the ace. And then you lead the jack of spades. If all goes well, you will discard the low club from dummy.

Your misfortunes are not yet over. West ruffs with the four of trumps. You overruff in dummy, return to your hand with the ace of diamonds and lead a low spade. West discards a diamond, and you ruff in dummy again.

SPADE IS GOOD

By now your last spade is good. You return to your hand by ruffing a diamond and lead the laft spade. You discard the losing club from dummy, not caring who ruffs.

If either opponent must ruff with a high trump, you are satisfied because you will lose only two trumps and a spade. The club loser disappears.

LEAD A TRUMP

As it happens, East ruffs with the five of trumps. He returns a diamond, and you ruff again. Now you make life interesting for the opponents by leading a trump. Since each opponent has ruffed once with a low trump, the ace and king fall on the same trick, and you score your game contract.

If you can get away with it, murmur "careless!" as the high trumps fall together. Your opponents will enjoy this little touch of humor.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, you respond two diamonds, and he bids two hearts.

You hold:
♠ - A 4
♥ - K 6
♦ - K 8 7 5 2
♣ - Q J 10 8.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid 3-no-trumps.

Since you have 13 points in high cards opposite an opening bid, you must make sure of getting to the game. A bid of only 2-no-trump would not be forcing; and partner might drop you there if he had a minimum opening bid.

A thought for the day: Davy Crockett said, "I leave this rule for others when I am dead; be always sure you're right, and then go ahead."

Drug Center Gets $500 Grant

An emergency $500 grant has been awarded by Marin Charitable Foundation to Center Point, the San Rafael program for former drug addicts, the donors have announced.

The program, itself founded by two former drug users, is to receive two more grants from private foundations, but says it needs more funds to remain open until October.

Contributions of money and food are being accepted at the organization located at 805 D Street.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Elderly Should Avoid Uncertain Investment

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. At age 72, with moderate income, would it be advisable to withdraw $5,000 from a 6 per cent savings account to invest in Norfolk & Western? Shares yield 9 per cent with the likelihood of a small increment in value.—L.T.

A. Norfolk & Western reported lower earnings again in the second quarter. For the full six months, net was equal to $2.88 a share, down from $4.49 in the like 1969 period, despite a 5 per cent gain in gross revenues. While this is an efficiently run road, the company has not escaped general industry difficulties. Working capital has shrunk to less than half the 1964 level, and the company has been plowing back more into the business than it has been taking in, according to management. The recent dividend cut to $1.25 from $1.50 quarterly will reduce cash outflow by $10 million (annualized) and will help bolster working capital. The somewhat excessive 9 per cent yield availabe in these shares serves to underscore investors' ambivalence in assessing the outlook for the industry. Considering your age I would content myself with the less generous 6 per cent rate in the knowledge that my capital would be intact.

Q. I am interested in buying American Investors, a no-load mutual fund, but before doing so would like some information on it. — L.M.

A. It is refreshing to hear from someone who is willing to look before he leaps. Until 1969 American Investors was a strong performer. Its record in the last 20 months, although typical for a performance fund, shows a steady decline in net asset value. American Investors has a relatively modest portfolio turnover rate for its category and an average or below expense ratio. Recent portfolio changes have reduced commitments in the petroleum, real-estate development and building industries. The office equipment, insurance and drug and hospital supply fields were heavily represented in new purchases. There is no minimum amount required for either new or subsequent purchases.

Stocks On Mixed Side Near Close

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned mixed in moderate volume today as trading swung into the final hour.

Shortly before 2:30 p.m. the Dow Jones Industrial Average eased 0.20 to 760.27. Advances led declines, 647 to 542, among the 1,516 issues crossing the tape.

The four-hour volume of 9,570,000 shares was well under the 11,480,000 shares traded in a comparable period yesterday.

News that leading business indicators rose in July touched off a brief rally at mid-session.

The commerce Department announced that the index of leading business indicators show the largest gain in July since the spring of 1969.

Harold C. Passer, Assistant Commerce Secretary for Economic Affairs, said the report "provides solid support for the expectation that business activity is resuming its advance."

However, there were signs of profit taking and analysts said the market, after seven consecutive advances, was ripe for some normal consolidation.

Eastern Air Lines, Celanese, Chrysler, and Uniroyal were actively traded issues.

Most major groups moved in fractions.

Prices were firm in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

National Biscuit Set For Ties With Japan

Mill Valley Planners, Council Closing Rift

Mill Valley's planning commission and city council, on the verge of a rift over divergent decisions, narrowed their communications gap last night.

They laid the ground work for improved communication amidst reminders that their decisions will determine the kind of place Mill Valley will become.

The meeting came in the aftermath of commission ire because the council had rejected its recommendation for cluster development in Alto Bowl, a development which had posed for the city the question of how much density it would allow the developer in return for open space.

Mayor George E. Wickham said although the council didn't always agree with commission recommendations, it did have confidence in the commission.

Planning Commission Chairman Robert E. Burton said the commission was seeking "to develop more trust in each other and a better and more orderly planning process."

Commissioner Edward Farrell wondered how there could be "an orderly planning process" when the council overturned "in one, two or three meetings" what the commission had worked on for 18 months. "I feel this is putting planning in the political arena."

Councilman Robert H. Andresen challenged the assumption that "the city council summarily overruled decisions of the planning commission." The council has "agonized long and hard over every decision," he said.

Concerning the political area, Andresen commented: "We are more directly responsible and perhaps more keenly feel the pressure of public opinion."

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke explained that in making decisions he weighed the advantages to the city, in the cases of increasing density, he weighed what the city would get in return.

Commissioner Sally Garoutte felt there was a tendency on the part of the council "to preserve what we have, the way we have it."

Wickham said he has seen a lot of changes in Mill Valley and observed that the city has "a lot of environments" and each area "has a different look."

Andresen said his aim was the preserving of a "semi-rural situation" in Mill Valley. "I'm trying to avoid urbanization of this community."

Commissioner Ivan S. Poutiatine spoke of the relentless population increase, which he said will "act on our little community," and "we can't shut them out."

One man said that Mill Valley could end up as an all-white, wealthy community, but "there are poor people, black people, old people and young people, and they all have to have a place to live."

Farrell said the commission "in a limited way" has the power to make decisions that will determine who will live in Mill Valley in 10 years.

In response to a call by Farrell for planning studies, Wickham said: "I think the planning commission is a better planner than someone you hire from San Diego or Seattle."

Commissioner Paul E. Rosenthal felt that the "startling differences" between the commission and the council might have come about because the council didn't have sufficient documentation or sufficient information about the commission's reasons.

Andresen said he was bothered because the materials he received from the planning commission didn't include the planning staff report.

Farrell said the present method of measuring density, by dwelling units, was clumsy and didn't accurately tell the impact of the density on the community.

Mayor Wickham summed up as steps that would improve communication, a common definition of density, improved use of liaison representatives between the two bodies, and council receipt of planning staff reports.

It was proposed that the density study and the housing study be topics for another joint meeting of the council and commission.

The council adjourned until 7:30 p.m. today at City Hall to adopt the 1970-71 city budget and set the tax rate.

Why Cranston Supports Big Lockheed Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Alan Cranston, D-calif., says he supported a $200 million fund to help the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. continue producing C5A aircraft for both security and economic reasons.

Cranston said Wednesday the C5A was needed for defense reasons and bankrupty for the huge aerospace firm would would mean loss of jobs throughout the country.

But the California Democrat denied he voted against a restrictive amendment offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., because of its impact on California alone.

"The C5A is not a local issue," he said. "I oppose wasteful and counterproductive spending in the guise of national defense no matter where the affected industries are located, in California or elsewhere."
